More Than 170 to Enter Church at Easter Vigil across Diocese

By Colleen Rowan

The church rejoices in your desire to draw closer to God..." Bishop Mark Brennan said to the catechumens and candidates gathered at the Cathedral of St. Joseph in Wheeling March 5 for the first of three celebrations of the Rite of Election and Call to Continuing Conversion in the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston.

The bishop said that he and the Catholic faithful will pray for them as they enter the final days in preparation for the sacraments they will receive at the Easter Vigil when they will enter into full communion with the Catholic Church. "Thank God for the faith that has brought you thus far," Bishop Brennan said to them, "and we pray that that faith may grow ever stronger in your minds and hearts."

At the cathedral that day, 32 catechumens and 47 candidates from the northern region of the diocese were present. The next day, Bishop Brennan travelled to Charleston to celebrate with the 22 catechumens and 36 candidates of the southern region at the Basilica of the Co-Cathedral of the Sacred Heart. This Sunday, March 13, the celebration will culminate with the Rite of Election and Call to Continuing Conversion at St. James the Greater Parish in Charles Town where See “Church” on Page 4

Pope Says ‘Rivers of Blood’ Flowing in Ukraine; Vatican Ready to Help

By Cindy Wooden, Catholic News Service

VATICAN CITY (CNS) — Pope Francis said the Vatican “is ready to do everything to put itself at the service of peace” in Ukraine.

"Rivers of blood and tears are flowing in Ukraine," the pope said March 6 as he led thousands of people in St. Peter’s Square in praying for peace after reciting the Angelus.

Pope Francis said he was sending two cardinals to Ukraine: Polish Cardinal Konrad Krajewski, who runs the office of papal charities, and Canadian Cardinal Michael Czerny, interim president of the Dicastery for Promoting Integral Human Development.

“The presence of the two cardinals there is the presence not only of the pope, but of all the Christian people who want to get closer and say: ‘War is madness! Stop, please! Look at this cruelty!’” the pope said.

Moments after the pope spoke, Cardinal Krajewski told Vatican News that he was about to leave Rome for Poland because from Poland he is sure he will be able to enter Ukraine. Then we’ll see how far I can get to reach the people and show them the closeness of the pope, tell them See “Ukraine” on Page 3

Praying for the People of Ukraine

The parishioners of St. Peter the Fisherman Parish in Fairmont pray for the people of Ukraine and world peace Feb. 27. Parishioners will be praying the rosary 25 minutes prior to every weekend Mass, and there will be an hour of Eucharistic Adoration at the church on all weekdays during Lent.

Cardinals Arrive in Ukraine, Hungary on Mission of Hope

By Junno Arocho Esteves, Catholic News Service

VATICAN CITY (CNS) — Two cardinals arrived at separate destinations on one mission entrusted to them by Pope Francis: to bring relief, hope and encouragement to suffering Ukrainians.

Polish Cardinal Konrad Krajewski, papal almoner, arrived in the western Ukrainian city of Lviv March 8 and met with Archbishop Symoatiav Shevchuk of Kyiv-Halych, head of the Ukrainian Catholic Church, and Archbishop Mieczyslaw Mokrzycki, head of the Latin-rite Archdiocese of Lviv.

Father Andriy Soletsky, a spokesman for Archbishop Shevchuk, told Catholic News Service March 9 that Archbishop Shevchuk traveled from Kyiv to Lviv the day before specifically to meet with Cardinal Krajewski and help him fulfill the mission Pope Francis had entrusted to him. That may include helping the cardinal get to Kyiv “if possible,” Father Soletsky said.

However, he said, for the security of both the cardinal and Archbishop Shevchuk, the church will not share details of how or when either is traveling. Lviv has not been shelled, “thanks be to God,” Father Soletsky said, but the city in Western Ukraine is being overwhelmed with displaced people gathering there to try to find rides, trains or buses to Poland, Hungary or Romania. People are sleeping in line at the train station and every church has opened as a shelter.

But with Lviv’s population having doubled in the past two weeks, he said, the ability to shelter and feed everyone is becoming critical.

According to the Ukrainian Catholic Church, Cardinal Krajewski was to visit a variety of social service centers and take part March 10 in a joint prayer service with “representatives of the Ukrainian Council of Churches and religious organizations.”

Prior to his arrival in Ukraine, Cardinal Krajewski met with Caritas volunteers helping refugees in several Polish cities near the border with Ukraine.

According to the Polish Catholic weekly Gosc Niedzielny, the Polish cardinal was asked by journalists if he was afraid of entering a war zone.

