Mourning, Prayer and a Resolve to Rebuild Follow Devastating Tornadoes

The Bluegrass State was the worst hit as numerous devastating tornadoes traveled across it and its neighboring states of Illinois, Tennessee, Arkansas and Missouri, leveling entire communities.

As of Dec. 14, at least 74 people were confirmed dead in Kentucky, including a 2-month-old infant; 109 people remained unaccounted for.

At least 14 other people were killed in the other states: six in Illinois, four in Tennessee, and two each in Arkansas and Missouri.

As members of two of Mayfield’s faith congregations came together to pray Dec. 12 amid rubble — piles of brick, metal and glass — prayers for their city and all of those affected by the ferocious mid-December twisters came from far and wide, including from Pope Francis and the U.S. Catholic bishops, and from close to home — Bishop William F. Medley of Mayfield, Ky. (CNS) — Mourning, prayer and a resolve to rebuild shattered lives, homes and businesses in Mayfield followed one of the most powerful twisters in U.S. history that leveled the city of 10,000 in western Kentucky overnight Dec. 10.

Learning about WV Hope Scholarship
with the Rest of the State

By Joyce Bibe

WEST VIRGINIA—Earlier this year the WV Legislature inform House Bill 2023, now known as the Hope Scholarship Act, to provide funds for families enrolling in private school, alternative instruction programs, or home schools beginning in the Fall of 2022. This education savings account is set up by the state and managed through the West Virginia Treasure Riley Moore’s office. As with any scholarship, there are qualifications and stipulations.

Superintendent of Schools for the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston Mary Ann Deschaine, Ed.S., has been trying to learn everything about how the state-run program will work.

“This is an exciting opportunity for all children and families in the state of West Virginia, who are seeking to enter into a private school education,” Deschaine said. “We are learning about the Hope Scholarship program right alongside everyone else.”

What do the schools know about the program? “A lot of information that is available online through the treasurer’s office: https://hopescholarshipwv.com. Specifically, students are eligible for the program if they are:

- a resident of West Virginia
- Entering kindergarten for the first time in the Fall of 2022
- Current K-11 student enrolled full time (or at least 45 days during the time of application) in a public elementary or secondary school in West Virginia in 2021-2022
- Current private and home school students not eligible for the program at this time

Moore has shared with Deschaine and noted on the FAQs on the scholarship’s website that current non-public school students will eventually be eligible for the program. “If the participation rate of the combined number of students in the Hope Scholarship Program and subsequent eligible who have applied to participate in the Hope Scholarship program in 2024 is less than five percent of net public school enrollment adjusted for state aid purposes for the previous school year, then, effective July 1, 2026, all students will be eligible to participate in the Hope Scholarship Program,” the website details.

“The stipulation for current private school and home school families fluctuates as it is presented currently, and therefore, we cannot be exact on predicting when and how much will be made available to our current families,” Deschaine said. “As the program unfolds, my office will be following along closely, as will our principals, pastors, and advisory boards.”

According to the West Virginia Hope Scholarship website, under the current school aid formula, each eligible student would receive $4,600 annually that can be used toward private school, alternative instruction programs, or home school.

Deschaine emphasized this scholarship is not run, managed, or determined by the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston or the Department of Catholic Schools in the Diocese.

The state stipulates that money in the Hope Scholarship education savings account will be administered through a third party. The treasurer’s office reports that each family awarded would have access to an account for each eligible student in their household. All purchases would be pre-approved by the state. The funds awarded can only be spent on education expenses such as tuition and fees, extracurriculars, tutoring, materials, supplies, textbooks, transportation, etc.

The website notes that there is not a date or deadline set yet for when families can apply for the Hope Scholarship. It does define that applications will be available no later than March 1, 2022, and that Moore’s office is to advertise the availability.

While the Catholic schools of West Virginia continue to learn about the Hope Scholarship, current public school and young families are welcome to learn if Catholic schools are the right fit for their children.

