HLC Continues Wheeling University Accreditation with Probation

University Response and Actions

WHEELING—On March 4, 2021, Wheeling University was notified by the Higher Learning Commission (HLC) of a change in status from “Accredited” to “Accredited – On Probation.” To clarify, Wheeling University remains fully accredited by the HLC while working to address concerns raised by the HLC’s decision. Concurrently, the Higher Learning Commission decided to remove the Financial Distress designation imposed on the University in May 2019.

While under probation, Wheeling University remains fully accredited and strongly committed to remedying the issues necessary to lift the sanction quickly and decisively. It is equally important to note that the HLC did not cite nor alter the degree award position or status of the University’s academic programs. The sanction has no negative impact on academics and will not affect students in terms of the awarding of credits or degrees.

In response, the University had already begun to address the issues of concern, which the Higher Learning Commission has acknowledged in its statement. Under the guidance of the HLC, Wheeling University will continue to improve and actively resolve these issues and others over the coming academic year. As part of the probationary process, Wheeling University will provide a report to the HLC that it has addressed the issues that led to the sanction no later than July 1, 2022. The HLC will then conduct an on-site evaluation no later than September 2022. Wheeling University officials remain confident that the University will fully address all of the HLC’s concerns and resume its regular accreditation status at the earliest possible time.

Wheeling University welcomes this important opportunity to improve as the University is an institution that embraces and meets its challenges. The University has already begun and will continue to respond effectively, making steady and significant improvements to its financial planning and assessment, while linking initiatives and operations to a solid strategic plan. These sustained efforts are necessary to fulfill the University’s commitment to its students and alumni. Wheeling will continue to move forward with on-going corrections and will gain strength from rectifying the mistakes of prior administrations.

“We remain committed to excellence for our students, their families and our alumni. Our Catholic mission calls for us to reflect on our work and continuously seek ways to enhance our programs and services to others throughout the world,” stated President Ginny R. Favede.

The HLC decision serves as an additional impetus to continue the work already begun in right-sizing Wheeling University involving the permanent establishment of best practices in fiscal management and controls, financial stewardship, operational efficiency, institutional assessment and effectiveness, and enrollment management.

While the University is taking the HLC’s action seriously, students will feel no ill effects in a day-to-day matter. We will still have our excellent professors teaching the same great courses. We will be fielding the same athletic teams, and our student-athletes will continue to compete. Not one student will lose their financial aid due to this decision, and we are not anticipating any reductions in faculty or staff due to the HLC’s actions. We know what work we have in front of us, and we have already made many of the improvements. It is important to emphasize that although the University is on probation, it remains fully accredited,” stated President Fa- vede.

Since October 2019, when Favede became President, she and her senior leadership team have worked closely with both the Higher Learning Commission and the West Virginia Higher Education Policy Commission to address critical issues. This effort entailed a disciplined approach to managing finances, improving operations, bolstering academics, developing a new assessment system, providing faculty with additional support and training, and creating a new strategic plan, in addition to the significant efforts committed to enrollment and retention. As a result of these efforts and more, Wheeling Universities is in line with the HLC’s standards. Coming as part of its regular 10-year accreditation review, the sanction of probation by the HLC requires the University to continue to provide more data primarily in the areas of academic assessment, faculty re-development, institutional effectiveness, and planning. In the past year, the University had already recognized and had begun making significant progress in these areas.

“Putting our financial house in order and reassuring our students, our alumni, and the people of our region that Wheeling University will continue to be here for them, have been the top priorities of my administration. I am proud that my team has taken steps to put Wheeling on firmer footing, while continuing to develop new ways to improve the experience of our students, while serving the interests of our community,” Favede continued.

“Our University’s success - from enrollment levels to retention and graduation rates, to most especially the quality of our graduates - demonstrates that Wheeling University lives up to its mission of educating for leadership and service. We remain committed to our mission to provide a quality liberal arts education in the Catholic tradition as we have done for 67 years,” said Fa- vede.

Bishops: Relief Will Help Many; Lack of Hyde Protections ‘Unconscionable’

By Julie Asher, Catholic News Service

WASHINGTON (CNS) — The $1.9 trillion American Rescue Plan Act heading to President Joe Biden’s desk for his signature will provide relief to millions in need amid the pandemic, but it lacks “protections for the unborn,” the U.S. bishops said.

