Pastor, Deacon Ask for Prayers in Aftermath of Pendleton County Wildfires

By Colleen Rowan

PENDLETON COUNTY — In the aftermath of two wildfires that engulfed parts of Pendleton County April 17, the pastor and deacon at St. Elizabeth Ann Seton Parish in Franklin are asking for prayers.

“Please keep our parish and the entire neighborhood in your prayers,” Father Dan Pisano, pastor of the parish, pleaded. “We ask for God’s blessings on all those in harm’s way.”

Deacon John Windett, permanent deacon at St. Elizabeth’s added, “Please continue to offer prayers for those affected by the fires.”

Emergency Services Coordinator for Pendleton County Rick Gillespie posted an update to Facebook late April 19 on the 1,500-acre wildfire near Franklin in Hidden Valley/Entry Mountain.

“Crews from WV, VA and MD have worked hard to save threatened structures,” he said. “This evening, this crew saved a barn with no time to spare.”

The day before, Gillespie posted that one structure was destroyed and that both fires are believed to have been started by “downed power lines due to falling trees in the high winds.”

The Upper Tract Volunteer Fire Department posted on Facebook late April 19 that the first fire, which erupted in Smoke Hole, “is 100% contained” ... with Monongahela National Forest Service personnel in charge of the scene.

“Prayers and support for everyone involved with the Franklin fire!” department officials said in the post.

Franklin’s St. Elizabeth Ann Seton Church was not damaged in the fires, “due to prayer and intercession of what I believe was our Blessed Mother,” Deacon Windett said.

Father Pisano told The Catholic Spirit April 20 that he was traveling to affected areas of the county. He said, “I’m hoping and praying that we get the much needed rain that is predicted for Saturday.”

Sexual Abuse Awareness Training

The U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops (USCCB) requires that all Dioceses/Eparchies have in place a Safe Environment Program for the protection of children and young people. In accordance with these requirements, the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston’s Safe Environment Program consists of the following components for persons seeking employment or to volunteer—directly or indirectly—with children: background check; receipt of the Diocese’s Policy Relating to Sexual Abuse of Children; and sexual abuse awareness training for adults. Sexual abuse awareness training may be completed online or via live workshop. For more information on the Office of Safe Environment, please go to www.dwc.org, click “Dio- cese”, then “Offices”, then “Office of Safe Environment.”
Faithful Can Make a Difference for Catholic Schools in Their Community

By Colleen Rowan

It is a time set aside each year to support the Catholic school in one’s community. One Mission One Day (OMOD) to Make a Difference, an annual giving event to benefit the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston’s Catholic schools, will be held May 2.

“You can make a difference!” the OMOD website proclaims. And donations go directly to the school or schools of the donor’s choice.

The site offers profiles of each of the diocese’s 24 Catholic schools detailing the academic and spiritual opportunities they offer to young people as well as giving options.

The OMOD website at OneMissionOneDay.org will be open for donations from April 25 to May 3. Donors can also text GIVE to (304) 600-8123.

“One Mission One Day has provided resources for Fairmont Catholic School to continue their mission and tradition where ‘Faith Meets Academic Excellence’,” said Diane Burns, principal of Fairmont Catholic. “It’s one day that makes a difference all year!”

This campaign has already proven to be fruitful for the growth and development of Parkersburg Catholic Elementary School, PCES officials said in the profile on the OMOD website.

“Since the kickoff of the campaign and our ongoing promotion of the WV Hope Scholarship opportunity, PCES has seen an influx of over 45 new students for the 2023-24 academic year,” PCES officials said in the profile. “Please help us continue to grow and develop our schools for the success of the next generation of Crusaders!”

Heidi Sforza, director of Annual Giving for the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston, said that $1.2 million has been raised for Catholic schools through OMOD over the last three years. Donations have helped with tuition assistance, building upgrades, classroom enhancements and more.

“Not only has OMOD become a tremendous FUNdraiser for all our Catholic schools – it has also become a FUNraiser because of all the hard work, dedication and creativity our schools put into it. From themes, to videos, prizes and contests – they make it a fun and exciting day for students and donors alike!” Sforza added.

One Mission One Day has quickly grown into one of Sforza’s favorite days of the year.

