Each year, Bishop Mark Brennan celebrates Holy Week and Easter with the faithful of different parishes across the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston. This year, he traveled to Richwood for the celebration of Palm Sunday Masses at Holy Family Parish. He is pictured above blessing the palms. With him are altar servers Kevin and Nathan, the grandsons of Holy Family parishioners Pam and Frank Hitt. Bishop Brennan went on to celebrate the Chrism Masses at the Basilica of the Co-Cathedral of the Sacred Heart in Charleston April 11 and the next day at the Cathedral of St. Joseph in Wheeling. He returned to Charleston for Holy Thursday Mass at the basilica and will be with the faithful of St. Brendan Parish in Elkins for Good Friday at 7 p.m. this evening (April 15). For Holy Saturday, April 16, the bishop will celebrate the Easter Vigil at Sacred Heart Parish in Chester at 8 p.m. and Easter Sunday Mass at the cathedral in Wheeling at 10:30 a.m. Courtesy Photo

To Report Suspected Cases of Sexual Abuse of Children:
The Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston encourages reporting to civil authorities first and foremost if a crime has been committed. We also encourage utilizing www.reportbishopabuse.org to make a report about any bishop in the U.S. If you have reason to believe that a bishop has engaged in sexual misconduct or has interfered with an investigation into sexual misconduct, please contact civil authorities in the applicable jurisdiction and visit www.reportbishopabuse.org.

To Report to Diocesan Authorities: Contact your local law enforcement: numbers will vary based on your location. If you believe someone is in immediate danger, call 911. To confidentially report any incidence of suspected child abuse or neglect, including sexual abuse, contact the West Virginia Bureau for Children and Families’ Child Protective Services by calling the Child Abuse Hotline at 800.352.6513. You may report anonymously to this hotline if you prefer.

To Report to Diocesan Authorities: The Diocese encourages reporting to the appropriate civil authorities first and foremost if a crime has been committed. The diocese also encourages reporting to the appropriate church authorities. To report suspected cases of sexual abuse of children by personnel of the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston to the Diocese, contact one of the following designees at 1.888.454.6257 or 304.233.0880: Mr. Bryan Minor, ext. 263; Mr. Tim Bishop, ext. 353; or Rev. Dennis Schuelens, Jr., V.E., ext. 270. You may also call the Diocese’s Office of Safe Environment at 304.230.1504. You may also call the Diocese’s sexual abuse hotline at 833.230.5656. Complaint forms are available online at www.dwc.org, click “Diocese” on the menu bar, then “Offices,” then “Safe Environments,” then “Download Files and Forms.” The form is titled “Complaint Form for Allegations of Sexual Abuse of a Minor.” The form may be returned via U.S. mail to Office of Safe Environment, Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston, PO Box 230, Wheeling WV 26003.

To Report to the Diocese’s Victim Assistance Coordinator: please call Dr. Patricia Bailey at 304.242.6988.

In addition to the methods listed above for reporting sexual abuse, the Diocese also has partnered with Navex Global to offer the EthicsPoint platform to report other, additional concerns, such as suspected financial, professional, and personal misconduct of a priest, deacon, religious, or lay employee of the Diocese or any Catholic parish or school in West Virginia. The EthicsPoint platform can be accessed via www.dwc.org, under “Accountability,” then “Report Misconduct” or by calling 844.723.8381. EthicsPoint is a third-party reporting system that reports to civil authorities where applicable and Diocesan authorities, and the identity of the person reporting is protected.

Sexual Abuse Awareness Training
The U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops (USCCB) requires that all Diocesan offices have in place a Safe Environment Program for the protection of children and young people. In accordance with these requirements, the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston’s Safe Environment Program consists of the following:

1. Orientation for personnel seeking employment or volunteering for, or indirectly—with children: background check; receipt of the Diocese’s Policy Relating to Sexual Abuse of Children; and sexual abuse awareness training for adults. Sexual abuse awareness training may be completed online or via live workshops. For more information on the Office of Safe Environment, please go to www.dwc.org, click “Diocese,” then “Offices,” then “Office of Safe Environment.”

