By Listening to Holy Spirit, Synod Can be Process of Healing, Pope Says

By Carol Glatz, Catholic News Service

VATICAN CITY (CNS) — A synod calls on everyone to become experts in “the art of encounter” in a way that is uplifting and transformative, Pope Francis said, formally opening the process leading up to the assembly of the Synod of Bishops in 2023.

“Celebrating a synod means walking on the same road, together” just like Jesus did — encountering, listening and discerning with all who one meets, the pope said in his homily at the Mass in St. Peter’s Basilica Oct. 10.

“Are we prepared for the adventure of this journey? Or are we fearful of the unknown, preferring to take refuge in the usual excuses: ‘It’s useless’ or ‘We’ve always done it this way?’” he asked.

Some 3,000 people attended the Mass, including the 270 people — cardinals, bishops, priests, religious and laypeople — invited to open the process leading up to the assembly of the Synod of Bishops in 2023.

Pope to Pharmacists: Do Not Become Accessory to Homicide of Abortion

By Carol Glatz, Catholic News Service

VATICAN CITY (CNS) — All health care professionals have a right to conscientious objection, just as they have a right to denounce unjust harm inflicted on innocent and defenseless life, Pope Francis said.

When it comes to abortion, “I have been very clear — it is homicide and it is not licit to become complicit,” he told a group of pharmacists and other medical professionals.

The pope’s remarks came during an audience at the Vatican Oct. 14 with about 150 health care professionals attending a national congress sponsored by an Italian association of pharmacists working in hospitals or for the government health service.

The Oct. 14-17 congress in Rome was looking at the pharmacist as a “promoter and interpreter of change, emergencies and planning.”

The pope said the congress would be an important occasion to emphasize the importance of having a nationwide public health care system, calling it “an essential element for guaranteeing the common good and the social growth of a country.”

He encouraged pharmacists and those they work with to continue to serve their patients with “patience, consistency and precision,” especially as their responsibilities are often hidden and their duties “routine.”

The “ethical dimension” of their profession must be supported and protected, he said. As individuals, all pharmacists handle “medicinal products that may, however, turn into poison.”

They must be vigilant to make sure their goal always is to protect “the life of the patient in all of its aspects,” he said.

“You are always at the service of human life, and this may, in certain cases, lead to conscientious objection, which is not disloyalty, rather the opposite, (it is) loyalty to your profession, if validly motivated,” he said.

The pope said there seems to be a trend in thinking that getting rid of conscientious objection would be a good idea.

However, he said, conscientious objection is an ethical principle for every health care professional, “and this is never negotiable; it is the ultimate responsibility” of each individual as “the denunciation of injustices committed that harm innocent and defenseless life.”

“It’s a very sensitive issue that requires both great competence and great integrity at the same time,” he added.

Speaking about the church’s clear stance against abortion, the pope told his audience that what they must do is “to be close” to those involved in an unplanned pregnancy, especially the woman, “so that she does not end up thinking abortion as a solution because, in reality, it is not a solution.”

“You get the bill 10, 20, 30 years later,” he said, referring to the very high emotional and psychological costs involved.

“The throwaway culture must never undermine your profession,” he said.

To Report Suspected Cases of Sexual Abuse of Children:

To Report Suspected Cases of Sexual Abuse of Children: The Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston encourages reporting to civil authorities first and foremost if a crime has been committed. We also encourage utilizing www.reportbishopspromise.org to make a report about any bishop in the U.S. If you have reason to believe that a bishop has engaged in sexual misconduct or has interfered with an investigation into sexual misconduct, please contact civil authorities in the applicable jurisdiction and visit www.reportbishopspromise.org.

To Report to Civil Authorities: Contact your local law enforcement. Numbers will vary based on your location. If you believe someone is in immediate danger, call 911. To confidentially report any incidence of suspected child abuse or neglect, including sexual abuse, contact the West Virginia Bureau for Children and Families’ Child Protective Services by calling the Child Abuse Hotline at 800.352.6513. You may report anonymously to this hotline if you prefer.

To Report to Diocesan Authorities: The diocese encourages reporting to the appropriate civil authorities first and foremost if a crime has been committed. The diocese also encourages reporting to the appropriate church authorities. To report suspected cases of sexual abuse of children by personnel of the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston to the Diocese, contact one of the following designees at 1.888.434.6237 or 304.233.0880: Mr. Bryan Minor, ext. 263; Mr. Tim Bishop, ext. 353; or Very Rev. Dennis Schuelkens, Jr., V.E., ext. 270. You may also call the Diocese’s Office of Safe Environment at 304.230.1504. You may also call the Diocese’s sexual abuse hotline at 833.230.5566. Complaint forms are available online at www.dwc.org. Click “Diocese” on the menu bar, then “Offices,” then “Safe Environment,” then “Downloaded Files and Forms.” The title is titled “Complaint Form for Allegations of Sexual Abuse of a Minor.” The form may be returned via U.S. mail to: Office of Safe Environment, Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston, PO Box 230, Wheeling WV 26003.

To Report to the Diocese’s Victim Assistance Coordinator: please call Dr. Patricia Bailey at 304.242.6988.