“The creativity, excitement, and generosity is overwhelming,” she said. “It’s exciting to watch the contests unfold online, and donations roll in on the website. I love seeing pictures and videos of the kids on social media and the various events being held in each school!”

Sforza said that donors can also check with their local schools about contests and matching gift opportunities for OMOD.

MARTINSBURG—The Catholic Daughters of the Americas, Court #392 Martinsburg thanked the Parishes of St. Joseph’s in Martinsburg, St. Bernadette’s in Hedgesville, St. Leo’s in Inwood, St. James the Greater in Charles Town, and St. Agnes in Shepherdstown for participating in their first annual Mary’s Refuge Lenten Toy Drive the weekend of March 25-26.

The Catholic Daughters, are the sponsors of the playroom at Mary’s Refuge, a safe space for pregnant women in crises.

During the court’s monthly meeting on April 11, members received an update by Kimberley Roche, executive director of Mary’s Refuge, on the happenings at the home.

“The court celebrated with a baby shower after the meeting where the many toys, books, etc. were presented to Mary’s Refuge,” said Lisa Cervovalo, CDA vice regent, Court #392.

Mary’s Refuge is a 100 percent pro-life maternity home, welcoming mothers-to-be who are in a situation which is causing them fear and anxiety.

The home has nine bedrooms, a chapel, kitchen, laundry facilities, and rooms for infant care, relaxation and house meetings. Women staying at the refuge must be at least 18 years old; clean and sober; able to clear a background check; and have no debilitating mental-health issues. They also must come on their own accord, ready to work toward a positive and productive future.

Mary’s Refuge is a place to call home, where women have access to budgeting and parenting classes, help with education and employment, and connections to resources for rebuilding their lives.

The Catholic Daughters of the Americas, Court #392 Martinsburg meets the second Tuesday of the month at 6:30 p.m. (except for July) at the Knights of Columbus on Stephen Street. CDA is open to all Catholic women over the age of 18. For more information on Mary’s Refuge visit http://www.marysrefuge.com or see Facebook Mary’s Refuge.
WESTON—Catechesis of the Good Shepherd level one, part one catechist formation will be held June 19-25 at St. Patrick Catholic School in Weston.

The Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston announced that after 10 years, it is bringing the training back to West Virginia.

“We know and believe that the good news message of Jesus Christ is meant for young ears to hear and little hearts to feel,” said Daniel Maul, director of the Office of Evangelization & Catechesis for the diocese. “We adults have the responsibility of making sure that that message is shared in meaningful and effective ways that truly reach children. CGS is a proven catechetical method that enables us to do just that.”

Maul said that CGS is in conformity with the Catechism of the Catholic Church, is approved by the U.S. bishops, and conducted in numerous dioceses in the country.

“We pray that by undergoing this training our catechists will be able to bring many children to a love for Jesus Christ, an understanding of the Catholic faith, and a desire to live the Christian way of life,” Maul said.

The Catechesis of the Good Shepherd is an approach to religious formation of children, 3 to 12 years of age, based on the conviction that God and the child are in relationship. Inspired by Montessori methodology, this catechetical approach was further developed by Dr. Sophia Cavalletti, a scripture scholar, and Gianna Gobbi a Montessori educator.

Class space is limited to 18 students. The Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston has generously agreed to sponsor all parishioners from West Virginia.

The course objectives are: to explore the religious nature in the most vital religious needs of the 3 to 6-year-old child. To present the methodology and guiding principles of CGS in Montessori education. To broaden the catechist’s ability to observe and learn from children, to listen with children to scripture, and to deepen the catechist’s enjoyment of God’s presence. To offer guidelines and assistance in preparing the atrium environment, making the catechists album and designing catechetical material. To meditate on the scriptural and Catholic liturgical themes presented to the 3- to 6-year-old child.

After completing Part 1 (summer 2023) of catechist formation, participants will be able to develop the first year of a level I CGS program or serve first-year children in a level I atrium. Following the completion of Part II (summer 2024) participants will be able to develop the full level CGS program or serve as a level I catechist for all 3- to 6-year-old children in the atrium.