“I am afraid, as everyone is afraid, but I went to confession before leaving. I have no debts, I wrote a will,” he said.

“I go freely to bring the Gospel. I want to be with these people.”

Canadian Cardinal Michael Czerny, interim president of the Dicastery for Promoting Integral Human Development, arrived in Budapest, Hungary, March 8 and visited the Keleti train station where he met with Caritas volunteers and thanked them for their work.

He also met with refugees who fled the violence in Ukraine, including two medical students from Nigeria as well as several from China and Vietnam. Despite reports of discrimination against African and Asian residents in Ukraine attempting to flee the country, Vatican News said the group did not experience difficulties crossing the border.

According to Vatican News, one of the Nigerian students, Joyce, told Cardinal Czerny, “I just want to go home.” Cardinal Czerny shook her hand and replied, “Good luck. God is with you, and the pope is close to you.”

The cardinal met March 9 with Zsolt Semjen, Hungary’s deputy prime minister, who assured him Hungary would welcome all refugees from Ukraine “without limits.”

Vatican News said the cardinal asked Semjen to make that welcoming attitude a permanent part of Hungarian government policy and to expand the country’s welcoming of people seeking refuge. The government of Prime Minister Viktor Orban has been promoting an extremely restrictive immigration policy for the country.

he loves them, prays for them and wants to encourage them.”

The cardinal also will bring rosaries from Pope Francis because “with prayer we can move mountains and even stop the war,” he said.

Cardinal Czerny told Catholic News Service that he would be heading to Hungary’s border with Ukraine and would see what could be done from there.

Even if the cardinals cannot get into Ukraine, the Polish and Hungarian borders are the top two destinations of Ukrainians — mainly the elderly, women and children — fleeing the war.

The U.N. Refugee Agency said that as of March 5 more than 1.3 million Ukrainians had fled the country since the Russian invasion began Feb. 24; more than 750,000 of them had crossed into Poland and almost 170,000 had crossed into Hungary.

In his appeal, Pope Francis again praised the nations, charitable organizations and individuals helping the refugees.

The need for humanitarian assistance in Ukraine, “that tormented country, is growing dramatically by the hour,” the pope said.

“I make a heartfelt appeal for humanitarian corridors to be genuinely secured, and for aid access to the besieged areas to be guaranteed and facilitated in order to provide vital relief to our brothers and sisters oppressed by bombs and fear.” Pope Francis added.

Russia and Ukraine had negotiated a partial cease-fire that was supposed to go into effect March 5 to allow civilians to flee several cities encircled by Russian troops and to allow the delivery of aid to people who are without food, water and medicine. Both sides accused the other of violating the cease-fire, and only several hundred of the hundreds of thousands of people to be evacuated were able to leave.

“Above all, I plead for an end to armed attacks, for negotiations to prevail — and for common sense to prevail — and for a return to respect for international law,” Pope Francis said.

He also thanked the journalists “who put their lives at risk to provide information. Thank you, brothers and sisters, for this service, a service that allows us to be close to the tragedy of that population and helps us assess the cruelty of a war.”

the 11 catechumens and 25 candidates of the eastern region will gather.

In all, 173 are coming into the church this year—65 catechumens and 108 candidates. In the northern region, which has the most coming into the church this year, the top three parishes with the highest number of catechumens and candidates are St. John University and St. Francis de Sales in Morgantown, and St. Mary’s in Star City. In the south, the parishes with the most are St. Joseph’s in Huntington, the basilica co-cathedral, and St. Francis de Sales in Beckley. In the Eastern Panhandle, the parishes of St. James in Charles Town and St. John’s in Martinsburg have the most catechumens and candidates.

During the Celebration of Election at all three gatherings, each catechumen stood with his or her godparent as his or her name was called. Bishop Brennan then addressed catechumens, laying the question: “Your own godparents and teachers and this entire community have spoken in your favor. The church in the name of Christ accepts their judgment and calls you to the Easter sacraments. Since you have already heard the call of Christ, you must now express your response to that clearly and in the presence of the whole church. Therefore, do you wish to enter fully in the life of the church through the sacraments of baptism, confirmation, and the Eucharist?”

“We do,” they answered.

The bishop then invited them to offer their names for enrollment. Catechumens accompanied by their godparents came forward to sign their names in the “Book of the Elect.” The bishop then declared them the “Book of the Elect.” The bishop then declared them the “Book of the Elect.”

All then stood with their godparents and sponsors as Bishop Brennan offered the “Prayer of the Elect and Candidates.”