All 24 Catholic schools in the state are preparing for Catholic Schools Week set for Jan. 29 through Feb. 5. Many schools are planning to host open houses and schedule student shadow days for children and families to see what makes West Virginia Catholic schools exceptional, Deschaine said.

“Our PK-12 focus is to encourage individual and critical thinking; deepen faith; build self-esteem; and develop a sound moral foundation rooted in the gospel,” Deschaine said. “We are unapologetically Catholic with a mission focused on providing our students with a strong foundation for the future—spiritually, academically, emotionally, and socially—all in a Christ-centered environment. We challenge our students to be the best version of themselves—to be as God sees and wants them to be.”

West Virginia Catholic schools welcome families to learn more about Catholic education. The common application and re-enrollment period for West Virginia Catholic schools begins in February.

WEST VIRGINIA—Bishop Mark Brennan has approved a special collection to be held the weekend of January 1 and 2, 2022, in all parishes and missions throughout the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston to support recovery efforts related to the recent natural disasters that have occurred in Kentucky, leaving severe damage and significant loss of life.

Donations can also be made at your parish or on the diocesan website at dwc.org/disaster relief.

Proceeds from this collection will support the humanitarian and recovery efforts of Catholic Charities agencies on the ground, working in the communities affected by the tornadoes.

Please remember in prayer all those who have lost their lives in the wake of these disasters, as well as all those who have been injured and lost their homes, cars, employment, and access to food and water, especially as we prepare for the Christmas Season.

As we hold the victims and first responders in our prayers during these critical days, let us also spend time in prayer and discernment as we prepare for this upcoming collection. Let us come together now to support our brothers and sisters in Christ who are suffering this horrible loss.

Tornadoes...

Owensboro, whose diocese covers western Kentucky.

A papal telegram conveyed by Cardinal Pietro Parolin, Vatican secretary of state, said Pope Francis “was saddened to learn of the devastating impact of the tornadoes” in the Midwest and the South.

“He offers heartfelt prayers that Almighty God will grant eternal peace to those who have died, comfort to those who mourn their loss, and strength to all those affected by this immense tragedy,” it said.

“With gratitude for the tireless efforts of the rescue workers and all engaged in caring for the injured, the grieving families and those left homeless, Pope Francis invokes upon all engaged in the massive work of relief and rebuilding the Lord’s gifts of strength and generous perseverance in the service of their brothers and sisters,” said the telegram, which Cardinal Parolin sent to Archbishop Christophe Pierre, the apostolic nuncio in the U.S.

Archbishop José H. Gomez of Los Angeles, president of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops, and Archbishop Paul S. Coakley of Oklahoma City, chairman of the USCCB’s Committee on Domestic Justice and Human Development, said the destruction and devastation was “heartbreaking” and called for prayer and assistance for all those who were in the path of the storms.

“During this Advent season where we await in joyful anticipation for the birth of our Lord, we pray for those who have been injured, for those who have lost their lives, and for their grieving families and communities,” said Archbishop Gomez and Coakley. “May those who have been impacted by these storms find peace, comfort and hope in our faith and in God’s endless love.

“We also pray for the emergency responders and those who have begun the work of providing for the needs of the impacted in these communities in the recovery efforts,” they said in a statement issued late Dec. 11. “We entrust all our brothers and sisters in harm’s way to our Blessed Mother, and we ask for her continued protection and for her intercession in comforting those who are suffering.”

The two prelates urged Catholics and all people of goodwill to donate to recovery efforts and financial help for tornado victims by supporting the work of Catholic Charities USA: https://www.catholiccharities.us/campaign/ccusa-disaster-relief/c553051.

Bishop Medley in a Dec. 11 statement called on the Catholic community of the diocese “to unite in prayer ... for all of the suffering that was caused by this disaster.”

He asked all parishes to take up a special collection over the Dec. 11-12 weekend to aid tornado victims.