Their March 10 statement quickly followed U.S. House passage of a signed version Feb. 21-22 vote. After the Senate passed its version of the bill March 6, it was sent back to the House where members reconciled its changes with the version they approved Feb. 27. Biden was expected to sign it into law that evening or Monday.

In a joint statement, Los Angeles Archbishop José H. Gomez, president of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops, and the chairmen of six USCCB committees praised “positive provisions” that “will save people from extremely desperate situations and will likely save lives.”

But they called it “unconscionable” that Congress passed the bill “without critical protections needed to ensure that billions of taxpayer dollars are used for life-affirming health care and not for abortion.”

Unlike all of the previous pandemic relief bills, Hyde Amendment language was not included in this measure. Hyde overturns federal tax dollars funding abortion except in cases of rape, incest or when the life of the woman would be endangered.

In addition to Archbishop Gomez, the committees from funding the bill signed the statement: Archbishop Joseph F. Naumann of Kansas City, Kansas; Committee on Pro-Life Activities; Archbishop Paul S. Coakley of Oklahoma City, Committee on Domestic Justice and Human Development; Bishop David J. Malloy of Rockford, Committee on International Justice and Peace; Bishop Michael C. Barber of Oakland, California, Committee on Catholic Education; Bishop Shelton J. Fabre of Houma-Thibodaux, Louisiana, Ad Hoc Committee Against Racism; and Auxiliary Bishop Mario E. Dorsonville of Washington, Committee on Migration.

“As the American Rescue Plan Act was being written, Catholic bishops reached out to every House and Senate office to express our support for providing additional relief to help poor and vulnerable people who are most at risk of harm from this pandemic, and our strong conviction that this relief should also protect the unborn and their right to life,” the bishops said.

“We are grateful this legislation addresses many positive provisions, including unemployment assistance, child and earned income tax credits, enhanced unemployment compensation, nutrition funding, vaccine distribution funding, health care funding, housing assistance, international assistance to regions stricken by COVID, conflict and hunger,” they said.

But “unlike previous COVID relief bills,” the bishops said, “sponsors of the American Rescue Plan Act refused to include the long-standing, bipartisan consensus policy to prohibit taxpayer dollars from funding abortions domestically and internationally.”

Hyde Amendment language “was needed because this bill includes many general references to health care that, absent the express exclusion of abortion, have consistently been interpreted by federal courts not only to allow, but to compel, the provision of abortion without meaningfully limiting it,” the bishops said.

The many important, life-saving provisions in the American Rescue Plan Act have been undermined because it facilitates and funds the destruction of life, which is antithetical to its aim of protecting the most vulnerable Americans in a time of crisis, they added.

In remarks after its passage, Biden said the American Rescue Plan Act “represents a historic, historic victory for the American people. I look forward to signing it later this week.”

“Everything in the American Rescue Plan addresses a real need — including investments to fund our entire vaccination effort. More vaccines, more vaccinators and more vaccination sites,” he said.

No Republican in the House or Senate voted for the bill. Two House Democrats joined their Republican counterparts to vote against it Feb. 27, in the final House vote, one Democrat reversed herself and voted for it. The measure includes $17 billion for vaccine-related activities and programs and $110 billion for other efforts to contain the pandemic; $130 billion for public schools; and $143 billion to expand child tax credit, child care tax credit and earned income tax credit mostly for one year.

Other provisions include $45 billion to temporarily expand Affordable Care Act subsidies for two years and subsidize 2020 and 2021 coverage; $25 billion for grants to restaurants and bars; $7 billion to allow more loans under the Paycheck Protection Program; $6 billion to increase nutrition assistance; and $350 billion for states and localities.

The bill also provides for checks of $1,400 to go to individuals who earn up to $75,000 a year and heads of households earning $112,000; married couples earning $150,000 will get $2,800. Eligible dependents, including adult dependents, also would each get $1,400.

It expressly provides $50 million for family planning, but as the bishops noted in their statement, and other national pro-life leaders have said, funding allocated in other provisions can be used for abortion.

It directs billions to state and local governments, $219 billion and $130 billion, respectively, “to mitigate the fiscal effects stemming from COVID-19.”

Because the Hyde Amendment is not applied to these funds, state and local governments could use the money to pay for abortion and contraception providers in the name of “responding to or mitigating the public health emergency,” said Carol Tobias, president of National Right to Life.