In the days prior to the three celebrations, the diocesan’s Director of Worship and Sacraments Bernadette McMasters Kime was delighted that this year the diocese would be able to celebrate the combined Rite of Election and Call to Continuing Conversion, not having as many Covid-19 restrictions.

“It is such a joy to see that in spite of the Coronavirus pandemic and challenges facing the world, that we are so fortunate to have these men, women, and children seek full membership in the Catholic Church,” Kime said. “As a diocese, we need to support them with our prayers, and warmly welcome them into our parish families and diocesan community.”

Participating parishes across the diocese are: Basilica Co-Cathedral in Charleston, St. Francis de Sales in Beckley, St. John’s in Benwood, St. James the Greater in Charles Town, St. Agnes in Charleston, Sacred Heart in Chester, Immaculate Conception in Clarksburg, St. Brendan’s in Elkins, Immaculate Conception in Fairmont, Annunciation of Our Lord in Fort Ashby, St. Thomas in Gassaway, Good Shepherd in Glenville, Our Lady of Fatima in Huntington, St. Joseph’s in Huntington, Ascension in Hurricane, St. Leo’s in Inwood, St. Joseph’s in Martinsburg, Immaculate Conception in Montgomery, St. Francis de Sales in Morgantown, St. John University in Morgantown, St. Luke the Evangelist in Morgantown, St. Francis Xavier in Moundsville, Immaculate Conception in New Cumberland, St. Vincent de Paul in New Martinsville, Holy Trinity in Nitro, St. Francis Xavier in Parkersburg, St. Margaret Mary’s in Parkersburg, Sacred Heart in Princeton, St. Matthew’s in Ravenswood, Blessed Sacrament in South Charleston, St. John’s in Star City, St. Joseph the Worker in Weirton, St. Paul’s in Weirton, St. Patrick’s in Weston, Corpus Christi in Wheeling, Our Lady of Peace in Wheeling, St. Michael’s in Wheeling, St. Vincent de Paul in Wheeling, and St. Charles Borromeo in White Sulphur Springs.

The worship aid for all three celebrations has this message: “To the men, women, and children who have been called by the Church of Wheeling-Charleston to share in the fullness of sacramental life, we rejoice and unite with you as we journey through these Lenten days of purification and enlightenment. To godparents, pastors, RCIA coordinators, RCIA team members, participating parishes, parishioners, and family members of the elect, we wish you God’s blessings as you continue your work and witness during these final days before our celebration of the Easter mysteries.”

Candidates stand with their sponsors at the Cathedral of St. Joseph in Wheeling during the Rite of Election and Call to Continuing Conversion March 5.

WVIPL Announces Faith Climate Action Week

West Virginia Interfaith Power and Light (WVIPL) invites Catholic parishes and schools around the state to participate in Faith Climate Action Week (FCAW) from April 22-May 1, with a downloadable organizers’ kit available online beginning March 10. FCAW is a ten-day observance during Earth Month in which faith communities across the country are encouraged to focus on how they can act to protect our climate. It is a program of the national Interfaith Power and Light (IPL) network. This year’s theme is “Sacred Trust: Safeguarding Our Children’s Livable Future.”

Free resources available in the kit include climate change information sheets, an Earth Day prayer, a prewritten children’s blessing ceremony, postcards, and a guide with suggestions for additional actions that could be undertaken by congregations independently.

In addition, faith communities may stream this year’s featured film, “Youth v. Gov,” and download a viewing discussion guide free of charge. Discussion guides will be available in March, while the film is available for free streaming and viewing rights between April 11 and May 1.

Angie Iafrate, program and outreach coordinator with WVIPL, notes, “Speaking on the topic of climate change, Pope Francis himself has stated that ‘each of us - whoever and wherever we may be - can play our own part in changing our collective response to the unprecedented threat of climate change and the degradation of our common home.’ The Faith Climate Action Week organizers’ kit offers an easy, low-prep start to heeding the pope’s call to act locally on this global issue which affects us all.”

WVIPL is able to offer in-person or virtual assistance with activity planning or implementation, pending schedule availability and upon request.

A link to the kit download will be available beginning March 10 at www.wvipl.org and via WVIPL’s Facebook page. Please e-mail westvaipl@gmail.com for more information or for assistance in accessing the kit.

Ss. Peter and Paul Students Win Fayette County Young Writer’s Contest

SS. Peter and Paul Catholic School in Oak Hill congratulated its students who placed in the Fayette County Young Writer’s Contest. The students are pictured from left: Caroline Swank—third place (third- and fourth-grade division), Molly Grass—second place (fifth- and sixth-grade division), and Sam Lockhart—first place (first- and second-grade division).
As the Year of St. Joseph comes to a close, the Catholic community is invited to help celebrate St. Joseph School’s patron saint by attending the second annual St. Joseph’s Table on Sunday, March 20, at St. Joseph Church in Martinsburg.