The bishop also took note of the leveling of Mayfield’s candle factory, where 110 employees were working around the clock, which is customary during the Christmas season, according to news reports.

Initially, city officials feared the death toll among factory workers would reach 70. Late Dec. 12, a company representative told reporters that eight workers were confirmed dead, and a day later the workers who had been missing were accounted for.

“Many of those injured in the Mayfield candle factory were parishioners, and others represented migrants and the marginalized in our communities,” Bishop Medley said in his statement.

He added that through its Catholic Charities office, the diocese planned “to offer immediate help and services” for those displaced by the tornado and/or in need of immediate emergency financial help.

“I am proud of the many ways that your generosity always allows the Catholic Church to respond to the suffering and to families in crisis,” Bishop Medley said. “So I thank you in advance for your generous response to this terrible devastation. God will bless our generosity.”

In a Dec. 12 tweet, Bishop Medley said he visited the Catholic community of St. Joseph Church in Mayfield: “Father Eric Riley, the pastor, preached on the Advent and Our Lady of Guadalupe themes of hope and joy. Neighboring parish St. Jerome of Fancy Farm welcomed them.”

At a news briefing Dec. 12 in Mayfield, Kentucky Gov. Andy Beshear noted one tornado traveled 227 miles. “It didn’t take a roof, which is what we’ve seen in the past. It exploded the whole house. People, animals ... just gone.”

“The very first thing that we have to do is grieve together,” he said, “and we’re going to do that before we rebuild together.”

Dr. Mark Miravalle speaks at St. Joseph the Worker Parish Dec. 10.

WEIRTON—Renowned Mariologist and first-class theologian Dr. Mark Miravalle gave a talk on the Spiritual Fatherhood of St. Joseph at St. Joseph the Worker Parish in Weirton.

The Dec. 10 gathering was held for the Year of St. Joseph.

Drawing on Sacred Scripture, the Church’s Sacred Tradition, and on Her Magisterium, Miravalle explained in both profound and engaging ways the title and role of St. Joseph as Universal Patron of the Church. According to the church fathers, St. Joseph received a special grace from God so that he could fulfill his role as Christ’s earthly father. The mystical tradition also says that St. Joseph’s greatest suffering was that he could not be with Christ and the Blessed Mother during his son’s passion and death. St. Joseph would appear with the Blessed Mother and the child Jesus in his arms at Fatima, blessing the world with the Sign of the Cross. Miravalle then called on all families to say the Litany of St. Joseph every Wednesday.

Miravalle also suggested the wearing of “St. Joseph’s Cord” for those seeking to safeguard their purity.

Finally, he encouraged all those who were present to make the Consecration to St. Joseph so that the fullness of his intercession could be brought to bear in their lives.

“So please, continue to promote devotion to St. Joseph in your parishes and stay tuned for more details,” she added.

Kime went on to say that if the situation with COVID-19 does not experience an upsurge, the diocese is anticipating a Diocesan Pilgrimage to the Basilica of the Co-Cathedral of the Sacred Heart in Charleston to close the Year of St. Joseph on March 19, 2022.

“Under the Patronage of St. Joseph, may he protect and guide our diocese,” Kime said in ending her message.

Bishop Brennan opened the Year of St. Joseph in the diocese on the Solemnity of St. Joseph, March 19, with the celebration of Mass at the Cathedral of St. Joseph in Wheeling. The Mass gathered faithful and priests of the diocese to open the special year honoring St. Joseph, not only as the patron of the universal church but also as the patron of the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston.

Since the celebration began, the diocese and parishes have been holding Masses, pilgrimages, talks, prayerful gatherings, and many other events focusing on St. Joseph. The diocese also released a series of St. Joseph prayer cards which were sent to the faithful and provides an array of resources on its website.

Year of St. Joseph Continues in the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston

By Colleen Rowan

B ernadette McMasters Kime, director of the Office of Worship and Sacraments, reminded the faithful that the Year of St. Joseph continues in the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston.