The training will be led by Sue Jett, formation leader. She began implementing CGS in 2003 while teaching at St. Peter’s Catholic School in Beaufort, S.C. She is certified in levels I, II, and III and became a formation leader in 2010 after receiving her master of arts degree in discipline of the Catechesis of the Good Shepherd from Aquinas Institute of Theology in St. Louis. She has directed religious education programs in the dioceses of Milwaukee, Chicago and northwest Indiana and has facilitated the development of CGS in several parishes.

She currently serves as a level I catechist at St. James the Less in Highland, Ind., and works with lower elementary children at the Montessori Children’s School House in Hamden, Ind. She is a wife, mother, and grandmother and she looks forward to sharing the gift of CGS and getting to know others who have been called to participate in formation classes.

Encounter With Christ, Community Focus of 2023 Steubenville Summer Conferences

Thousands to gather at Franciscan University, regional sites for inspiring talks, energizing fellowship, and life-changing encounters with Christ

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio—In a Church and world still recovering from the isolation, loneliness, and spiritual decline resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic, the celebrated Steubenville Conferences will provide much-needed encounters with Christ and community with others this summer. That will be the focus of Franciscan University of Steubenville’s 48th summer season of adult and youth conferences, as attendees enjoy inspirational speakers, engaging workshops, uplifting fellowship, and exciting opportunities for a life-changing encounter with Christ.

“Our experience during the pandemic was a powerful reminder why being together is so important,” said Father Dave Pivonka, TOR ’89, president of Franciscan University. “There is a reason why spiritual revivals don’t happen online. They only happen when we gather as a family of faith. We have been hosting Spirit-filled summer conferences for almost 50 years, but I believe this year is going to be special.”

Mark Joseph, vice president of the Franciscan Center for Evangelization and Renewal, agrees.

“At a Steubenville Conference, participants can experience their faith as a family of faith,” he said. “Yes, it’s the vibrant praise and worship, the inspiring talks that speak to real-life issues, the joy of being with so many like-minded, faith-filled people. But more than any of those, it’s Jesus. It’s Jesus in the Liturgy; its Jesus in Eucharistic Adoration; it’s Jesus in confession. His unconditional love is the heart and soul of our conferences, and it changes lives and captures hearts every time.”

In addition to 5 adult conferences in Steubenville, Franciscan University will host 4 youth conferences in Steubenville as well as conferences in 12 cities across the United States and Canada. Host cities include Duluth, Georgia; Springfield, Massachusetts; Orlando, Florida; Irving, Texas; Springfield, Missouri (2); St. Paul and Rochester, Minnesota; Tucson, Arizona; Spokane, Washington; Denver, Colorado; Alexandria, Louisiana; and Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Kicking off the adult conference summer schedule, the Power and Purpose Conference will be held June 9-11. Focused on the theme “Faith, Hope, Love,” this conference takes participants on a journey to come fully alive in faith, freedom, and joy of the Holy Spirit. Hosted by Deacon Ralph Poyor with worship led by Deacon Bob Rice, speakers include Father Ralph Pivonka, Father Peyton, Deacon Harold Burke-Sivers, and Michael Gormley, and Joining host Dr. Scott Hahn and worship leader Deacon Bob Rice are speakers Noelle Mering, Jeff Cavins, Deacon Harold Burke-Sivers, Michael Gormley, Kimberly Hahn, Clement Harald, Trent Horn, Father Jeff Kirby, Patrick Madrid, and Dr. Edward Sri.

“Hope and Holiness.” During these trying times, this conference will inspire courage and confidence, sending participants forth to share the Lord’s truth and love with joy. Joining host Dr. Scott Hahn and worship leader Deacon Bob Rice is speaker Noelle Mering, Jeff Cavins, Deacon Harold Burke-Sivers, Michael Gormley, Father Peyton, Clement Harald, Trent Horn, Father Jeff Kirby, Patrick Madrid, and Dr. Edward Sri.

Franciscan University’s 2023 Youth Conferences will center on the theme, “Refuge.” Featuring inspiring and beloved speakers such as Father Mike Schmitz, Sister Miriam James Heidland, SOLT, Chris Stefanick, Jason Evert, Bishop Joseph Esplait, and Jackie Francois, the conferences are expected to reach up to 50,000 teens. For the complete 2023 Youth Conference schedule, plus details on registration, speakers, and musicians, visit www.steubenvilleconferences.com/youth.

For more information and online registration for adult conferences, visit www.steubenvilleconferences.com.