There will be vespers at 5 p.m., followed by dinner in Lackey Hall. The menu includes St. Joseph sawdust with pasta, minestrone di verdure, breads, and desserts. Meals may be eaten in the hall or taken to go.

Attendees are encouraged to wear red.

The dinner is open to everyone and freewill donations will be accepted, as will donations of nonperishable foods for Berkeley County CCAP/Loaves and Fishes.

Please RSVP to the parish office by calling (304) 267-4893.

St. Joseph altars, often referred to as tables in Catholic churches in the United States, date to medieval times in Sicily. The legend is that a drought in the 1600s created a great famine. Sicilians prayed to St. Joseph for rain and promised that if he answered their prayers, they would dedicate a feast day in his name every year to feed the hungry. It did rain, and the tradition was born.
40 Cans for Lent Food Drive to Benefit Risen Lord Food Pantry in Clay County

CHARLESTON—The St. Michael the Archangel Council of the Knights of Columbus in Charleston is sponsoring a 40 Cans for Lent Food Drive to benefit the Risen Lord Food Pantry in Clay County.

The food drive will start the weekend of March 12-13 and run through Easter Sunday, April 17. Knights will pass out slips of paper with donation information at the Basilica of the Co-Cathedral of the Sacred Heart in Charleston which may be returned to the council’s Post Office Box P.O. Box 11578 Charleston, WV 25339-1578 or the Sunday collection basket.

“Although we will accept non-perishable food at several dates to be announced, we encourage monetary donations by check,” council officials said, noting that Father Thien Duc Nguyen, SVD, pastor of St. Thomas Parish in Gassaway and Risen Lord Mission in Clay County, where the food pantry is located, “is skillful in knowing how to purchase food in quantity and will certainly put any money donated to good use.”

Father Thien’s most requested food items are: peanut butter, canned tuna fish, canned soup, any canned vegetable, and canned fruit. Crackers would also be appreciated.

“In our combined Thanksgiving and Christmas food drive we helped Father Thien get food to over 252 families with donations amounting to $5,337,” council members said. “We thank our parishioners for their generosity during this time of continued need.”

Who Are the Fourth Degree Knights?

They are the Knights on Main Street, the men you probably envision when someone says Knights of Columbus to you. They’re present in their distinct uniform at civic and Church events, acting as honor guards and color corps, or standing in respect at the funerals of members or during adoration of the Eucharist.

But there is more to being a Fourth Degree member of the Knights of Columbus than a uniform. They are the men who have chosen to embrace the Order’s fourth principle of patriotism, the men who lead the efforts to reach out to veterans and active military and to embody the fact that one can be a faithful Catholic and also be a faithful citizen.

Women’s Day: A Time to Measure Progress, Reach out to Young Women

By Cindy Wooden, Catholic News Service

VATICAN CITY (CNS) — The Catholic Church at all levels can find ways to involve more women in leadership positions, “but you have to start with wanting it. The how follows the fact that you want it; that’s where the creativity opens up,” said Carolyn Y. Woo, former CEO and president of Catholic Relief Services.

International Women’s Day is a commemoration particularly celebrated in Italy where women are given mimosa flowers and a night out with their female friends.

It’s also a day when Catholic organizations, women’s religious orders and embassies to the Holy See host conferences paying tribute to the ministries carried out by women.

This year’s slate included a webinar on “Women, Crisis and Resilience” sponsored by the World Union of Catholic Women’s Organizations with the support of the embassies of Argentina, Australia, Colombia, Ireland and the Netherlands. And Caritas Internationalis and the British Embassy to the Holy See sponsored a conference on “Women as Builders of Dialogue.”

The spring celebration also is a popular time to take account of the slowly growing number of women holding upper-level leadership positions at the Vatican.

The most recent entry is Emílce Cuda, the newest secretary of the Pontifical Commission for Latin America; her promotion by Pope Francis was announced Feb. 18. In late December Pope Francis announced Salesian Sister Alessandra Smerilli would serve as interim secretary of the Dicastery for Promoting Integral Human Development. And in November, he named Sister Raffaella Petrini, a member of the Franciscan Sisters of the Eucharist, to be secretary-general of the office governing Vatican City State.

