WASHINGTON (CNS) — The U.S. bishops’ annual report on compliance with the “Charter for the Protection of Children and Young People” shows that 2,930 victim survivors came forward with 3,103 allegations during the audit year of July 1, 2020 to June 30, 2021.

The number of allegations is 1,149 less than that reported in 2020, according to the audit report released July 12 by the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops’ Secretariat of Child and Youth Protection.

“This decrease is due in large part to the resolution of allegations received as a result of lawsuits, compensation programs, and bankruptcies,” said a news release accompanying the report. “Of the allegations received, 2,284 (74%) were first brought to the attention of the diocesan/eparchial representative by an attorney.”

The majority of allegations received were “historical in nature,” meaning the alleged victim is now an adult and the abuse happened in years or decades past. During this audit year, there were 30 new allegations.

The report is based on the audit findings of StoneBridge Business Partners, a specialty consulting firm based in Rochester, New York. Also included in the report are results of a survey on allegations conducted by the Center for Applied Research in the Apostolate at Georgetown.

The charter was adopted in 2002 by the U.S. bishops following widespread reports of clergy abuse and has been revised several times since to adapt to changing situations surrounding the question of clergy sexual abuse of minors. It was revised in 2005, 2011 and 2018.

Of the new allegations made by current minors, six were substantiated; nine are still under investigation; nine were unsubstantiated; five could not be proven; and one was

“This year’s audit, once again, shows that new cases of sexual misconduct by priests involving minors are rare today in the Catholic Church in the United States,” Los Angeles Archbishop Jose H. Gomez, USCCB president, said in a preface to the report. He added that “every offender was removed from ministry. Every allegation was reported to law enforcement.”

“As we know, one allegation of abuse is too many,” he said. “But my brother bishops and I remain firmly committed to maintain our vigilance in protecting children and vulnerable adults and in providing compassion and outreach to victims-survivors of abuse.”

“On behalf of my brother bishops, I again want to express our sorrow for the pain and suffering experienced by ever person who has suffered at the hands of someone in the church. And again, we pledge our commitment to the healing of victim-survivors and to doing everything in our power to protect children and vulnerable adults.”

The report shows that dioceses and eparchies provided outreach and support to 285 victim survivors and their families who reported an allegation during the audit period. Continued support was provided to 1,737 individuals who had reported in prior audit periods.

In 2021, the church conducted 1,964,656 background checks on clergy, employees and volunteers. In addition, over 2.2 million adults and over 2.4 million children and youth were trained in how to identify the warning signs of abuse and how to report them.

Data from CARA said the costs related to allegations for dioceses and eparchies for fiscal year 2021 were: settlements, $118,516,493; other payments to victims, $13,103,280; settlements, $118,516,493; other costs, $6,930,931.

The report shows that dioceses and eparchies spent $311,980,666 for fiscal year 2020. The total cost is for attorney’s fees and religious superiors who protect abusers.

In the audit process could also include, she said, a new section of the Code of Canon Law dealing with crimes and punishments in the church: “Book VI: Penal Sanctions in the Church.”

The NRB suggested a voluntary “mentorship” program between eparchies that do not participate in the audit and other eparchies that do. She added that it also proposed there be one day per week when parishes in every diocese offer “a liturgy of lament for victims/survivors of clergy sexual abuse and their families.”

“The efforts of the many individuals, both lay and ordained, the culture and attitudes surrounding the abuse of children has and will continue to change,” Deacon Bernie Nojadera, director of the Secretariat for Child and Youth Protection, said in a letter to the archbishop of the diocese.

He has been blessed by the survivors he has come to know, he said, by them “sharing their stories and how they learned to cope and survive, in some cases, thrive. I am honored and humbled to be in the presence of such holy people.”

“The church will be successful in her journey toward conversion, reconciliation, healing and hope through the relationships with victims/survivors,” he said.

“The healing of such experiences is a process of listening, accompaniment and atonement. ... Together, with our sisters and brothers who have been abused, we can and will weather this storm and grow in the abundant love of our Lord,” the deacon said.