Catholic Charities West Virginia Announces Charity in Action Award Honorees

Catholic Charities West Virginia (CCWVa) will host its Shining a Light on Hope Virtual Gala on Thursday, April 21. The Gala will broadcast at 7:00 p.m. on WTRF-7 in Wheeling and on CCWVa’s website at: www.CatholicCharitiesWV.org/Gala2022.

“This is a unique chance for our whole community to peek behind the scenes and learn more about how we serve this region. And we’re continuing our tradition of recognizing leaders in the community who demonstrate true Charity in Action,” said Beth Zarate, CCWVa President and Chief Executive Officer.

CCWVa offers a network of services supporting infants to seniors. The agency collaborates with individuals and community partners to support people who need food, hospitality, utility bill assistance, child care assistance, home care services and much more.

“The pandemic hit our clients especially hard. Our awardees stepped up in a profound way, helping us provide more critical support than ever before,” said Zarate.

The recipients of the 2022 Charity in Action Award are The House of Hagar and Kate Marshall, Quenton Northcraft, and St. Vincent de Paul Parish Food Pantry (New Martinsville).

The House of Hagar, HoH Share and Kate Marshall
Kate Marshall serves as the founder and Executive Director of HoH Share Inc, a non-profit to give voice to the underrepresented and provide resources to the underserved communities of Wheeling, West Virginia. HoH-Share Inc. was founded after realizing there frequently is a disconnect between social services and the people who needed them, often because the whole-picture realities of the poor are frequently misunderstood.

Kate’s work specializes in advocacy, working with those experiencing homelessness, poverty, judicially impacted peoples, as well as many other social justice issues. “Kate and her family have developed a large cadre of volunteers who assist them in providing homeless people with food, clothing and other necessities,” said Janet Boyle, CCWVa Board Member. “They quite literally practice the Corporal and Spiritual works of mercy daily.”

Quenton Northcraft
Quenton Northcraft has a passion for service, and he uses his talents and gifts to improve the lives of other people. He is a devoted volunteer at Catholic Charities Neighborhood Center in Wheeling.

“They treat their neighbors with quiet compassion,” said Boyle. “During a visit to HoH, one might be hard pressed to distinguish See “Honorees” on Page 5 the volunteers from the neighbors in need, because all interactions are driven by kindness and respect.”

“Quenton’s thoughtful and strategic approach is evident in everything he does,” said Trish Whitelatch, CCWVa Northern Regional Director. “He noticed that some of the carts at the Center were not in good repair, making it difficult to move donated food and goods. He donated two carts that are much easier to maneuver and can be used for multiple purposes. This is just one example of how Quenton has helped us become more efficient so we can improve our services.”

In addition to sharing his time and talent with Catholic Charities, Quenton volunteers at the Mother Jones Center for Resilient Community.

“We, the staff and the neighbors at Catholic Charities Neighborhood Center are blessed to count Quenton among our faithful volunteers,” said Whitelatch.

St. Vincent de Paul Parish Food Pantry
St. Vincent de Paul Parish in New Martinsville, West Virginia, coordinates a Catholic Charities West Virginia pantry that is now exclusively volunteer-run. When Catholic Charities was working to find staff for its food pantry at St. Vincent, Msgr. Kevin Quirk, the pastor, suggested that the parish would find a way to operate without paid staff, allowing all funding to go directly to those served.

“St. Vincent de Paul Parish in New Martinsville deserves special recognition for the kindness, selflessness and charity of their administration and parishioners,” said Mark Phillips, CCWVa Chief Operating Officer.

Despite the fact that they have no paid employees, they regularly distribute food, hygiene items, and cleaning supplies as well as provide emergency financial assistance for rent and utility payments.

Cecilia Wetzel, the lead volunteer, along with parishioners from St. Vincent de Paul, St. Joseph, Holy Rosary, and Mater Dolorosa are an integral part of this volunteer team.