Jeanne Mancini, president of March for Life, said the “sheer size” of the measure gives it “the potential to be the largest expansion of abortion funding since Obamacare.”

She urged Biden “to honor the wishes of the majority of Americans who don’t want to pay for abortions and to return to his pro-life roots by vetoing this bill until the bipartisan Hyde Amendment and other pro-life protections are included.”

USCCB Administrative Committee’s Pastoral Message Marks Year of Pandemic

By Catholic News Service

WASHINGTON (CNS) — U.S. life has “dramatically” changed due to the yearlong pandemic, and alongside it, racial injustices and political divisions have shaken the nation, yet there is “comfort in God’s promise,” the U.S. bishops’ Administrative Committee said in a March 9 pastoral message.

There also “is much to learn from this global suffering,” it said, adding that going forward, people must build on the many acts of sacrifice and kindness exhibited amid the scourge of COVID-19.

March 11 marked one year since the World Health Organization declared COVID-19 a global pandemic, “ushering in immense suffering,” the pastoral message said. This was WHO’s first such designation since declaring H1N1 influenza a pandemic in 2009. To date, 525,000 lives have been lost to the disease just in the U.S., according to data from Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore.

“Many have endured extraordinary hardships: sickness, death, mourning, a lack of food, unstable housing, loss of work and income, struggles with education, separation, abuse, isolation, depression and anxiety,” said the message, approved by the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops’ Administrative Committee during its virtual meeting.

Doctors Seek Permanent Relief from Mandate to do Transgender Surgeries

By Catholic News Service

NEW ORLEANS (CNS) — Attorneys for doctors and hospitals argued in the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 5th Circuit March 3 that they shouldn’t be forced to perform gender-transition surgeries required under the Affordable Care Act, stressing this is an issue of conscience.

The case focuses on a 2016 regulation issued by the Department of Health and Human Services requiring doctors to perform these procedures in children and adults or be held liable for discrimination. After the rule was first issued, Becket, a religious liberty law firm, filed a lawsuit in the U.S. District Court in Texas, saying the rule violated the Religious Freedom Restoration Act.

The lawsuit was filed on behalf of Franciscan Alliance, a religious hospital network serving Indiana and Illinois that now goes by the name Franciscan Health, and the Christian Medical and Dental Associations. Texas, Kansas, Kentucky, Nebraska and Wisconsin joined in the suit. Two federal courts in 2016 permanently enjoined the mandate in those states.

Two other federal district court judges also ruled against the mandate in 2019 and 2020. However, the courts didn’t issue a permanent injunction against HHS to prevent it from enforcing this rule in the future, which the group of doctors and hospitals were seeking March 3 before the 5th Circuit, which is based in New Orleans.

“Medical decisions related to gender transition have serious implications, and it is clearly in patients’ best interests to ensure that doctors and hospitals serve in keeping with their consciences and their medical judgment,” said Luke Goodrich, a senior counsel at Becket.
Bishop Blesses Ultrasound Machine for Central W.Va. Pregnancy Care Center

The ultrasound machine represents the third such machine placed by the Knights of Columbus in West Virginia under the ultrasound machine initiative sponsored by the Supreme Council of the Knights of Columbus as part of the Culture of Life Program.

In addition to this, two other councils in the state are currently working to place ultrasound machines in their local pregnancy care centers.

The ultrasound machine placed in the Parsons Pregnancy Care Facility represents a unique partnership between the Knights of Columbus Thomas Council #2010 and the Padre Pio Council #10754 in Great Falls, Va. This collaborative effort began in the late summer of 2018 when the director of the Pregnancy Care Center, Barbara Kinkaid, was at a rally for life in Charleston. She met Father William Kuchinsky who asked her if she had an ultrasound machine in her pregnancy care center. Kinkaid said that having a machine was a life-long dream, but was not yet a reality. Father Kuchinsky put Kinkaid in touch with the folks in Great Falls. They, in turn, contacted Father Timothy Grassi, pastor of St. Thomas Aquinas Parish in Thomas and Our Lady of Mercy Mission in Parsons, about the possibility of placing an ultrasound machine in Tucker County. The process of obtaining the necessary approvals from the Supreme Council and the West Virginia State Council began.