They join a woman serving as one of two undersecretaries of the Synod of Bishops; two women undersecretaries at the Dicastery for Laity, the Family and Life; the director of the Vatican Museums; and an undersecretary at the Congregation for Institutes of Consecrated Life and Societies of Apostolic Life.

Some argue that there could and should be more.

Woo said progress in inviting women into ministry, recognizing their talents and calling them to leadership is “uneven” but “we are not talking about evenness, we are talking about progress, about rising. They have not risen totally, but they are rising.”

A career becomes a ministry, Woo said, when “the focus is on the other” and making the lives of others better. In a ministry, “you serve because you believe that is what God calls you to do, you believe that it is a privilege that connects the neighbor to God and that when you serve your neighbor, you are serving God.”

In her book, Woo also looks at the term “feminine genius,” used often by St. John Paul II and occasionally by his successors to talk about why the church and the world need the active involvement of women.

“While well intentioned, these references are packed with platitudes and stereotypes,” she wrote. “Almost saintly measures of patience, endurance, sensitivity and gentleness are attributed to women.”

“The ‘feminine’ qualities are commendable, but they are definitely neither universal of all women nor unique only to women,” she wrote.

In the interview, she told CNS, “I’ve always been a little allergic to that term.”

“We should include women because we include men” in church discussions and leadership positions, she said. All the baptized are called to contribute their talents to the building of God’s kingdom.
Meta, Twitter, Netflix on ‘Dirty Dozen’ List for Enabling Exploitation

By Mark Pattison, Catholic News Service

WASHINGTON (CNS) — Some familiar brand names were put on the newest “Dirty Dozen” list of companies by the National Center on Sexual Exploitation for enabling exploitation.

Those names include Google Search, Netflix, Twitter, Meta and Visa.

Netfix and Twitter are repeats from 2021, as are Reddit and OnlyFans. Others making the list, released March 8, are Etsy, kik, Veri-sign and Kanakuk Kamps.

“We oppose all forms of sexual abuse and exploitation,” said Lina Nealon, director of corporate and strategic initiatives for the center, during a video call announcing the 2022 version of the Dirty Dozen.

“Last year, the majority of the list were tech companies,” Nealon said, “they just reaped soaring revenue without making substantive changes” to deter exploitation.

“We thought 2020 was bad,” she added. “The Internet Watch Foundation called 2021 the worst year on record for exploiting children online.”

Despite Google and parent firm Alphabet making improvements over the past year — such as, NCOSE noted, Google activating age-appropriate controls on school-bound Chromebooks last year — Google Search was named for 2022.

“We know that exploitation still occurs through Google/Alphabet’s many tools, often due to blind spots in policy or practice that — if fixed — could prevent countless abuses worldwide,” the center said.

“Meta owns Facebook, Instagram and WhatsApp: all of which are consistently under fire as primary places for grooming, sextortion, child sexual abuse materials, sex trafficking, and a host of other crimes and ills,” the center added.

Rather than beefing up online safety standards, it said, “Meta is prioritizing new projects and products while pursuing increased, sweeping encryption without sufficient provisions for child online safety which will aid predators in escaping detection and accountabil-

NCOSE received a report of a woman who was “gang-raped within one minute in the VR (virtual reality) room portal,” Nealon said, adding that it shouldn’t be called “virtual rape” because of the real emotions the woman felt from the assault.

“This company is ranked the worse for sex trafficking, predators” and other ills, Nealon said, “and a spokesperson says they’re ‘working things out as it goes along.’ That’s chilling. Products should not be designed until they’re thoroughly vetted.”

As Netflix has grown to 200 million subscribers worldwide, “sociologists have identified a marked increase in graphic sex scenes and gratuitous nudity permeating Netflix shows,” NCOSE said. “Further, Netflix continues a trend of normalizing the sexualization of children and whitewashing the violence and exploitation in prostitution.”

“Pedophiles and other predators go to Twitter to trade in criminal content such as child sexual abuse and nonconsensual pornography. The platform is rampant with accounts and posts functioning as advertisements for commercial sex — including prostitution,” the center said.

“Twitter fails to adequately respond to its victims, claiming it cannot be held accountable for disseminating illegal material,” NCOSE said. “Twitter has even flatly refused to remove verified child sex abuse material from its site when asked by victims. Twitter must prioritize implementing robust and proactive efforts to remove sexual exploitation and abuse from its platform. Twitter must be held legally liable.”

NCOSE said.

“Visa — not some Silicon Valley tech firm, but the credit card company — cut its ties in 2020 with Pornhub, but reestablished the relationship last year with Pornhub’s parent company ‘and other pornography websites,’” NCOSE said.