“The volunteers at St. Vincent de Paul Parish Food Pantry truly exemplify their patron saint’s commitment to people in need,” said Phillips.

“We are grateful for and inspired by many partners who walk this journey with us, and we’re honored to recognize these dedicated individuals,” said Zarate.

Proceeds from the Gala support CCWVa’s programs and services in 17 counties in northern West Virginia.

As part of the Gala, CCWVa will host a virtual auction. The auction will be available at bidpal.net/CCWVa from April 17-24, closing at 9:00 p.m. on April 24. The Gala is presented through the generosity of lead sponsor, WVU Medicine; and major sponsor, the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston.

More details are available on CCWVa’s website at: www.CatholicCharitiesWV.org/Gala2022.
All Saints Parish to Host 10th Community Conversation on Substance Use Disorder

By Colleen Rowan

WHEELING—The Parish Pastoral Council at St. Michael’s in Wheeling recently announced goals for the future of the parish.

In a letter to parishioners in the April 10 parish bulletin, the council said that after much dialogue, discussion, and discernment the council has selected three primary goals as part of its long-term action plan: Spiritual Enrichment, Evangelization, and Stewardship of St. Michael Parish and School.

Beginning with the goal of Spiritual Enrichment, the council is focusing on three action items: more group liturgy and sacrament study sessions, enhanced training for liturgical ministries, and maximize educational opportunities within faith formation groups and parish community.

“We are already underway with some of these action items, but we will need your help moving forward in making these goals successful...” the council wrote to fellow parishioners. The council said it will be reaching out to various resources in the parish community and invited parishioners who have ideas or want to help with the initial action items to become involved.

“Let’s work together to make our St. Michael Parish the ultimate synodal church,” the council wrote.

Father Carlos Melocoton, pastor St. Michael Parish and School, told The Catholic Spirit that spiritual enrichment is vital.

“We cannot give what we do not have,” he said. “Without proper nourishment in our spirituality, we do not have the resources to share with others. Our study of theology has vast branches to cover for our spiritual wellbeing. We must tap those resources. We must not forget that in a parish we encounter different levels/categories of individuals and they come from different backgrounds and formation.”

Father Melocoton continued by saying that enriching parish leadership and parishioners with a variety of educational formation, devotions, and practices might awaken their zeal to further their understanding of spirituality and religion.

As evangelization is the sharing of faith, Father Melocoton emphasized that the Acts of the Apostles gives the faithful the foundation on how do the work of sharing Christ with others.

“Apostles’ witness of faith sharing comes with strides and difficulties,” he said. “It is necessary that parish leadership as well as the rest of the parish community recognizes the ‘cross’ of evangelization. Looking at the works of the early fathers and the saints, such passion is inspiring for us to take on the task of sharing Christ in our life towards our neighbors. Jesus shared himself with us through his incarnate, he did evangelize us first to bring us strength and hope.”

Lastly, he said stewardship takes on the business of ‘mixing all our ingredients to make a perfect salad.’ Collaborative ministry, he said, is a successful venture when one knows their gifts and are willing to offer them with trust, respect, and charity.

“Our time, talent, and treasures are important to our parish ministry,” Father Melocoton said. “The more we allow our members to be part of the whole ministry with utmost understanding and respect for collaboration of gifts makes the life of a pastor less stressful.”

Parishes often struggle with continuity in their parish mission every time there are changes in their pastoral leadership, Father Melocoton said. “We look at avenues where there will be a continuity and longevity of mission regardless of changes in leadership and we come up with three areas which are equally vital in parish ministry,” he said.

The goals of the parish pastoral council will always be present in different forms within the life of an active and missionary parish, Father Melocoton said.

“I am happy that St. Michael parishioners are willing to take the risk of blending their gifts, though sometimes very challenging,” he said, “but the goal is to produce good fruits.”

St. Anges Parish, Shepherdstown, to Host Concert to Benefit Ukrainian Relief

SHEPHERDSTOWN—Shepherd University’s Guitar Ensemble will present a concert to benefit Ukrainian relief on Sunday, April 24, at 3 p.m. at St. Agnes Church in Shepherdstown.