Before the machine could be purchased, one half of the cost of the machine needed to be raised by the Padre Pio Council in Great Falls. The Supreme Council contributed the remaining half of the cost of the machine. The money was donated to the Central West Virginia Pregnancy Care Center for the purchase of the machine in December of 2020.

The Pregnancy Care Center can now offer free ultrasounds to expectant mothers to help them see the beauty of the gift of the life of their unborn child. In most cases, once the mother sees her unborn child, there is a great chance of carrying the child to full term.

Father Grassi and Kinkaid were present for the bishop’s blessing of the machine as well as State Life Chairman Skip Gjolberg of the West Virginia Knights of Columbus and Pat Kotten of the Knights of Columbus Thomas Council #2010.

For more information about the center or for assistance, call (304) 642-8496 for Parsons and (304) 463-4388 for Thomas. More information is also available at www.cwvcpc.com.
Catholic Charities West Virginia to Recognize Charity in Action Awardees During Virtual Gala

WHEELING—Catholic Charities West Virginia (CCWVa) will host its 11th Annual Shining a Light on Hope Gala in a virtual format this year. The Gala will broadcast on Tuesday, March 16 at 7 p.m. on WTRF-7 in Wheeling and on CCW Va’s website at: www.CatholicCharitiesWV.org/Gala 2021.

“This is a unique chance for our whole community to peek behind the scenes and learn more about how we serve this region. And we’re continuing our tradition of recognizing leaders in the community who demonstrate true Charity in Action with a special award,” said Beth Zarate, CCWVa President and Chief Executive Officer.

CCWVa offers a network of services supporting infants to seniors. The agency collaborates with individuals and community partners to support people who need food, hospitality, utility bill assistance, child care assistance, home care services and much more.

“This year the pandemic hit our clients especially hard. Our awardees stepped up in a profound way, helping us provide almost triple the assistance in comparison to the prior year,” said Zarate.

The recipients of the 2021 Charity in Action Award are David Rose (Wheeling), Bernard Twigg (Glen Dale), and St. Vincent de Paul Parish School (Wheeling).

David Rose

David Rose has volunteered with Catholic Charities Neighborhood Center for over 14 years. He works in the kitchen, coordinates food drives, and welcomes people to the day shelter warming room in the winter.

Since March 2020 when the pandemic hit, David has tirelessly dedicated his time to serving the most vulnerable. He is at the Catholic Charities Neighborhood Center five days each week, helping prepare about 300 meals each day. Neighbors who are home-bound and experiencing homelessness benefit daily from his compassionate service.

“David personifies charity in action. His service to those in need illustrates his commitment to Catholic Charities’ mission,” said Trish Whitelatch, CCWVa Assistant Neighborhood Center Coordinator.

Bernard Twigg

Bernard Twigg’s service to the Catholic Church and his community has been recognized even by Pope Francis; in 2018, Bernie received the Benemeriti Medal, which means “well merited.”

Catholic Charities West Virginia joins the Pope in honoring Bernie for his dedication to their mission. His service on the CCWVa Board of Directors is marked by enthusiasm and demonstrates his commitment to living out his values.

“Bernie treats others with dignity and respect, and he is a man of honor and integrity,” said Bryan Minor, Director of Administrative Services for the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston, who nominated Bernie for this award.

St. Vincent de Paul Parish School

The faculty, staff and students of St. Vincent de Paul Parish School have been serving neighbors at the Catholic Charities Neighborhood Center since the mid-1990s. Eighth grade students in particular cook and serve meals, and lead the school community in supporting the food pantry with periodic food drives.

“I am inspired by many partners in honoring Bernie for his service,” said Trish Whitelatch, Assistant Neighborhood Center Coordinator.

“We are grateful for and inspired by many partners who walk this journey with us, and we’re honored to recognize these dedicated people,” said Zarate.

Christine Anghie, Assistant Principal, coordinates the partnership between the school and Catholic Charities. A primary goal for the school is to teach students that service to others is their primary mission as Catholics.

“We’re blessed to have Saint Vincent School as a community partner to help us serve our neighbors,” said Trish Whitelatch, Assistant Neighborhood Center Coordinator.

Proceeds from the Gala support CCWVa’s programs and services in 17 counties in northern West Virginia. As part of the Gala, CCWVa will host a virtual auction. The auction will be available at bidpal.net/CCWVa from March 14-21, closing at 9:00 p.m. on March 21.