In an e-mail to all parishes of the diocese Dec. 10, Kime said that Pope Francis has officially ended the world-wide Year of St. Joseph, but that it continues in West Virginia.

“Bishop Mark Brennan has promulgated our Year of St. Joseph to begin on March 19, 2021, and conclude on March 19, 2022,” Kime said in the e-mail.

“So please, continue to promote devotion to St. Joseph in your parishes and stay tuned for more details,” she added.

Diocesan Official Appointments

Bishop Mark E. Brennan has made public the following appointments:

Father Daniel M. Price is appointed administrator of Annunciation of Our Lord Parish in Fort Ashby and St. Anthony Parish in Ridgeley with residence at the parish rectory in Fort Ashby, effective December 1, 2021.

Father Douglas A. Ondeck is appointed chaplain of the State of West Virginia Catholic Daughters of the Americas for a period of two years, effective immediately. He is also appointed chaplain of Court Victory #379 of the Catholic Daughters of the Americas for a period of two years, effective immediately. These appointments are in addition to his current assignment as pastor of St. Patrick Parish in Weston, St. Bridget Chapel in Loveberry, and St. Patrick School in Weston.
TEC stands for Teens Encounter Christ. TEC is an international, spiritual-renewal movement in the Catholic Church that strives to bring young people and adults into close, personal relationship with Jesus Christ. TEC is a community, led by the Holy Spirit, that gathers people into Christian groups of faith, while attempting to incorporate its ministry into the overall ministry of their members’ dioceses and parishes.

The primary method employed to gather people into Christian community and form them in the Christian life is that of the weekend retreat. At the weekend retreat, which usually runs from Friday evening to Monday afternoon, the participants are led into Christ’s Paschal Mystery, through a combination of presentations, activities, talks, prayer, community building, and liturgy.

With the Paschal Mystery as the movement’s fundamental point of theological focus, participants on the retreats are shown God’s great love for them, through a close consideration of Jesus Christ’s suffering, death, and resurrection. They are shown how to incorporate Christ’s Paschal Mystery into their own faith lives, through a calling to die to sin and self, in order to rise to New Life in the Spirit. They are also empowered to bring back to their communities the great gift of God’s love and Spirit that they encountered on their retreat.

Once initiated into the movement through attending a weekend retreat, the participant becomes an informal member of a Catholic community within the Church that endeavors to live the Christian life and bring others into relationship with Jesus Christ through His Church.

The Spirit encountered, energy built, and community established at the retreats never die. They flow over into the wider community throughout dioceses and within parishes. The TEC community also itself maintains its identity through gatherings and events that continue beyond the retreats.

The next TEC retreat that will take place in the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston will be held from Friday, January 14th to Monday, January 17th, at the St. John XXIII Pastoral Center in Charleston, West Virginia. It will be free for all teens who are in their junior year of high school through first year of college. You can register to attend or volunteer at this retreat on the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston’s website (dwc.org) and clicking Events at the top right of the home page.

Father Jagela Blesses Bridgeport Daycare Operated by Parishioners

BRIDGEPORT—Father Walt Jagela, pastor of All Saints Parish in Bridgeport, blessed the new addition to the Cubby’s Daycare in Bridgeport Dec. 14. The facility is run by three parishioners: Jennifer Trippett, Janelle DeMarco, and Jeanette Lavender (all sisters).

“Many of the kids from our parish go there for child care each day,” said Brian Suehs-Vassell, pastoral associate at All Saints. “Father Walt and our staff felt it was important to bless the building and the work of people who care for the children of our community.”

Suesh-Vassell added that it is “especially cool that it is run by parishioners whose family have a long history of being a part of All Saints. The building is really cutting edge to provide great opportunities for the children of our community.”

Stephen Pishner, director of Music and Liturgy at All Saints Parish in Bridgeport, is pictured.

Stephen Pishner’s latest album “Songs of Hope for the Heart” is now available online on: iTunes, Amazon Music, Spotify, Youtube and on 40 other various digital music platforms worldwide. The album cover is pictured above.