The concert will feature solo and ensemble selections. Shepherd’s Guitar Ensemble will present arrangements of familiar songs by The Beatles, and two pieces by Swiss guitarist, percussionist, and composer Jürg Kindle titled “Berimbao” and “Funky”. “Berimbao”, subtitled “Percussion Guitar Music No.1, Quartet No. 3”, is based on African and Afro Cuban rhythms and attempts to imitate ancient percussion instruments. The guitar arrangement requires guitarist to strike the string with a stick. “Funky” is an up-tempo, fresh arrangement for ensemble with pop, disco, and funk riffs that the players really enjoy. The concert will also include solo classical and contemporary works by students.

Dr. Candice Mowbray is the director of Shepherd’s guitar program, and she is assisted this semester by Hart Wells, the director of Guitar for Potomac Falls High School in Sterling, Va.

Admission to this concert is free. All donations to St. Agnes at this concert will be directed to ongoing Ukrainian relief efforts and would be sincerely appreciated.

For more information, contact Robert Tudor, dean of the College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences at Shepherd, at rtudor@shepherd.edu.

Eucharistic Revival Called ‘a Movement’ That Gets to Core of Catholic Faith

By Julie Asher Catholic News Service

WASHINGTON (CNS) — The U.S. Catholic Church’s three-year eucharistic revival about to get underway “is not a program but a movement” that is an invitation to the faithful from God to go on mission and be compelling witnesses of our faith, said Tim Glemkowski, the newly named executive director of the National Eucharistic Congress.

“We the church have to be clear about telling our story, getting to the core of our faith, that ‘God is not just some distant someone who is not engaged,’ he told Catholic News Service April 5. “He’s alive and real and can be encountered in the Eucharist, source and summit of the faith. ... This is where God is with us.”

The National Eucharistic Revival begins June 16, the feast of Corpus Christi, and culminates with the National Eucharistic Congress in Indianapolis in 2024. Along the way, there will be parish, diocesan and regional events to increase Catholics’ understanding of the Real Presence in the Eucharist.

The first year will get underway at the parish and diocesan levels with initiatives such as eucharistic adoration and processions, the development of parish teams of revival leaders and conferences on the Eucharist.

The following year there will be regional revival events, leading to the eucharistic congress in Indianapolis in 2024, the first to be held since one took place in 1976 in Philadelphia. It is expected to draw at least 80,000 from across the country.

The U.S. bishops approved plans for the revival and the congress last November during their fall general assembly in Baltimore. Both are being spearheaded by the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops’ Committee on Evangelization and Catechesis, chaired by Bishop Andrew H. Cozzens of Crookston, Minnesota.

As chairman of the board of the National Eucharistic Congress Inc., Bishop Cozzens announced Glemkowski’s appointment April 4.

“Tim is a real leader with a heart on fire for Jesus Christ and a desire to invite people to encounter his love in the Eucharist,” Bishop Cozzens said in a statement.

“He brings a unique blend of skill sets to this important role — from strategic vision and operational excellence to theological insight and a missionary mindset. ... He lives and breathes the call of Pope Francis for a pastoral and missionary conversion of the church,” the bishop added.

National Eucharistic Congress Inc. was instituted earlier this year, and a national search was conducted for an executive director to lead the newly established entity.

“God is doing something important in his church through this multiyear national eucharistic revival,” Glemkowski said in a statement after his appointment was announced. “At its core, I believe the congress is a critical moment for how we fulfill Pope Francis’ vision of becoming a more missionary church.”

He added, “It is the fire of charity, born in our hearts from the reception of Jesus in the Eucharist, which impels us on mission. This is a phenomenal opportunity for our church to draw closer to Christ and to be prepared to better share him with our postmodern world.”

Until he was chosen for his new position, Glemkowski had been working for the Archdiocese of Denver in evangelization and strategy. Before that, he was founding president of the Chicago-based L’Alto Catholic Institute, which works with parishes to meet “the challenges and opportunities” of the evangelization mission.