The Gala is presented through the generosity of lead sponsor, the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston; and major sponsor, WVU Medicine.

More details about the event are available on CCWVa’s website at: www.CatholicCharitiesWV.org/Gala2021.
Weirton’s St. Paul School Holds Virtual Open House, Live on Facebook

By Colleen Rowan

WEIRTON—Students’ families, the community, and alumni of St. Paul School in Weirton had the chance to go on a virtual visit to the school on the morning of March 9 through a live open house on the school’s Facebook page. Viewers were able to ask questions in real time as Principal Michele Martin led the tour, visiting classrooms and different parts of the building.

The event was recorded and posted on the school’s Facebook page for those who were unable to watch live and can be viewed at any time.

The 36-minute tour gave families who may be interested in enrolling their children in the school, the alumni, and the community the chance to learn more about all that the school offers. In the beginning of the tour, Martin explained that this was a way to connect with the school family as they have not been able to have gatherings or many events because of the COVID-19 pandemic.

“We know what an unprecedented year this has been,” Martin said as she began the live tour. “We wanted to come up with something different and creative, and we thought why not a virtual open house so all of our parents and families and maybe some prospective families can come in and see what it’s like in our classrooms and our school throughout the day.”

Martin then led viewers throughout the school, beginning with the preschool age 4 classroom where the little ones told viewers they were working on making paper crosses, “like the ones in church!” one of the students joyfully told viewers. The children made their crosses with many different colors of paper, pasted on the image to look like a stained glass window. They are giving their crosses as a gift to the volunteers of the fish fry who could not help this year because of the pandemic.

Carrie Oliver-Shultz, then to second grade where students were doing math lessons, and fourth grade where the students told viewers they recently dissected a sheep’s heart and a cow’s eye for science.

Third graders took a moment from their math word problems to share with viewers their favorite things about their class: “My friends,” one student said. “Everybody is nice,” another student said.

Martin then took viewers to the art room where art teacher Cathy Bartolettisent was preparing for the day’s project.

Martin shared that Blue Stream Farms will be installing a vegetation table in the classroom where students will be able to enjoy watching plants grow. Some of the produce, she said, will be used in the school’s salad bar.

“It’s coming, but because of the pandemic we had to put a delay on that,” Martin said. “We are hoping that will all be installed by the summer.”

As the tour continued, viewers were able to learn about the school’s STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics) Lab as well as its Computer Lab and Robotics Lab, where students learn coding, PowerPoint, and more.

Martin also pointed out a display of seventh-graders’ dioramas of areas in India. Father Babu Joseph Elamturuthil, administrator of St. Paul Parish and pastor of St. Paul School who is from India, talked to the students about his homeland and the languages spoken there. Martin said he even sang a song in his native language for the students.

The tour found seventh graders working on pre-algebra, while eighth graders in religion class were engaging in an end of chapter summary with middle school religion teacher Jason Miller. He is one of more than 20 men from the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston studying to become a permanent deacon. Miller told viewers that the seventh and eighth graders are preparing for their presentation of the Living Stations of the Cross, which will be shown live on the school’s Facebook page.

In the cafeteria, Martin shared that the school is now participation in the state lunch program and that all of the students receive a free lunch and a free breakfast.

“So, our students have tried a lot of different things they may not have tried in the past,” Martin said.

During the tour, she also directed viewers to a wall of the school where students wrote about what they like most about their school. “I love St. Paul School because I learn about God and Jesus,” one student’s message said. Another message said, “I love my friends and teachers.”

Viewers posted comments on complimenting the school on the tour:

“My siblings and I went to SPS. I sent my three children to SPS as well. School looks great! I highly recommend.”

“What a wonderful idea! I enjoyed the tour. God bless the teachers, staff, parents, and donors that keep St. Paul School doors open. Thank you for the walk down memory lane. Best wishes for many more successful years!”

“Well Done SPS!”

“How sweet thank you!!”

St. Paul School first opened its doors in 1924. Students come from Wellsburg, Follansbee, Weirton, New Cumberland, and Chester. The school also has students from Pennsylvania and Ohio.

The current school building was built in 1962. According to St. Paul’s website, the school has a u-shaped design for departmentalization and pre-school separation.