One of only 15 faithfully Catholic universities endorsed by the Cardinal Newman Society, Franciscan University of Steubenville continues to lead the renaissance of Catholic higher education called for in Ex corde Ecclesiae.

Franciscan University, founded in 1946 by friars of the Most Sacred Heart of Jesus, Province of the Third Order Regular of St. Francis of Penance, integrates excellent academic programs with a dynamic faith environment to serve 2,500 students from all 50 states and 17 countries on campus and an additional 1,000 students online.

Franciscan’s 87 percent first-year retention rate shows that when students come to Franciscan they stay, drawn to its Christ-centered campus culture and integration of faith and reason in the classroom. Ranked in the top tier of Midwest universities by U.S. News & World Report since 1998, Franciscan offers over 100 programs of study including 45 undergraduate degrees, 11 graduate programs, and 17 online programs—all grounded in Franciscan’s acclaimed Catholic core curriculum.

A study abroad program in a beautifully restored 14th-century Carthusian monastery in Austria attracts up to 200 students each semester, broadening their horizons intellectually and spiritually through pilgrimages to historic and sacred sites.

Franciscan University has also led evangelistic conferences for Catholic adults and youth that have drawn over 1 million participants into a deeper relationship with Christ and the Church since 1975.

The Youth Conferences have played a measurable role in vocations to the religious life and priesthood. In a national survey of seminarians scheduled for ordination to the priesthood in 2022, for example, 15 percent of the respondents said participation in a Steubenville Youth Conference before entering seminary had an influence on their vocational discernment.

For more about Franciscan University of Steubenville and its mission to educate, evangelize, and send forth Spirit-filled disciples of Jesus Christ, visit Franciscan.edu or connect with Franciscan on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, or LinkedIn.
The students at Central Catholic High School in Wheeling took their pro-life message to the streets of Wheeling during Holy Week. They wrote their messages in chalk on the sidewalk in front of the school on 14th Street and on the sidewalk along the side of the building on Eoff Street beside the Cathedral of St. Joseph. Their messages reminded the community that “all life has value,” that “baby rights are human rights,” that “every child deserves a chance,” and that “it’s always wrong to kill an innocent child.” These are just a few of the messages from the students, many of which are shown on this page.

Kansas City Catholics Turn to Faith, Dialogue after Ralph Yarl shooting

By Gina Christian (OSV News) — Catholics in Kansas City, Missouri, are turning to faith, dialogue and discernment after a local Black teen was shot by a white homeowner for mistaking an address in the course of picking up his younger siblings.

Ralph Yarl, 16, sustained wounds to his left forehead and right arm when 84-year-old Andrew Lester shot the teen April 13 after Yarl knocked on his door. The teen was released from the hospital April 16, with his family’s attorney, Lee Merritt, calling Yarl’s recovery “miraculous.”

In April 18 messages on his Twitter and Facebook accounts, Kansas City – St. Joseph Bishop James V. Johnston asked for prayers for “Ralph’s full recovery as he and his family deal with his serious physical and emotional wounds.”

The teen’s aunt, Faith Spoonmore, wrote on a GoFundMe page that her nephew — an accomplished musician and academically gifted student — still faces “a long road ahead mentally and emotionally.”

Lester was charged April 17 with first-degree assault. He surrendered the next day and was released after posting bond. After pleading not guilty in court April 19, Lester — who told police he thought Yarl was attempting to break in — now faces a court appearance June 1.

The shooting has sparked outcry over both racial tensions and gun violence, with local and national leaders — including President Joe Biden — weighing in. Clay County prosecuting attorney Zachary Thompson has been quoted in the media as stating “there was a racial component in this case,” but is pursuing first-degree assault rather than hate crime charges.

Some legal analysts have speculated Lester’s defense will invoke Missouri’s “stand your ground” law, which permits the use of deadly force if a person has reasonable grounds to fear for his or her life.

Father Phillip Egan, pastor of Holy Family Parish in Kansas City, told OSV News his first reaction to the shooting — which took place some three miles away — was to “start praying for the community.”

Gun violence, particularly “the shooting of young people,” has become “a rampant epidemic,” one that affects teens and youth “from East Coast to West, from north to south.”