The company also “failed to follow the example of Mastercard,” it said, “in requiring that sites hosting sexually explicit material implement common sense measures to prevent and remove illegal content.”

Mastercard is another firm the center touts as one of its success stories last year.

“Furthermore, Visa also allows transactions for brothels and prostitution websites. Visa should live up to its corporate social responsibility principles and stop buttress-

sing the infrastructure of the exploitative commercial sex industry,” NCOSE said.

In addition to Mastercard and Chromebook, NCOSE listed Amazon, Google Ads, YouTube, Netflix, Snapchat, Wish, TikTok, Ebsco, Roku, Google Play, American Express, Visa, MasterCard, Comcast, PayPal and Discord among its success stories from 2021. Of these, Google, Visa and Discord landed on the 2022 Dirty Dozen.

Nealon said on the video call that NCOSE racked up “125 major victories that you and others like you have made happen.”

Noting that March 8, the date of the video call, was International Women’s Day, Nealon said that in addition to minors, “women, too, are experiencing sexual exploitation and violence,” and this constitutes “a rapidly growing crime against women — cybersexual terrorizing, revenge porn or deepfake pornography.”

Nealon added NCOSE is challenging Dirty Dozen companies “to live up to their (mission) statements,” which she said can sound “lofty,” but that companies should compare these statements “to the gravity of harms.”

Meta, Twitter, Netflix on ‘Dirty Dozen’ List for Enabling Exploitation

By Mark Pattison, Catholic News Service

WASHINGTON (CNS) — Some familiar brand names were put on the newest “Dirty Dozen” list of companies by the National Center on Sexual Exploitation for enabling exploitation.

Those names include Google Search, Netflix, Twitter, Meta and Visa.

Netfix and Twitter are repeats from 2021, as are Reddit and OnlyFans. Others making the list, released March 8, are Etsy, kik, Veri-sign and Kanakuk Kamps.

“We oppose all forms of sexual abuse and exploitation,” said Lina Nealon, director of corporate and strategic initiatives for the center, during a video call announcing the 2022 version of the Dirty Dozen.

“Last year, the majority of the list were tech companies,” Nealon said, “they just reaped soaring revenue without making substantive changes” to deter exploitation.

“We thought 2020 was bad,” she added. “The Internet Watch Foundation called 2021 the worst year on record for exploiting children online.”

Despite Google and parent firm Alphabet making improvements over the past year — such as, NCOSE noted, Google activating age-appropriate controls on school-bound Chromebooks last year — Google Search was named for 2022.

“We know that exploitation still occurs through Google/Alphabet’s many tools, often due to blind spots in policy or practice that — if fixed — could prevent countless abuses worldwide,” the center said.

“Meta owns Facebook, Instagram and WhatsApp: all of which are consistently under fire as primary places for grooming, sextortion, child sexual abuse materials, sex trafficking, and a host of other crimes and ills,” the center added.

Rather than beefing up online safety standards, it said, “Meta is prioritizing new projects and products while pursuing increased, sweeping encryption without sufficient provisions for child online safety which will aid predators in escaping detection and accountabili-

NCOSE received a report of a woman who was “gang-raped within one minute in the VR (virtual reality) room portal,” Nealon said, adding that it shouldn’t be called “virtual rape” because of the real emotions the woman felt from the assault.

“This company is ranked the worse for sex trafficking, predators” and other ills, Nealon said, “and a spokesperson says they’re ‘working things out as it goes along.’ That’s chilling. Products should not be designed until they’re thoroughly vetted.”

As Netflix has grown to 200 million subscribers worldwide, “sociologists have identified a marked increase in graphic sex scenes and gratuitous nudity permeating Netflix shows,” NCOSE said. “Further, Netflix continues a trend of normalizing the sexualization of children and whitewashing the violence and exploitation in prostitution.”

“Pedophiles and other predators go to Twitter to trade in criminal content such as child sexual abuse and nonconsensual pornography. The platform is rampant with accounts and posts functioning as advertisements for commercial sex — including prostitution,” the center said.

“Twitter fails to adequately respond to its victims, claiming it cannot be held accountable for disseminating illegal material,” NCOSE said. “Twitter has even flatly refused to remove verified child sex abuse material from its site when asked by victims. Twitter must prioritize implementing robust and proactive efforts to remove sexual exploitation and abuse from its platform. Twitter must be held legally liable.”

“Visa — not some Silicon Valley tech firm, but the credit card company — cut its ties in 2020 with Pornhub, but reestablished the relationship last year with Pornhub’s parent company ‘and other pornography websites,’” NCOSE said.