A native of the Chicago area, Glemkowski has a bachelor’s degree in philosophy and theology from the Franciscan University of Steubenville, Ohio, and a master’s in theology from the Augustine Institute in the Denver Archdiocese.

He and his wife, Maggie, have three children, ages 6, 4 and 1. They are members of Light of the World Parish in suburban Denver.

“The heart of Vatican II is the characteristic revival ‘by providing a doctrinal resource for parishes, catechists and the faithful.’

In addition, the Notre Dame Center for Liturgy at the University of Notre Dame’s McGrath Institute for Church Life has launched a new initiative for 2022 on fostering an eucharistic culture in parishes, schools, and dioceses as a way of promoting deeper affiliation with the church.

Bishops from Four Continents Express Concern about Germany’s Synodal Path

By Greg Erlandson, Catholic News Service

WASHINGTON (CNS) — In an open letter, 74 bishops from North America, Africa, Italy and Australia have expressed their “growing concern” about the German Synodal Path process and content, warning about its “potential for schism.”

Joining recent letters of concern by the Nordic and Polish bishops, the “fraternal open letter to our brother bishops in Germany” said “the Synodal Path’s actions undermine the credibility of church authority, including that of Pope Francis.”

“By its destructive example, it may lead some bishops, and will lead many otherwise faithful laypeople, to distrust the very idea of ‘synodality,’ thus further impeding the church’s necessary conversation about fulfilling the mission of converting and sanctifying the world,” the letter concluded.

All told, 49 bishops from the U.S., four from Canada, 19 Africans, one Italian and one Australian signed the letter. The letter was made public April 12 after having been sent to the German bishops April 11. The German bishops, responding to ongoing revelations of clerical sexual abuse and how bishops mishandled such cases, see the Synodal Path process as addressing the exercise of power and authority in the church; sexual morality; the priesthood; and the role of women.

The German bishops are keenly aware of the concerns of other conferences about the direction their Synodal Path is taking. Limburg Bishop Georg Bätzing, president of the German bishops’ conference, has admitted that there were highly divergent opinions on issues such as blessing ceremonies for same-sex couples or the ordination of women as deacons or priests.

“In its effect, the Synodal Path disempowers the church,” it said. “It is adapted ‘to the spirit of the times.’ Transformation ‘calls for pastoral conversion,’” he said.

“Brothers and sisters, let us care for one another and be attentive to the temptation of the father of lies and division, the master of separation who, in pushing us to seek an apparent good or a response to a given situation, in fact ends up fragmenting the body of the holy and faithful people of God,” the pope said.

He also warned against a temptation to use evangelization as something that is adapted “to the spirit of the times.”

Concerns about divisions and responding to pressures of the times are some of the main issues cited by those European bishops who have voiced their concerns publicly.

In response to the letter by the Polish bishops, Bishop Bätzing rejected the accusation that the reform process in Germany was watering down church doctrine and bowing to the spirit of the times. “We do not walk the path of conversion and renewal lightly, and certainly not outside the universal church,” the German bishop said. “Several times I had the opportunity to speak with Pope Francis about the Synodal Path.”

Bishop Bätzing said the German church was doing exactly what Pope Francis asked of the nation’s Catholics in 2019, that is, embarking on a “spiritual journey in asking for the guidance of the Holy Spirit.” The public criticism of one bishops’ conference by others is highly unusual, but within Germany as well there has been debate about the Synodal Path process.

Stop Fueling the Madness, the Monster of War, Pope Says in New Book

By Carol Glatz, Catholic News Service

VATICAN CITY (CNS) — To wage war, which marks a failure of politics and humanity, is to surrender to the forces of evil, Pope Francis wrote in a new book.

"War is not the solution, war is madness, war is a monster, war is a cancer that feeds off itself, engulfing everything!" he wrote.

And he added, "war is a sacrilege that wreaks havoc on what is most precious on our earth: human life, the innocence of the little ones, the beauty of creation."