“Even though the school is located in the downtown area, it is recessed behind the church and is safe and aesthetically isolated from downtown traffic and distractions,” school officials note on St. Paul’s website. “Over the years, the building and furniture have undergone an extensive revitalization project. Security doors with cameras were installed in 2014 and our HVAC system project was completed in 2016. In 2018 each classroom door was fitted with a Nightlock Lockdown security device; the existing security camera system was upgraded, and five new cameras were installed to increase security. Security measures were again upgraded in 2020.”

St. Paul’s currently has 32 faculty and staff members and more than 125 students in pre-school through eighth grade. The preschool, kindergarten, and first through fourth are in self-contained taught classrooms while fifth through eighth grades change classes and enjoy the middle school setting.

“St. Paul Catholic School offers a well-rounded program always striving for academic excellence while adding extracurricular activities in a safe and secure Christian atmosphere,” school officials note on the website.

The fundraiser will be broken up into two parts. Part 1 will include March and April. Part 2 will include May and June.

“We are doing this so we don’t have to wait until the whole event is over before initial funds are released to the schools,” McAra stated on the campaign’s Facebook Page. “The goal for the entire event is $6,000.

The schools thank all for considering a donation to the Notre Dame & St. Mary’s Fund.”

Living the Beatitudes Can Change the World, Pope Says in Iraq

By Cindy Wooden, Catholic News Service

BAGHDAD (CNS) — Pope Francis told Iraqi Christians that when they suffer discrimination, persecution or war, the Eight Beatitudes are addressed to them.

“Whatever the world takes from us is nothing compared to the tender and patient love with which the Lord fulfills his promises,” the pope told the congregation sitting inside and outside the Chaldean Catholic Cathedral of St. Joseph March 6.

“Dear sister, dear brother, perhaps when you look at your hands, they seem empty, perhaps you feel disheartened and unsatisfied by life,” he said in his homily. “If so, do not be afraid: The beatitudes are for you — for you who are afflicted, who hunger and thirst for justice, who are persecuted. The Lord promises you that your name is written on his heart, written in heaven!”

According to the Vatican, the service marked the first time Pope Francis celebrated a eucharistic liturgy, “the Holy Qurbana,” in the rite of the Chaldean Church. While the pope recited the prayers in Italian, Cardinal Louis Sako, the Chaldean patriarch, and members of the congregation prayed in Chaldean, a modern form of Aramaic. The Bible readings were in Arabic.

Iraqi President Barham Salih and Foreign Minister Fuad Hussein attended the liturgy, which included a prayer for government officials, asking God to help them be “examples of honesty for the common good” and “know how to collaborate for a renewed world in which liberty and harmony reign.”

One of the prayers of the faithful, recited in Arabic, echoed the pope’s homily. “Benevolent Father, sustain your holy church with the strength of the Spirit so that it would courageously witness to Christ and would be for our country a sign of reconciliation and solidarity among all the children of Abraham, our father in faith.”

In his homily, Pope Francis told the people that while “in the eyes of the world, those with less are discarded, while those with more are privileged,” it is not that way with God, which Jesus made clear in the beatitudes.

Jesus overturned the worldly order of things, he said. “It is no longer the rich that are great, but the poor in spirit; not those who can impose their will on others, but those who are gentle with all; not those acclaimed by the crowds, but those who show mercy to their brother and sisters.”

“The poor, those who mourn, the persecuted are all called blessed,” he said, not the rich and powerful. The beatitudes “do not ask us to do extraordinary things, feats beyond our abilities,” the pope said. But “they ask for daily witness.”

“The blessed are those who live meekly, who show mercy wherever they happen to be, who are pure of heart wherever they live,” he said. The beatitudes are not a call for a moment of heroics, but about imitating Jesus each day, Pope Francis said.

“That is how the world is changed: not by power and might, but by the beatitudes.”

The Mass was the final public event of a day that saw Pope Francis travel to Najaf, a center of spiritual and political power for Iraqi Shi’ite Muslims, and then to Ur, the birthplace of Abraham, about 10 miles outside of Nasiyiyah. On March 7 he was scheduled to travel to Iraq’s Kurdistan region, where he was to visit Irbil, Mosul and Qaraqosh, cities devastated under the Islamic State group’s rule. There, he planned to meet with some of the Christians who have returned to the region to try to rebuild.

The pope’s March 5-8 visit took place under tight security.