Holy Family parishioners of all ages “are carrying a heavy burden as more and more information comes out” about the Yarl shooting and other incidents of gun violence, said Father Egan.

“They’re struggling, as our young people are, with what to do, how to respond,” he said.

As a result, the crisis demands “a call to prayer and to some kind of gathering of the people,” said Father Egan.

Bishop Johnston said in his online message that “it is beautiful to see” how the Kansas City area is “rallying around Ralph Yarl and his family, refusing to accept that a Black teenager could be shot simply for ringing the wrong doorbell.”

“Healthy communities must be founded on the bedrock of charity, respect, and trust rather than fear,” said the bishop.

Holy Family pastoral associate Christen Cota told OSV News that she, Father Egan and their pastoral team “are having discussions about putting together a prayer service for peace for the community.”

In addition, Cota hopes to coordinate a parish event “for people to come together for discussion (to look) at the church’s teaching on community, peace and the dignity of the human person.”

The pastoral team is seeking “to give the Holy Spirit the opportunity to inform us of our call, our next step, and what we can do within our community,” said Cota. “We will let the Holy Spirit be our guide.”

The sacrifice of the Mass is at the heart of that effort, said Father Egan.

“We’re making sure as we participate in the Eucharist that we’re mindful our prayers go up,” he said. “Our prayers go up.”

Major Catholic Organizations Partner with 2024 National Eucharistic Congress

DENVER (OSV News) — The executive team of National Eucharistic Congress Inc. announced April 17 that several leading Catholic organizations are investing in the July 17-21, 2024, congress in Indianapolis as “mission partners.”

Relevant Radio, Augustine Institute, Franciscan University of Steubenville, EWTN, OSV (the parent company of the OSV News wire service and the weekly Our Sunday Visitor newspaper) and the Knights of Columbus have each made a “substantial financial commitment” and “pledged significant in-house resources toward the planning and promotion of the event itself,” according to the April 17 news release.

“One thing has been consistent from these organizations — they all have rolled up their sleeves and asked, ‘How else can we help?’” Cande de Leon, chief advancement officer for National Eucharistic Congress Inc., said in a statement. “It gives me great joy to see the commitment of these organizations with regard to helping the Church and truly wanting to bring people to Jesus in the Eucharist.”

The Year of the National Eucharistic Congress and Missionary Sending 2024-25 is the third and final year of the U.S. bishops’ National Eucharistic Revival.

Launched last year, the National Eucharistic Revival is a three-year campaign by the U.S. bishops to increase the Catholic understanding of and devotion to Christ in the Eucharist. Part of the impetus for the campaign was a Pew Research Center study in the fall of 2019 that showed more than three out of 10 Catholics understand and believe in Jesus’ Real Presence.

What will be the U.S. Catholic Church’s 10th National Eucharistic Congress — but the first in 83 years — be expected to draw more than 86,000 people, and organizers have compared the event to World Youth Day, with prayer and liturgies, catechesis for individuals and families, and a festival-like atmosphere.

OSV, the Huntington, Indiana-based Catholic publishing company, has been a supporter of the National Eucharistic Revival and Congress from the beginning because “we saw this movement as not just a vehicle for reviving Catholic belief in the Real Presence of Christ but for fulfilling the Great Commission,” said OSV Publisher Scott P. Richert.

“The church in the United States is facing unprecedented challenges that can only be solved by a return to the heart of Christianity, our encounter with Christ,” he said, adding that the hope of the congress is Catholics will encounter Christ in Indianapolis, discover Christ in everyone they meet, and invite others to encounter Christ in his church.

“When we learned about the Congress, we immediately knew this would be a great benefit to the church and to souls, since the holy Eucharist is Jesus Christ himself,” said Father Francis “Rocky” Hoffman, executive director and CEO of Relevant Radio.

“We encourage our listeners to attend and partner in prayer for a successful Congress,” he said. “All positive, sustainable, and transformative change in the Church is rooted in our love for and encounter with the Holy Eucharist.”

Founded in 2000 to bring Christ to the world through the media, Relevant Radio broadcasts on over 200 stations across America in all major markets, and globally through online streaming and a mobile app.

The mission of the Augustine Institute, based in the Denver suburb of Greenwood Village, “is to help Catholics understand, live and share their faith” through its Graduate School of Theology, academic and parish programs and multimedia resources, said Tim Gray, the institute’s president.