Sexual Abuse Awareness Training

The U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops (USCCB) requires that all dioceses and eparchies have in place a Safe Environment Program for the protection of children and young people. In accordance with these requirements, the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston’s Safe Environment Program consists of the following components for persons seeking employment or to volunteer—directly or indirectly—with children; background check; receipt of the Diocese’s Policy Relating to Sexual Abuse of Children; and sexual abuse awareness training for adults. Sexual abuse awareness training is mandatory for all diocesan employees and volunteers. All employees and volunteers must complete training orientations. Training is completed online or via live workshop. House Bill to Codify Roe is ‘Unjust, Extreme,’ say USCCB Committee Chairmen

By Catholic News Service
WASHINGTON (CNS) — The chairman of the U.S. bishops’ Committee on Pro-Life Activities, and Cardinal Timothy M. Dolan of New York, chairman of the USCCB’s Committee for Religious Liberty, made the comments in a joint statement July 18.

In a mostly party-line vote of 219 to 210, House members approved an updated version of the Women’s Health Protection Act of 2022, which would codify a right to abortion in federal law.

An earlier version was passed in March by the House, but it failed to pass in the Senate.

The bill, H.R. 8296, would impose abortion on demand nationwide at any stage of pregnancy and would eliminate pro-life laws at every level of government — including parental notification for minor girls, informed consent, and health and safety protections specific to abortion facilities.

“Answering the needs of women by promoting taxpayer-funded elective abortion, as this bill would do, is a grave evil and a failure to love and serve women,” said Archbishop Lori and Cardinal Dolan.

“Offering free or low-cost abortions, instead of increasing the resources women need to care for themselves and their children, is not ‘choice’ but coercion and callous abandonment,” they said.

“Deliberately ending the lives of defenseless and voiceless human beings is the antithesis of health care,” they added.

“Simply repeating the mantra that abortion is health care doesn’t make it so,” they added. “Deliberately ending the lives of defenseless and voiceless human beings is the antithesis of health care.”

They said H.R. 8296 would likely force health care providers and professionals to perform, asist in and/or refer for abortion against their deeply-held beliefs, as well as force employers and insurers to cover or pay for abortion.

The House also passed the Ensuring Access to Abortion Act, H.R. 8297, which would ban states from punishing those who travel out of state “for reproductive health care.” This vote was approved 223-205.

Archbishop Lori and Cardinal Dolan invited everyone, in Congress and in the country at large, to join the U.S. bishops “in pursuing a vision we presented in ‘Standing with Moms in Need,’” which, they said, “upholds the truth that every human life is sacred and inviolable — a society in which the legal protection of human life is accompanied by profound care for mothers and their children.”

The USCCB issued the statement “Standing with Moms in Need” earlier this year as the nation awaited the outcome of the Supreme Court’s ruling in Dobbs v. Jackson Women’s Health Organization, a challenge to a Mississippi law banning abortion after 15 weeks. Oral arguments were heard in the case Dec. 1.

The bishops reiterated their statement when a draft of the court’s majority opinion in Dobbs was leaked in early May indicating Roe v. Wade would be overturned.

On June 24, the court upheld the Mississippi law 6-3, but the high court also voted 5-4 to overturn its 1973 Roe decision and 1992’s Casey v. Planned Parenthood ruling, which affirmed Roe.

In the “Standing with Moms in Need” statement, the bishops pledged “to redouble our efforts to accompany women and couples who are facing unexpected or difficult pregnancies, and during the early years of parenthood, offering them loving and compassionate care through initiatives such as ‘Walking with Moms in Need’ and countless others.”

These efforts include ensuring all parishes are places of welcome for pregnant women in need and their families.

In 2020, the U.S. bishops launched the initiative “Walking with Moms in Need,” which aims to engage every Catholic parish “in providing a safety net to ensure that pregnant and parenting moms have the resources, love and support they need to nurture the lives of their children.”

In the “Standing with Moms in Need” statement, the bishops also said they would redouble “our advocacy for laws that ensure the right to life for unborn children and that no mother or family lacks the basic resources needed to care for their children, regardless of age, race, immigration status or any other factor.”