Pishner a message requesting one of his CDs. She had just lost her 93-year-old father. She had heard Pishner’s recording of “Quiet My Soul” on the broadcast and found it comforting. He sent her the CD and she was very grateful.

More recently Pishner was also interviewed by a radio show from England called Chat and Spin Radio. He got a chance to talk about the music that he’s composing, recording and performing these days, as well as his work at All Saints. There were 142,000 listeners during the interview. Pishner has been invited back on the show in December.

Pishner’s latest album “Songs of Hope for the Heart” is now available online on: iTunes, Amazon Music, Spotify, Youtube and on 40 other various digital music platforms worldwide.

He also has some recently recorded Christmas music now available on many digital music platforms this December. One song, most notably, is called “Labor of Love” by Andrew Peterson. It is a very powerful song that recalls the nativity story, in a very real way. The song is a kind of duet that features Belinda, his wife. It was recorded in Wheeling at Jamie Peck Productions. Stephen has also now created a “Pishner Christmas Playlist” now on YouTube, that people can hear for free.

WEIRTON—On Dec. 2, Blue Stream Farms hosted second- through fourth-grade students from St. Paul School in Weirton. The students learned about microgreens, hydroponics and aquaponics.

During the field trip the students planted 800 heads of lettuce that will be donated to organizations over the holiday season that assist those in need.

“It was a great day for Blue Stream Farms!” shared Joseph R. Edmiston, chief operating officer of Blue Stream Farms. “Having students in the building and getting them excited about what we do is exactly the outcome we hope for. At Blue Stream Farms students have the ability to literally watch science come to life.”

In addition to planting lettuce for those in need, the students also toured the facility, named some of the organization’s 75 tilapia and asked numerous questions to gain a better understanding of how the grow process works at Blue Stream Farms.

“We are very proud to have one of our local grade schools taking advantage of what we offer at Blue Stream Farms,” said Daniel B. Spickard, chief executive officer at Blue Stream Farms. “It is great to see students advance their content knowledge through our project-based learning platform.”

Blue Stream Farms is open to any school in the tri-state area that would like to schedule a field trip to learn about their grow systems.

For additional information on Blue Stream Farms, visit the organization’s website at: www.bluestreamfarms.com.

Pope establishes ‘Fratelli Tutti’ Foundation

By Junno Arocho Esteves, Catholic News Service

VATICAN CITY (CNS) — Pope Francis established a new Vatican foundation that will promote initiatives based on the principles set forth in his encyclical "Fratelli Tutti, on Fraternity and Social Friendship."

In a decree published by the Vatican Dec. 15, the pope said he would "gladly accede" to the request of the Fabbrica di San Pietro, the Vatican office charged with the maintenance and upkeep of St. Peter's Basilica, "to establish a foundation that will be headed by Cardinal Mauro Gambetti, archpriest of St. Peter's Basilica, will "support and plan" the promotion of art and faith."

According to its statutes, the foundation, which will be headed by Cardinal Mauro Gambetti, archpriest of St. Peter's Basilica, will "support and plan" the promotion of art and faith. It will also "invest in cultural and spiritual formation through events, experiences, paths and spiritual exercises" and "promote dialogue with cultures and other religions on the themes of the pope's recent encyclical to build a 'social alliance.'"

Among the goals of the "Fratelli Tutti" Foundation will be to promote a "culture of peace" as well as "new encounters" that are "nourished by social dialogue, the sense of social forgiveness."

It will also sponsor initiatives that foster "the development of fraternal humanism" aimed at promoting "the principles of freedom, equality and fraternity, conditions for building a 'universal love' that recognizes and protects the dignity of persons" and the environment.

Lastly, inspired by the social teaching of the Catholic Church, the new foundation will promote "social alliance, responsible entrepreneurship, social investment, human and sustainable forms of work," as well as "integrality, sustainable development, ecological transition, health and scientific and technological research."