The company also “failed to follow the example of Mastercard,” it said, “in requiring that sites hosting sexually explicit material implement common sense measures to prevent and remove illegal content.”

Mastercard is another firm the center touts as one of its success stories last year.

“Furthermore, Visa also allows transactions for brothels and prostitution websites. Visa should live up to its corporate social responsibility principles and stop buttressing the infrastructure of the exploitative commercial sex industry,” NCOSE said.

In addition to Mastercard and Chromebook, NCOSE listed Amazon, Google Ads, YouTube, Netflix, Snapchat, Wish, TikTok, Ebsco, Roku, Google Play, American Express, Visa, MasterCard, Comcast, PayPal and Discord among its success stories from 2021. Of these, Google, Visa and Discord landed on the 2022 Dirty Dozen.

Noting that March 8, the date of the video call, was International Women’s Day, Nealon said that in addition to minors, “women, too, are experiencing sexual exploitation and violence,” and this constitutes “a rapidly growing crime against women — cybersexual terrorizing, revenge porn or deepfake pornography.”

Nealon added NCOSE is challenging Dirty Dozen companies “to live up to their (mission) statements,” which she said can sound “lofty,” but that companies should compare these statements “to the gravity of harms.”
The Values that Guide Our Work

Our Lenten journey continues, and staff, donors, and volunteers live out our Mission of Love as we encounter neighbors in need. We invite you to explore how you might be called to show God’s love to the people you encounter. Since our core values inspire us to be our best selves as we serve throughout West Virginia, we hope they will inspire you as well!

Dignity is the foundation of both our work and our Church’s social teaching. We honor the gift of every human life. We respect each person for who they are. And we commit to enhancing the lives of each person we serve. Our work focuses on serving the whole person, and so we collaborate with other organizations and parishes to ensure each person we meet is treated with dignity.

Since a basic moral test of a society is how we treat the most vulnerable, we work hard to promote justice in our relationships and advocate for a society that honors basic human rights. Works of mercy, like our many food pantries, set a foundation from which our neighbors can grow and thrive.

As a sign of compassion, we empathize with our clients and neighbors. We actively work to alleviate the suffering of others as though such suffering were our own. This value is most evident in our work with disaster survivors. We are on the scene in the immediate aftermath, bearing witness to loss. And we remain in the years of rebuilding, connecting people with opportunities for recovery.

We serve from a place of hope. A better future is possible, and we work toward that vision in everything we do. We invest in the next generation through our child development program, Birth To Three, and our Child Care Resource Center.

The root of the word “charity” is love. We are truly present with each person we meet as we accompany them on their journey. Our Case Management program, where we walk with people as they overcome the challenges of poverty, is an example of how we show love and charity to our clients.

We strive for excellence and value quality in all aspects of our work. Using our knowledge, skills, and talents, we act with professionalism, integrity, and commitment. We strive to continually improve in all aspects of our service.

During this season of prayer, fasting, and giving, please join us in embracing these values.

Cardenales llegan a Ucrania y Hungría con misión de alentar esperanza

Por Junno Archo Esteves, Catholic News Service

CIUDAD DEL VATICANO (CNS) — Dos cardenales llegaron a dos diferentes lugares en una misión que les encomendó el papa Francisco: llevar alivio, esperanza y aliento a los ucranianos que sufren.

El cardenal polaco Konrad Krajewski, limosnero papal, llegó a la ciudad ucraniana occidental de Lviv el 8 de marzo y se reunió con el arzobispo Sviatoslav Shevchuk, jefe de la Iglesia católica ucraniana, y el arzobispo Mieczyslaw Mokrzycki, jefe de la arquidiócesis de rito latino de Lviv.

El padre Andrzej Soletsky, portavoz del arzobispo Shevchuk, dijo a Catholic News Service el 9 de marzo que el arzobispo Shevchuk viajó de Kyiv a Lviv el día anterior específicamente para reunirse con el cardenal Krajewski y ayudarle a cumplir la misión que el papa Francisc le había encomendado. Eso puede incluir ayudar al cardenal a llegar a Kyiv “si es posible”, dijo el padre Soletsky.

Sin embargo, dijo, por la seguridaddad tanto del cardenal como del arzobispo Shevchuk, la iglesia no compartirá detalles sobre cómo o cuándo viajarán.

Lkviv no ha sido bombardeada, "gracias a Dios", dijo el padre Soletsky, pero la ciudad en el oeste de Ucrania está siendo abrumada por personas desplazadas que se reúnen allí para tratar de encontrar transporte, trenes o autobuses a Polonia, Hungría o Rumania. La gente está durmiendo en fila en la estación de tren y cada iglesia ha abierto como refugio.