“We are deeply conscious that, after nearly half a century of legalized abortion, more than 65 million children have died from abortion and an untold number of women, men, and families suffer in the aftermath,” they also said.

“Recognizing this pain and loss, we also recommit our committees and urge our dioceses, parishes, and Catholic agencies and institutions: To proclaim God’s mercy after abortion and compassionately accompany women and men who are suffering after an abortion,” they said.

They also pledged to expand the church’s abortion healing ministries.

The “Standing with Moms in Need” was signed by Los Angeles Archbishop José H. Gomez, USCCB president, and the chairmen of eight USCCB committees: pro-life, migration, domestic policy, international policy, Catholic education, communications, evangelization and catechesis, and marriage and family life.

German Synodal Path Must Not Create New Structures, Doctrines, Vatican Says

By Cindy Wooden, Catholic News Service

VATICAN CITY (CNS) — “It seems necessary to make it clear that the ‘Synodal Path’ in Germany does not have the power to compel bishops and the faithful to assume new modes of governance and new approaches to doctrine and morals,” said an unsigned “declaration of the Holy See.”

Released by the Vatican press office in German and Italian July 21, the declaration said the Catholic Church in Germany could not “initiate new official structures or doctrines in the dioceses prior to an agreed understanding at the level of the universal church.”

Doing so, it said, “would represent a wound to ecclesial communion and a threat to the unity of the church.”

The fourth assembly of the Synodal Path is scheduled to meet Sept. 8-10 in Frankfurt with plans to debate a series of revised texts and vote on them for possible adaption as resolutions of the Synodal Path.

The assembly is made up of the members of the German bishops’ conference, 69 representatives of the Central Committee of German Catholics, and other representatives of spiritual ministries and church offices, young people and individuals. In total, the synodal assembly comprises 230 people.

At its meeting in early February, the assembly passed resolutions calling for a greater role and voice for laypeople in church decision making and for the involvement of laypeople and clerical chapters that have a voice in recommending the names of candidates to be submitted to the pope for possible nomination as bishops.

The assembly also made its initial consideration of motions to encourage a relaxation of the rule of mandatory celibacy for most Latin-rite priests and in favor of the ordination of women as deacons. The blessing of same-sex unions has been widely discussed as well, but not formally adopted by the assembly.

The power of the assembly to make decisions for the Catholic Church in Germany has been widely and repeatedly discussed. Bishop Georg Baetzing, president of the German bishops’ conference, in an April letter responding to bishops from other countries criticizing the German process, insisted all resolutions calling for reforms that can only be implemented at the universal church level would be submitted to the worldwide synodal process launched by Pope Francis in preparation for the 2023 Synod of Bishops on synodality.

In a 2019 letter to German Catholics — a letter also quoted in the new declaration — Pope Francis emphasized that synodality is a process that must be guided by the Holy Spirit with patience and not “a search for immediate results that generate quick and immediate consequences.” Transformation “calls for pastoral conversion,” he said.

“Brothers and sisters, let us care for one another and be attentive to the temptation of the father of lies and division, the master of separation who, in pushing us to seek an apparent good or a response to a given situation, in fact ends up fragmenting the body of the holy and faithful people of God,” the pope said.

The July declaration from the Vatican reminded Catholics in Germany of Pope Francis’ words to them in 2019 that “the local church and the universal church live and flourish together.

If local churches separate from the whole, he said, “they become debilitated, rot and die. Hence the need to keep communion with the whole body of the church always alive and effective.”

The Vatican declaration said, “It is hoped that the proposals of the Path of the particular churches in Germany will flow into the synodal path being taken by the universal church for mutual enrichment and a witness to that unity by which the body of the church manifests its fidelity to Christ the Lord.”

The Catholic Church in Germany launched the Synodal Path Dec. 1, 2019, in a search for ways to restore trust lost in the clergy abuse scandal. Scheduled to conclude its work by February 2023, it is debating the issues of power, sexual morality, priestly existence and the role of women in the church.

Pope Describes Canada Trip as ‘Penitential Pilgrimage’

By Cindy Wooden, Catholic News Service

VATICAN CITY (CNS) — Asking for prayers ahead of his visit to Canada July 24-29, Pope Francis described the trip as a “penitential pilgrimage” as part of a commitment to healing and reconciliation with the country’s Indigenous people.