Rejoicing with William

William is an Adult Learner in Huntington. He is a recovering addict and has been in recovery since August. We rejoice with William, celebrating his progress and victories!

This is an appropriate time to focus on William’s story, as we are called to rejoice in a special way during this week of Advent.

William and others in recovery have been experiencing particular struggles over the last year and a half, which makes their triumphs all the more exceptional. Social distancing has led to isolation, which can be dangerous for those struggling with substance use disorder (SUD). SUD impacts every area of a person’s life, including relationships, nutrition, housing, and employment. William needs “wrap-around” support and services to help him overcome daunting challenges.

Our staff has worked with William to create an individualized plan to help him achieve his unique goals. We’ve connected him with social services to support him while he earns his High School Equivalency diploma.

William says, “I’m getting a lot of help from Catholic Charities. They’ve helped me in so many different ways. Like, furthering my education, meals when I’m hungry and I don’t have much to eat, rides to and from the [Catholic Charities] Center, helping me stay sober and in my recovery, and last but not least, friendship.”

We’re honored to walk with William on his journey of recovery. And we truly rejoice with him, thankful for every victory!

Ultimately, our goal is to help adult learners like William become healthier, stay in recovery, and get on the road to self-sufficiency.

Papa: Prepárense para la Navidad sirviendo a los demás

Por Junno Arocho Esteves, Catholic News Service

CIUDAD DEL VATICANO (CNS) — Faltando poco más de una semana para la Navidad, los cristianos deben prepararse para el nacimiento de Jesús sirviendo a los necesitados, dijo el papa Francisco. “Estamos muy ocupados con todos los preparativos, con los regalos y las cosas que pasan”, dijo el papa el 12 de diciembre durante su discurso del Ángelus del domingo. “Pero pregúntemonos qué debemos hacer por Jesús y por los demás. ¿Qué debemos hacer?”

Muchos niños, junto con sus familias, llegaron a la Plaza de San Pedro con sus figuras del niño Jesús para recibir una bendición tradicional del papa. Asegurándose que bendeciría sus estatuas después de rezar el Ángelus, el papa Francisco saludó a los pequeños y les pidió que llevaran “mis saludos navideños a sus abuelos y a todos sus seres queridos”.

En su discurso principal, el papa se reflejó sobre la lectura dominical del Evangelio de San Lucas que recordó las multitudes de personas que, tras ser conmovidas por la predicación de San Juan Bautista, le preguntaron: “¿Qué debemos hacer?”

Su pregunta “no surge de un sentido del deber”, sino por corazones que están “tocados por el Señor” y están entusiasmados por su venida. Al igual que los preparativos que la gente hace para recibir a un invitado en su casa limpiando y preparando “la mejor cena posible”, los cristianos deben hacer “lo mismo con el Señor”, dijo.

El Evangelio de San Lucas, agregó el papa, también alienta a uno a preguntarse: “¿Qué debo hacer con mi vida? ¿A qué estoy llamado? ¿En qué me convierte?”

“Al sugerir esta pregunta, el Evangelio nos recuerda algo importante: la vida tiene una tarea para nosotros. La vida no carece de sentido, no se deja al azar. ¡No! Es un regalo que el Señor nos concede, diciéndonos: ‘Descubre quién eres y trabaja duro para hacer realidad el sueño que es tu vida’.”

El papa animó a los cristianos a prepararse para la Navidad preguntando continuamente a Dios qué deberían hacer por ellos mismos y por los demás para contribuir al bien de la iglesia y la sociedad. Las respuestas de San Juan Bautista, dijo, respondieron a cada individuo de una manera que se ajustara a su situación en la vida, un recordatorio del Evangelio de que “la vida se encarna” en situaciones concretas.

“La fe no es una teoría abstracta, una teoría generalizada, ¿no?”, él dijo. “La fe nos toca personalmente y transforma cada una de nuestras vidas. Pensemos en la concepción de nuestra fe. ¿Es mi fe abstracta, algo abstracto o concreta? ¿Me lleva a servir a los demás, a ayudar?”