“Our hope is that the National Eucharistic Revival leads thousands upon thousands of Catholics to rediscover the love of God who draws close to us and gives himself up for us in the most holy Eucharist,” he said.

The Eucharist has always been the wellspring of Franciscan University of Steubenville’s spiritual life and at the heart of the school’s Steubenville conferences, according to the university’s president and Third Order Franciscan, Father Dave Pivonka.

“Last year, we have seen the power of Jesus in the Eucharist heal, renew and unify our students, faculty, staff and conference guests, so we’re excited to help stir up a greater love for the holy Eucharist,” he said.

“We pray the Holy Spirit enkindles the fire of faith in the Real Presence in the hearts of our brothers and sisters across the country,” he added.

EWTN’s founder, Mother Angelica, a Poor Clare of Perpetual Adoration, “built the network around her community’s chapel where the Eucharist was adored 24 hours each day” at Our Lady See “Congress” on Page 12
Martyrs Witness to the Power of Love, Pope Says

By Cindy Wooden

VATICAN CITY (CNS) — Martyrdom is primarily an act of love, not heroism, and while it often comes in the midst of persecution, it should motivate Christians to seek peace and reconciliation, Pope Francis said.

Persecution and martyrdom are not a thing of the past, he told people at his weekly general audience April 19. “Today there is persecution of Christians in the world. A lot. There are more martyrs today than there were” in the first centuries of Christianity.

As part of his series of talks about “zeal” for evangelization, Pope Francis spoke about the witness of “the host of martyrs — men and women of every age, language and nation — who have given their life for Christ.”

“The martyrs, in imitation of Christ and with his grace, turn the violence of those who refuse the proclamation (of the Gospel) into a supreme occasion of love, which goes as far as forgiving their persecutors,” the pope said. “This is interesting: martyrs always forgive their persecutors. Stephen, the first martyr, died praying, ‘Lord, forgive them, they don’t know what they are doing.’ Martyrs always pray for their persecutors.”

To illustrate his point about modern martyrdom, Pope Francis drew attention specifically to Yemen, “a land that has for many years been afflicted by a terrible, forgotten war, that has caused many deaths and still causes many people, especially children, to suffer today.”

Out of a population of about 31.6 million people, the Vatican estimates the number of Catholics in Yemen to be about 1,000.

In a situation of war and dire poverty, Pope Francis said, “there have been shining witnesses of faith, such as that of the Missionaries of Charity. They are still present today in Yemen, where they offer assistance to elderly who are sick and to people with disabilities. They welcome everyone, of any religion, because charity and fraternity have no boundaries.”

The sisters’ witness of love to others has cost them dearly though. The pope reminded the crowd in St. Peter’s Square that three of the sisters — Sisters Aletta, Zelia and Michael — were “killed by a fanatic” in July 1998 as they were returning home from Mass.

“More recently, shortly after the beginning of the still ongoing conflict. In March 2016, Sister Anselm, Sister Marguerite, Sister Regnette and Sister Judith were killed together with some laypeople who helped them in their work of charity among the least,” the pope said.

“The dozen laypeople included “some Muslim faithful who worked with the religious sisters,” he said.

“It moves us to see how the witness of blood can unite people of different religions,” he continued. “One should never kill in the name of God, because for him we are all brothers and sisters. But together one can give one’s life for others.”

Pope Francis prayed that Christians would “never tire of bearing witness to the Gospel, even in times of tribulation.”

“May all the martyr saints be seeds of peace and reconciliation among peoples for a more humane and fraternal world as we await the full manifestation of the kingdom of heaven when God will be all in all,” the pope said.

Vatican Sends Relic of True Cross to Britain’s King Charles

By Cindy Wooden

VATICAN CITY (CNS) — As Britain’s King Charles III walks into Westminster Abbey for his coronation, he will walk behind a procession containing a relic of Christ’s cross given to the king by Pope Francis.

While the Vatican provided no official details of the gift April 19, an official said the two fragments in the relic came from a relic preserved in the Lipsanoteca Room of the Vatican Museums and were given as “an ecumenical sign.”

The fragments now are under glass in the center of the coronation cross, which is made of recycled silver bullion.