Catholic Charities Volunteers Provide Free Tax Preparation Services

By Trina Bartlett, Eastern Regional Director, Catholic Charities West Virginia

Preparing and filing tax returns can often be an unwanted chore, but for many West Virginians it can also be difficult and nearly impossible without help. ‘Joseph and Mildred’ cannot read or write well. ‘Ann’ speaks limited English. ‘George and Margaret’ are hard of hearing. ‘Jessica’ has moved out of her parents’ house and is supporting herself by working at a fast food restaurant.

The Catholic Charities Martinsburg office has been able to help all of these individuals and hundreds more through its participation in the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program for low- and moderate-income taxpayers. As part of the program, certified volunteers, recruited by Catholic Charities staff, prepare tax returns free of charge.

Last year, Catholic Charities volunteer tax preparers completed returns for 220 taxpayers who received a total of $334,648 in federal tax returns and $29,287 in state tax returns for Eastern Panhandle residents. They were able to accomplish this despite the COVID-19 pandemic. With the extension of the filing season, the volunteers continued to help clients into the summer.

In preparation of this year’s tax season, the Catholic Charities team began last fall to plan how they could safely provide tax services. Instead of having the volunteers meet with clients and prepare the taxes at the office, staff and volunteers are meeting clients at their cars to collect documents and then scan them to a secure site. The eight volunteer tax preparers access the documents remotely and then contact the tax clients via phone to complete the returns.

Despite the pandemic, Catholic Charities continues to work with community partners to help vulnerable individuals, and the volunteers are going beyond what is required of them. For example, the manager at a local low-income senior housing program is collecting information and documents from residents. Staff and volunteers are picking up and delivering paperwork directly to the complex. Because of this, clients that have cognitive and physical issues are still receiving the personal tax help they need.

While the VITA tax program is provided in addition to the Martinsburg office’s year-round services, the extra work is worthwhile because the tax clients are all very appreciative. As one woman said, “I don’t know what I would do if Catholic Charities didn’t provide this service.”

Papa en Irak: Vivir las bienaventuranzas puede cambiar el mundo

Por Cindy Wooden, Catholic News Service

BAGHDAD (CNS)—El papa Francisco dijo a los iraquíes cristianos que cuando sufran discriminación, persecución o guerra, las bienaventuranzas están dirigidas a ellos.

“Lo que sea que el mundo nos quite no es nada comparado con el amor tierno y paciente con el que el Señor cumple sus promesas”, dijo el papa a la congregación dentro y fuera de la Catedral Católica Caldea de San José el 6 de marzo.

“Querida hermana, querido hermano, quizás cuando te miras las manos parecen vacías, quizás te sientas desanimado e insatisfecho con la vida”, dijo en su homilía. “Si es así, no temas: las bienaventuranzas son para ti, para que te sientas afligido, que tienes hambre y sed de justicia, que eres perseguido. El Señor te promete que tu nombre está escrito en su corazón, escrito en el cielo”.

Según el Vaticano, el servicio marcó la primera vez que el papa Francisco celebró una liturgia eucarística en el rito de la Iglesia caldea. Mientras el papa rezaba en italiano, el cardenal Louis Sako, el patriarca caldeo, y los miembros de la congregación oraban en caldeo, una forma moderna del arameo. Las lecturas de la Biblia fueron en árabe.

El presidente iraquí Barham Salih y el ministro de relaciones exteriores Fuad Hussein asistieron a la liturgia, que incluyó una oración por los funcionarios del gobierno, pidiendo a Dios que los ayude a ser “ejemplos de honestidad para el bien común” y “saber cómo colaborar por un mundo renovado en el que la libertad y la armonía reinan”.

Una de las oraciones de los fieles, recitada en árabe, hizo a de la homilía del papa. “Padre benevolente, sustenta a tu santa iglesia con la fuerza del Espíritu para que sea testigo valiente de Cristo y sea para nuestro país signo de reconciliación y solidaridad entre todos los hijos de Abraham, nuestro padre en la fe”.

En su homilía, el papa Francisco dijo a la gente que si bien “a los ojos del mundo, se descarta a los que tienen menos, mientras que a los que tienen más se les priva”, no es así con Dios, y eso Jesús lo dejó claro en las bienaventuranzas.

Jesús cambió el orden mundano de las cosas, dijo. “Ya no son los ricos los grandes, sino los pobres de espíritu; no los que pueden imponer su voluntad a los demás, sino los que son amables con todos; no los aclamados por la multitud, sino los que muestran misericordia a su hermano y hermanas”.