The pope’s remarks were part of the introduction of a new book in Italian, titled, "Contro la Guerra. Il Coraggio di Costruire la Pace" ("Against War. The Courage to Build Peace"), published April 13. The 192-page book, published by Salerfino press and the Vatican publishing house, was to be released April 14.

"Every war represents not only a defeat of politics but also a shameful surrender in the face of the forces of evil," the pope wrote in the introduction.

When people allow themselves to be "devoured by this monster represented by war," he wrote, then "every life lost, every creature lessened by God’s creatures, we commit sacrilege and prepare a future of death for our children and grandchildren."

"Greed, intolerance, ambition for power, violence are motives that advance the decision for war, and these motives are often justified by a war ideology that forgets the immeasurable dignity of human life, of every human life, and the respect and care we owe it," the pope wrote.

War, he wrote, "is pure madness, its only goal is destruction, and it develops and grows through destruction," he wrote, blaming people’s failure to remember the past or to listen to what others experienced during the “barbarity” of war.

"If we had memory, we would remember what our grandparents and parents told us, and we would feel the need for peace just as our lungs need oxygen," he wrote.

The pope recalled the destruction "caused by war, fratricidal violence and terrorism" he witnessed during his pilgrimage to "martyred Iraq" in 2021.

"I saw the rubble of homes and the wounds of hearts, but also seeds of hope for rebirth. Never would I have imagined then that one year later a conflict would break out in Europe," he wrote, highlighting the conflict in Ukraine, but also giving voice to the many other wars and "forgotten wars" going on around the world.

"These wars seemed ‘distant’ to us," until war broke out in Europe, he wrote.

"Ukraine has been attacked and invaded," and those affected include so many innocent civilians, "forced to live in shelters dug in the belly of the earth to escape the bombs, with families that are divided because the husbands, fathers, grandfathers remain to fight, while the wives, mothers and grandmothers seek refuge."

Seeing so many "heartbreaking images" and hearing "the cries of children and women," he wrote, "we can only shout: ‘Stop!’ War is not the solution."

The pope criticized the continual investment in and buildup of weapons, citing the latest findings by the Stockholm International Peace Research Institute (SIPRI), which monitors military spending worldwide. Its April 2021 report calculated world military expenditure for 2020 reached $1.98 trillion, the highest level since 1988 when SIPRI began consistent estimations.

The pope said the use of atomic energy for the purposes of war is "a crime" against humanity and creation, and the possession of atomic weapons is immoral; he lamented the "specter of a nuclear war" looming over Europe.

War must be stopped before it reaches the front lines by eradicating hatred from people’s hearts, the pope wrote.

To do that, "we need dialogue, negotiation, listening, diplomatic capacity and creativity, far-sighted politics capable of building a new system of coexistence that is no longer based on weapons, on the power of weapons, on deterrence," he wrote.

"Wars will only be stopped “if we stop ‘fueling’ them," he wrote, repeating his appeal that money normally spent on arms and other military expenditures instead be used "to set up a global fund to finally eliminate hunger and foster development in the poorest countries, so that their inhabitants would not resort to violent or deceptive solutions and would not be forced to leave their countries in search of a more dignified life."

"Step by step, we are moving toward catastrophe" as if it were unavoidable, he wrote. "But we must forcefully repeat: No, it is not inevitable! No, war is not inescapable!"

Despite the difficulty in seeing signs of hope amid “the images of death that reach us from Ukraine,” he wrote, “there are millions of people who do not aspire to war, who do not justify war, but ask for peace,” especially young people who are begging for “the possible and the impossible: to stop war, to stop wars.”

Everyone must respond with “never again war” and commit themselves to building a world that is more just, “where peace triumphs, not the folly of war,” he said, and where there is “mutual forgiveness, not the hatred that divides and makes us see an enemy in the other, in those who are different from us.”

At some time or another, most of us ask why Good Friday is called “Good.” It’s a day of mourning and coming to terms with the fact that Jesus died on a cross for us. And yet, we do celebrate Jesus’ passion and death because, ultimately, the pain helps us to know and understand the new life of Easter.