Anglican Archbishop Andrew John of Wales blessed the cross during a service April 19. The Anglican Church in Wales, which refers to the cross as the Cross of Wales, said it is inscribed on the back with words, in Welsh, from the last sermon of St. David, a sixth-century bishop and patron saint of Wales: “Be joyful. Keep the faith. Do the little things.”

King Charles has given the cross to the Christians of Wales, and after the coronation it will be shared by the Anglican and Catholic churches there.

With a sense of deep joy, we embrace this cross, kindly given by King Charles, and containing a relic of the true cross, generously gifted by the Holy See,” said Catholic Archbishop Mark O’Toole of Cardiff in a statement published on the Church in Wales website.

The cross is “not only a sign of the deep Christian roots of our nation but a sign of hope for the future. I am sure, encourage us all to model our lives on the love given by our savior, Jesus Christ,” Archbishop O’Toole said.

Chris Trott, the British ambassador to the Holy See, said on Twitter that “we are deeply moved and grateful to Pope Francis for this extraordinary gift.”

The gift of the relic, he said, reflects the strength of the relationship between the Holy See and Great Britain, a “relationship that developed over the course of the reign of Her Late Majesty Queen Elizabeth, who met five popes!”

Msgr. Ervin Lengyel, secretary of the Vatican nunciature in London, tweeted: “In a significant ecumenical gesture, the Cross of Wales will incorporate a relic of the true cross, the personal gift of Pope Francis to His Majesty the King to mark the coronation.”

of the Angels Monastery in rural Alabama, said Michael Warsaw, CEO of the EWTN Global Catholic Network.

“Devotion to Our Lord in the Eucharist still remains physically and spiritually at the heart of the EWTN apostolate. There is no undertaking in the church today more important than the program of Eucharistic Revival, and EWTN is happy to fully support this effort,” he said.

In August 2021, Supreme Knight Patrick Kelly, the CEO of the Knights of Columbus, announced the Catholic international fraternal order would be a major sponsor of the National Eucharistic Revival.

“The more we devote ourselves to the Eucharist, the more we will understand what it means to live a life of service and sacrifice for others — and to live a life of true unity, centered on the ‘source and summit of the Christian life,’” he said in a statement about the organization’s decision to be a mission partner for the 2024 congress.
Within the Catholic Social Teaching on “Option for the Poor and Vulnerable,” we are reminded that:

This love is inspired by the Gospel of the Beatitudes, of the poverty of Jesus, and of his concern for the poor.

The Church teaches that: “Those who are oppressed by poverty are the object of a preferential love on the part of the Church…”

This love was recently exemplified by a group of parishioners within the greater Parkersburg area. Members from every parish in Parkersburg attended weekly seminars presented by Catholic Charities Parish Outreach Specialist Bill Hagy throughout the seven weeks of Lent. The seminars were focused around the seven principles of Catholic Social Teaching.

During the topic of “Option for the Poor and Vulnerable,” the group discussed the Matthew 25 Bag project initiated in the Charleston area to help meet the basic needs of those who are homeless.

During the final meeting and, unbeknownst to Bill Hagy, the group presented him with M25 Bags in appreciation for the seven weeks spent sharing the principles of our faith. Hagy then shared the bags to be distributed within the Parkersburg area.

At Catholic Charities West Virginia, we are honored to work alongside our parish partners as we work toward our mission of providing caring and compassionate services to people in need and working toward lasting and meaningful change.

The nation-leading cardiologists and surgeons of the WVU Heart and Vascular Institute Structural Heart Program at Wheeling specialize in problems with the heart’s valves, walls, or chambers.

We have a multidisciplinary team of experts, including interventional cardiologists, cardiac and vascular surgeons, dedicated nursing staff, and other specialists, to ensure our patients receive the most comprehensive care available for common and complex structural heart conditions.

The WVU Heart and Vascular Institute Structural Heart Program is the only program in West Virginia that offers eight specialized, structural heart procedures and is one of the few programs in the United States (and the only one in West Virginia) offering cerebral embolic protection during transcatheter aortic valve replacement (Protected TAVR) and transcatheter mitral valve replacement.

Our expert team uses the latest catheter-based techniques to treat all forms of structural heart disease, including aortic, mitral, and tricuspid valve diseases and conditions and congenital defects.