“Unfortunately, in Canada, many Christians, including some members of religious institutes, contributed to the policies of cultural assimilation that, in the past, have severely harmed native communities in various ways,” the pope said July 17, referring particularly to the involvement of dioceses and religious orders in running residential schools.

From the 1870s to the 1990s, the Canadian government, usually in partnership with Christian churches, operated a residential school system to which over 150,000 First Nation, Métis and Inuit students were sent. Their language and customs were banned, and they often suffered malnourishment and physical, emotional and sexual abuse.

Addressing pilgrims in St. Peter’s Square after the recitation of the Angelus prayer, Pope Francis said the church’s involvement in the schools was the reason why he met in late March and early April at the Vatican with “representatives of Indigenous peoples, to whom I expressed my sorrow and solidarity for the harm they have suffered.”

“And now I am about to embark on a penitential pilgrimage, which I hope, with God’s grace, will contribute to the journey of healing and reconciliation already undertaken,” the pope said.

With his mobility still limited because of knee trouble, Pope Francis’ itinerary is very light, although he will visit the site of a former residential school, a parish for Indigenous people, a popular pilgrimage site in Edmonton and another in Quebec, and will meet Inuit elders and young people in Iqaluit, Nunavut.

He will celebrate a public Mass July 26 at Commonwealth Stadium in Edmonton and another July 28 at the National Shrine of Sainte-Anne-de-Beaupré outside of Quebec. But the Catholic bishops, who are organizing the visit, are giving priority for places at both liturgies to residential school survivors and other members of the Indigenous communities.

Addressing his “dear brothers and sisters of Canada,” Pope Francis half apologized for not being able to meet everyone. “As you know, I will come among you especially in the name of Jesus to meet and embrace the Indigenous peoples.”

“I thank you in advance for all the work of preparation and for the welcome you will give me,” the pope said. “And I ask you to please accompany me in prayer.”

Grandparents and Elderly to Receive Special Blessing at the Cathedral

WHEELING—Pope Francis has established throughout the Church the celebration of the World Day for Grandparents and Elderly on the fourth Sunday of July, near the liturgical memorial of Saints Joachim and Anne, the grandparents of Jesus.

The theme for this year’s celebration is “In Old Age They Will Still Bear Fruit” (Ps. 92:15). The theme is meant to emphasize how grandparents are a gift both to society and the church.

To celebrate the World Day for Grandparents and the Elderly, the Cathedral of St. Joseph in Wheeling invites all grandparents and elderly present at this weekend’s Masses (July 23-24) to receive a special blessing at the conclusion of Mass.

This year, Pope Francis is also extending the opportunity for a plenary indulgence “to the faithful who devote adequate time to visit, in presence or virtually, through the media, their elderly brothers and sisters in need or in difficulty” on July 24.

Texas Bishops Call for Immigration Reform after Migrant Deaths in Trailer

By Rhina Guidos, Catholic News Service

WASHINGTON (CNS) — The Texas Catholic bishops urged immigration reform, saying it is necessary to prevent what happened to 53 migrants discovered dead and dying inside a trailer June 27 from happening again.

Reminding others to reflect on the incident, they focused on defending the sacredness of every life.

In a YouTube video posted July 15, Cardinal Daniel N. DiNardo of Galveston-Houston, Bishop Michael F. Olson of Fort Worth and Archbishop Gustavo García-Siller of San Antonio, on behalf of the Texas Catholic Conference of Catholic Bishops, reminded Catholics “to never forget the sacredness of all human life in light of all this.”

Cardinal DiNardo recalled Pope Francis’ lament, the “throwaway culture” the pope warns against, which leads humanity to discard God’s creation, including people.

“This senseless loss of life should shock and sadden us as we are all brothers and sisters in Christ,” said Cardinal DiNardo in the video. “We cannot ignore those most vulnerable among us who at times become victims of this throwaway culture and only seek a better life for themselves and their families.”