El papa Francisco dijo que hay varias formas en que las personas pueden servir a los demás durante el Adviento, incluso haciendo “algo concreto, incluso si es pequeño” para ayudar a otros, especialmente visitando a personas que se sienten solas, a los ancianos, a los enfermos o alguien necesitado. Entonces el papa agregó a la lista: “Quizás necesito pedir perdón, conceder perdón, aclarar una situación, pagar una deuda. Quizás he descuidado la oración y después de tanto tiempo, es hora de pedir perdón al Señor.”

“Hermanos y hermanas”, dijo, “¡busquemos algo concreto y hágamoslo!”

Catholic Groups Challenge Federal Mandate on Gender Transition Procedures

By Catholic News Service
WASHINGTON (CNS) — Several Catholic hospitals, a Catholic university and Mercy sisters who run health clinics filed a challenge to a federal mandate for performing gender transition procedures with the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 8th Circuit Dec. 15.

The groups are continuing a fight they had previously won when two lower federal courts struck down what has been described as the Affordable Care Act’s “transgender mandate,” saying it was a violation of the Religious Freedom Restoration Act.

The Biden administration has appealed both decisions at the 8th Circuit.

Becket, a Washington-based nonprofit religious liberty law firm that is representing some of the Catholic groups, described this case on its website as challenging a policy that threatens Catholic doctors, hospital and clinics “with multimillion-dollar penalties for sex discrimination unless they perform controversial gender-transition procedures.”

Luke Goodrich, vice president and senior counsel at Becket, said in a Dec. 15 statement that both federal courts which took up “this controversial mandate have struck it down as bad for patients, bad for doctors and bad for religious liberty.”

He also said the federal government “has no business forcing doctors to perform controversial procedures that could be deeply harmful to patients,” and he hoped the appeals court would issue “a commonsense ruling” that is good for everyone.

In 2016, the federal government began implementing a mandate requiring doctors to perform gender transition procedures on any patient, including children, and required private insurance companies — except plans run by Medicare and Medicaid — and many employers to cover gender reassignment therapy or face severe penalties and legal action.

In August 2016, Becket, joined by eight state governments, filed a lawsuit in Texas on behalf of Franciscan Alliance, a religious hospital network sponsored by the Sisters of St. Francis of Perpetual Adoration, and the Christian Medical & Dental Associations, defending them from this government mandate.

Becket filed a parallel lawsuit in federal court in November 2016 on behalf of Catholic groups in North Dakota including the Sisters of Mercy, the University of Mary in Fargo, and SMP Health System, sponsored by the Sisters of Mary of the Presentation. The state of North Dakota also joined Becket’s legal challenge.

In 2016, the federal court in North Dakota put the rule on hold, and in 2019 the federal court in Texas struck it down. The two courts said the policy was an unlawful overreach by a federal agency and a likely violation of religious liberty.

In 2020, the Trump administration put in place conscience protections for doctors opposed to the mandate, but the effort was blocked by the courts.

On Jan. 21, 2021, the U.S. District Court for the District of North Dakota Eastern Division struck down the transgender mandate. On Aug. 9, 2021, the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Texas granted the plaintiffs permanent relief from the mandate.

In November, the Supreme Court turned down an appeal from a Catholic hospital in California that was sued for refusing to perform a hysterectomy on a transgender patient.

The court’s decision, issued without comment, sent the lawsuit back to state court.

When the Catholic hospital was sued in 2016, a trial court sided with it, but an appeals court reversed that decision. So the hospital appealed to the Supreme Court in 2020, saying its case “poses a profound threat to faith-based health care institutions’ ability to advance their healing ministries consistent with the teachings of their faith.”

A brief filed by the Catholic Health Association said the appeals court decision “portends ill for all religious organizations that serve the public following the precepts of religious teaching.”