Pero como la población de Lviv se duplicó en las últimas dos semanas, dijo, la capacidad de albergar y alimentar a todos se está volviendo crítica.

Según la Iglesia católica ucraniana, el cardenal Krajewski visitará una variedad de centros de servicios sociales y participará el 10 de marzo en un servicio de oración conjunto con "representantes del Consejo de Iglesias de Ucrania y organizaciones religiosas".

Antes de su llegada a Ucrania, el cardenal Krajewski se reunió con voluntarios de Cáritas que ayudan a los refugiados en varias ciudades polacas cercanas a la frontera con Ucrania.

Según el semanario católico polaco Gosc Niedzielni, los periodistas le preguntaron al cardenal polaco si tenía miedo de entrar en una zona de guerra.

"Tengo miedo, como todo el mundo tiene miedo, pero me confesé antes de irme, no tengo dudas, hice testamento", dijo. "Voy libremente a llevar el Evangelio, quiero estar con esta gente".

El cardenal canadiense Michael Czerny, presidente interino del Servicio para el Desarrollo Humano Integral, llegó a Budapest, Hungría, el 8 de marzo y visitó la estación de tren de Keleti donde se reunió con los voluntarios de Cáritas y les agradeció su trabajo.

También se reunió con refugiados que huyeron de la violencia en Ucrania, entre ellos los estudiantes de medicina de Nigeria, así como varios de China y Vietnam. A pesar de los informes de discriminación contra los residentes africanos y asiáticos en Ucrania que intentaron huir del país, Vatican News dijo que el grupo no experimentó dificultades para cruzar la frontera.

Según Vatican News, uno de los estudiantes nigerianos, Joyce, le dijo al cardenal Czerny: "Solo quiero irme a casa". El cardenal Czerny le dio la mano y respondió: "Buena suerte. Dios está contigo y el papa está cerca de ti".

El cardenal se reunió el 9 de marzo con Zsolt Semjén, viceprimer ministro de Hungría, quien le aseguró que Hungría daría la bienvenida a todos los refugiados de Ucrania "sin límites". Vatican News dijo que el cardenal le pidió a Semjén que hiciera de esa actitud de bienvenida una parte permanente de la política del gobierno húngaro y que ampliara la bienvenida del país a las personas que buscan refugio. El gobierno del primer ministro Viktor Orban ha estado impulsando una política de inmigración extremadamente restrictiva para el país.

Para denunciar presuntos casos de abuso sexual de niños: La Diocesis de Wheeling-Charleston alienta a informar ante las autoridades civiles ante todo si se ha cometido un delito. También alentamos a utilizar www.reportbishopabuse.org para hacer un informe sobre cualquier obispo en los EE.UU. WHEELING—A urologist who specializes in the treatment and prevention of kidney stones has joined the staff of WVU Medicine Wheeling Hospital.

Michelle Semins, M.D., previously was Associate Professor and urologic surgeon at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine and director of the UPMC Mercy Kidney Stone Clinic. She will begin seeing patients on March 21.

“We are pleased to welcome Dr. Semins to the Wheeling community,” Douglass Harrison, President and CEO of WVU Medicine Wheeling Hospital and Reynolds Memorial Hospital, said. “Urology services have been lacking for many years in the Upper Ohio Valley. Being able to offer both kidney stone and urology services to our community is yet another commitment we are making to keep our patients local and not have to travel for services. I know Dr. Semins will be welcomed with open arms.”

Seminis received her undergraduate degree from The University of Michigan and her medical degree from the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine. She then completed her internship in surgery and residency urology training at Johns Hopkins Hospital with additional specialty training in the field of endourology.

Seminis is a member of the American Urological Association (AUA) and serves on four AUA committees. She is a board member of the Northeastern Section of the AUA. She is a member of the Endourological Society and serves as Chair of their Diversity and Inclusivity Committee. She is also a member of Research on Calculus Kinetics Society and the Society of Women in Urology. She is certified by the American Board of Urology.

Seminis has a clinical research focus in kidney stones and is a past awardee of a Young Investigator Research Grant by the Northeastern Section of the AUA. She was also named the Young Urologist of the Year by the AUA in 2016. Semins is a reviewer for the Journal of Urology and many other peer-review journals, and an Associate Editor of Urology. She is a published author of over 40 articles, more than 50 abstracts, and nine book chapters.

Seminis is located in Tower 2, Suite 201. Call (304) 242-0779.