He commended the souls of the men and women who died near San Antonio after being smuggled into the U.S. in the part of a semi-trailer reserved for cargo, not people. They were traveling without air conditioning or ventilation in temperatures that surpassed 100 degrees. It’s not clear how long they had been inside the trailer.

Authorities said the man identified as the truck driver, Homero Zamarano Jr., fled the scene, leaving the migrants, which included minors, dead and dying. He has been apprehended and charged with alien smuggling resulting in death. Three others also have been arrested in connection with the incident.

“They’re God’s children,” said Archbishop García-Siller in the video. “Their abandonment inside the sweltering tractor-trailer “is one of those sins that cry to heaven,” he said, adding that it’s the kind of loss that could have been prevented with common sense immigration laws, which the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops and the Texas Catholic Conference of Bishops have supported for decades.

“The exploitation of the poor and in particular of migrants who flee dramatic situations in search of opportunities and hope is particularly grave,” said Archbishop García-Siller in the video.

Bishop Olson said that “our nation’s past unwillingness to address immigration ... has brought us to a grave moment of polarization and crisis that threatens the lives of the vulnerable.

“This polarization has hardened many hearts resulting in apathy and indifference for the suffering and exploitation of the vulnerable women and children who are the victims of the trafficking of drugs and of human beings,” he said.

“The light of our faith should prompt us to care and to address the causes of these injustices as

Conferencia episcopal publica auditoría anual sobre denuncias de abuso

Por Catholic News Service

WASHINGTON (CNS) — El informe anual de los obispos de EE. UU. sobre el cumplimiento del "Carta para la Protección de Niños y Jóvenes" muestra que 2.936 denuncias de víctimas fueron presentadas en 2021, 1.149 menos que el informado en 2020, según el informe y el auditorio publicado el 12 de julio de la Secretaría de Protección de Niños y Jóvenes de la Conferencia de Obispos Católicos de EE. UU. conocido como USCCB por sus siglas en inglés.

"Esta disminución se debe en gran parte a la resolución de casos como resultado de jui- cios, programas de compensación y quiebras", dijo un comunicado de prensa que acompaña al informe. "De las denuncias recibidas, 2,284 (74%) fueron presentadas primero a la atención del representante diocesano de la protección de niños de la Iglesia Católica. La mayoría de las denuncias recibidas fueron de "naturaleza histórica", lo que significa que la presunta víctima es ahora un adulto y el abuso ocurrió hace años o décadas. Durante este año de auditoría, hubo 30 nuevos casos que no se basan en los resulta- tados de la auditoría de StoneBridge Business Partners, un grupo consultor con sede en Rochester, Nueva York. También se incluyen en el informe los resultados de una revisión dirigida por laicos que funcione como un "álbum de fotos" para todos los casos, incluyendo las denuncias recibidas en años o décadas. Margie McLaughlin was dedicated to reaching out to her community. She often showed her compassion by filling and delivering “goodie bags” to people in need.

“She personally strived to provide services that allowed her community to live a happy, healthy, and spiritual life,” said Tammy, Margie's daughter. “Compassion was her motivation and the knowledge of helping another individual was her only desired payment.”

After Margie passed away last year, the McLaughlin family chose to use their grief for good by honoring Margie’s memory with Margie’s Mission. Margie’s children and grandchildren have committed to making regular donations of hygiene products, laundry supplies, and pet food to clients at Catholic Charities Loaves and Fishes Outreach Center.

Our clients and staff are grateful for the McLaughlin family, and for Margie's legacy of love.

Volunteer Drivers Needed

WHEELING—The Catholic Charities Neighborhood Center on 18th Street operates a Meals on Wheels program, where by hundreds of residents are provided one meal around noon on Mondays thru Saturdays. Different delivery routes are established for various neighborhoods, and it often takes less than one hour for volunteer drivers to complete their “Routes.” Food is usually ready for pickup around 10:30 a.m. at the center.

At this time, there is a shortage of drivers for Meals on Wheels. In a twist of fate, Fridays have been most difficult to schedule. In fact, over the next three Fridays, meals will not be delivered to shut-ins due to the driver shortage.

To become a driver, call Jodi Fogle at the 18th St. Center at (304) 232-7157.