“Los pobres, los que lloran, los perseguidos son todos llamados bienaventurados”, dijo, no a los ricos y poderosos.

Las bienaventuranzas “no nos piden que hagamos cosas extraordinarias, hazanas más allá de nuestras capacidades”, dijo el papa. Pero “piden testimonio diario”.

“Los bienaventurados son los que viven con humildad, que muestran misericordia dondequiera que se encuentren, que son puros de corazón dondequiera que vivan”, dijo.

Las bienaventuranzas no son un llamado a un momento heroico, sino a imitar a Jesús todos los días, dijo el papa Francisco. “Así es como cambia el mundo: no por el poder y la fuerza, sino por las bienaventuranzas”.

La misa fue el último evento público de un día en el que el papa Francisco viajó a Nafay, un centro de poder espiritual y político para los musulmanes chítas iraquíes, y luego a Urm, el lugar de nacimiento de Abrahán, a unas 10 millas de Nasiriyah. El 7 de marzo tenía previsto viajar a la región iraquí del Kurdistán, donde visitaría Irbil, Mosul y Qaraqosh, ciudades devastadas bajo el gobierno del grupo Estado Islámico.

Allí, tenía previsto reunirse con algunos de los cristianos que han regresado a la región para intentar reconstruir.

La visita del papa del 5 al 8 de marzo se llevó a cabo bajo estrictas medidas de seguridad.

Camp Carlo Summer Hiring

The Blessed Carlo Acutis Youth Camp, affectionately known as Camp Carlo, is dedicated to leading young people to Christ & His Church. If you're committed to growing in faith, modelling faithful Catholic community life to young people, and living the adventure of His Creation, we want YOU at Camp Carlo for Summer 2021!!

Our Culture: At Camp Carlo, we strive to model authentic Catholic life and community to young people. St. John Chrysostom called the church a “hospital for souls.” Our program is residential— one could say that makes us an “in-patient” wing of the hospital for souls. Because our program is residential, we live the values of our faith 24 hours a day even when no earthly person is watching. We replace the daily distractions in the lives of youth with faithful, healthy, and engaging activities, relationships, and community.

Staff at Camp Carlo always: Strive to center their life and ministry at Camp Carlo on Christ Jesus; Put the needs of campers above themselves; Help others succeed; Know how to separate work and personal life; Excite youth, volunteers, and colleagues about our mission, ideas, and taking action; Take the initiative— see a job that needs doing and do it; Put in the work, striving to do the job right the first time.

Some Expectations: Pope Emeritus Benedict XVI once said, “[...] You were not made for comfort, you were made for greatness.”

Life at Camp Carlo will: Be physically intensive— long hours, hard work, not as much rest as we might be accustomed to in our life at home; Require a tremendous amount of patience with the youth you serve, not to mention the peers you live and work with; Deepen your faith life, build character to the extent that you commit— “You get out of camp what you put in”; Require you to try and learn new things; Give you the chance to set aside the day-to-day distractions in your own life (social media, constant communication, modern conveniences).

Standards of Professional Conduct: Staff at Camp Carlo are held to high standards of professional conduct, including: Good manners; Good personal hygiene; A dress code that is modest and functional; No personal guests throughout the week without permission from the director; No personal pets; No weapons, drugs, tobacco; Staff with cars must provide proof of insurance & license, keys kept in camp office while campers are on property; Always – without exception – following all policies for keeping children safe; Keeping peer romantic relationships from interfering with work; No co-ed sleeping arrangements on weekends; Be willing to go without personal electronic devices for extended periods of time; Understanding that a successful summer is a team effort.

Application & Hiring: Camp Carlo’s goal is to have all summer staff positions filled by April 1, 2021. Applications can be requested from Camp Carlo by emailing Riley Keaton at rkeaton@dwc.org, subject line: "COUNSELOR APPLICATION – [YOUR NAME]." Upon reviewing this brochure, complete the application and return it via email to the email above or mail to: ATTN: Blessed Carlo Acutis Youth Camp, 1311 Byron St., Wheeling, WV 26003.

Once your application has been reviewed, camping director Riley Keaton will reach out to schedule an interview.

Applications returned before February 1 will receive preference – all applicants will be informed of the status of their application by March 31.