In a different way, Catholic Charities West Virginia’s staff, volunteers, and supporters intentionally bear witness to the suffering of our brothers and sisters. Through the heartache of poverty and the desolation of addiction, we refuse to turn away when our neighbors need us the most.

The Letter to the Hebrews reminds us that Jesus became human so that He could relate to each of us intimately:

“For we do not have a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but one who has similarly been tested in every way, yet without sin.” —Hebrews 4:15

People come to Catholic Charities West Virginia when they need help. They often feel a sense of weakness. They are never met with judgment, but rather with solidarity and compassion.

Yes, we meet the physical needs of our neighbors. And we also strive to meet their emotional needs as we honor their dignity as children of God. Everyone who approaches us for help is met with a caring, compassionate person who looks deeper than the wounds life has inflicted. We strive to see the image of Jesus in the face of every client.

So, while we do not celebrate the fact that people need our services, we rejoice in our mission of love! Thank you for standing with us in service to our neighbors who need us most.

COVID Testing Scaled Back at WVU Medicine Wheeling Hospital

WHEELING—In conjunction with WVUHS (WVU Health System), starting Monday, April 18, WVU Medicine Wheeling Hospital will be instituting a scaled back approach to COVID 19 testing. The facility will not require COVID 19 testing for preoperative, admission, and pre-sleep lab patients routinely. Screening for active signs/symptoms of COVID 19 infection will continue to occur and based upon the clinical finding a COVID 19 test may be warranted if a patient is symptomatic. However, it is important to note that masking for all visitors still will be required. Social distancing also will continue to be observed.

Continued assessment of COVID 19 Community Levels will occur by Infection Control and the level in surrounding communities will determine when changes to the COVID 19 testing directives are warranted for the facility.

Meanwhile, beginning Friday, April 16, WVU Medicine is implementing a more passive approach to screening patients and visitors to its hospitals and clinics. All visitors can perform “COVID self-checks” at the entry points and opt not to enter if they’re experiencing any symptoms. Security no longer will be performing the screenings.

COVID 19 in Review to Cover ‘Lessons Learned’ Event Planned by WVU Medicine Wheeling Hospital and Reynolds Memorial Hospital

WHEELING—“COVID 19 in Review: Lessons Learned” will be presented May 20, sponsored by WVU Medicine Wheeling Hospital and Reynolds Memorial Hospital.

Open to healthcare providers, health departments, pre-hospital providers, firefighters and police agencies, along with Emergency Management agencies, the free symposium will be held at the Highlands Conference Center and offer continuing education credits.

Co-chairs of the event are John Sebring, Wheeling Hospital director of Safety, and David Kappel, MD.

“Nobody knew what the next few years would bring when COVID 19 hit in March 2020,” Kappel said. “While many of us had been trained in mass casualty and/or pandemic simulations, the reality of COVID hit hard. This conference will enable us to share what we thought would happen; what really did happen; and what to do if something similar happens in the future.”

Topics and speakers include: Hospital Administrative Overview: Douglass Harrison, President and CEO, Wheeling Hospital/Reynolds Memorial Hospital; A Look Back: Statistical Overview: David Kappel, MD; Regional Coordination: Lou Vargo, Director, Ohio County EMA; Regional Incident Command Challenges: Kelsey Blackburn, Ohio COTS Representative; Personnel: Vulnerability, Staffing, Fatigue and Burnout: Cindy Polen, Wheeling Hospital Nurse Manager, COVID unit; Corporate Health/Infection Control: Clark Milton, MD, Wheeling Hospital Corporate Health Director, Critical Care; Alternate Care Sites: Lou Vargo, Director, Ohio County EMA; and Quality Care Reporting in a Pandemic: Heidi Porter, Wheeling Hospital VP, Quality and Regulatory Affairs.

Kappel said, “We will explore our reactions to the pandemic, our decisions and how to apply what was learned in any such future situations.”

The conference will be livestreamed on Facebook, but contact hours are only available for in-person attendance. Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Lunch will be provided.

For more information, or to register, call Sebring at (304) 243-3007.