In addition to the methods listed above for reporting sexual abuse, the Diocese also has partnered with Navex Global to offer the EthicsPoint platform to report other, additional concerns, such as suspected financial, professional, and personal misconduct of a priest, deacon, religious, or lay employee of the Diocese or any Catholic parish or school in West Virginia. The EthicsPoint platform can be accessed via www.dwc.org under “Accountability,” then “Report Misconduct” or by calling 844.723.8381. EthicsPoint is a third-party reporting system that reports to civil authorities where applicable and Diocesan authorities, and the identity of the person reporting is protected.

Sexual Abuse Awareness Training

The U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops (USCCB) requires that all Dioceses/Eparchies have in place a Safe Environment Program for the protection of children and young people. In accordance with these requirements, the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston’s Safe Environment Program consists of the following components for persons seeking employment or to volunteer—directly or indirectly—with children: background check; receipt of the Diocese’s Policy Relating to Sexual Abuse of Children; and sexual abuse awareness training for adults. Sexual abuse awareness training may be completed online or via live workshop. For more information on the Office of Safe Environment, please go to www.dwc.org, click “Diocese,” then “Offices,” then “Office of Safe Environment.”

the day of reflection in the Vatican Synod Hall Oct. 9.

The weekend of events began the “synodal journey,” which will explore the theme, “For a synodal church: communion, participation and mission.” Bishops around the world were to open the process in their dioceses Oct. 17. The diocesan phase, which runs until April, will focus on listening to and consulting the people of God.

In his homily, the pope said they should begin the synodal process “by asking ourselves — all of us, pope, bishops, priests, religious and laity — whether we, the Christian community, embody this ‘style’ of God, who travels the paths of history and shares in the life of humanity.”

The day’s Gospel reading (Mk 10:17-30) of Jesus setting out on a journey and encountering a rich man offers just one example of how Jesus “walks alongside people and listens to the questions and concerns lurking in their hearts,” he said. “He shows us that God is not found in neat and orderly places, distant from reality, but with pre-packaged or ‘artificial and shallow responses,’ but to provide an opportunity to tell one’s story and speak freely.

“We too are called to become experts in the art of encounter. Not so much by organizing events or theorizing about problems as in taking time to encounter the Lord and one another,” to devote time to prayer and adoration, and to listen to what the Holy Spirit wants to say to the church, the pope said.

Jesus shows that an encounter has the power to change someone’s life — “the Gospel is full of such encounters with Christ, encounters that uplift and bring healing,” the pope said. In fact, Jesus was never in a hurry, and he would never have looked at a watch to signal it was time to wrap things up. “He was always at the service of people he met in order to listen to them.”

Each encounter requires “openness, courage and a willingness to let ourselves be challenged by the presence and the stories of others,” the pope said. It means not hiding behind a facade or stiff formalities indicative of a spirit of clericalism or of courtiers, but it means being a father.

To that end, the pope said he would be meeting a group of people who live on the streets later that day. He said they had already started meeting because another group of people had gone to listen to them and from there, “they have been able to begin the journey.”

Sincere listening involves the heart, not just the ears, Pope Francis said. The aim is not to be able to answer people’s questions, especially with pre-packaged or “artificial and shallow responses,” but to provide an opportunity to tell one’s story and speak freely.

“Whenever we listen with the heart, people feel that they are being heard, not judged; they feel free to recount their own experiences and their spiritual journey,” he said.

Listening to one another “is a slow and perhaps tiring exercise” but it must be done, including listening to “the questions, concerns and hopes of every church, people and nation,” and to the “challenges and changes” that world presents, he added.

Encountering and listening “are not ends in themselves” where everything stays the same, but must lead to discernment, he said.

“Whenever we enter into dialogue, we allow ourselves to be challenged, to advance on a journey. And in the end, we are no longer the same; we are changed,” he said.

The synod is “a journey of spiritual discernment that takes place in adoration, in prayer and in dialogue with the word of God,” the pope said.

Discernment is what lights the way and guides the synod, “preventing it from becoming a church convention, a study group or a political congress, but rather a grace-filled event, a process of healing guided by the Holy Spirit,” Pope Francis said.

Like he asked the rich man in the Gospel reading, Jesus is asking everyone “to empty ourselves, to free ourselves from all that is worldly, including our inward-looking and outworn pastoral models, and to ask ourselves what it is that God wants to say to us in this time and the direction in which he wants to lead us,” he said.

Pope Francis wished everyone “a good journey together! May we be pilgrims in love with the Gospel and open to the surprises of the Spirit.”
Cathedral Fosters Awareness and Education on Domestic Violence

By Colleen Rowan

WHEELING—Domestic violence awareness and education were fostered by the Cathedral of St. Joseph in Wheeling Oct. 10 with a Mass celebrated by Bishop Mark E. Brennan and a workshop that followed at Central Catholic High School’s Great Hall next door.

In his homily for the Mass, Bishop Brennan noted that October is Domestic Violence Awareness Month, coinciding with Respect Life Month.

“As we rightly decry the violence committed against unborn babies in the womb, so we have to stand also against the violence that born persons, overwhelmingly women, experience at the hands of ... husbands or boyfriends or their ex-husbands or ex-boyfriends,” Bishop Brennan said. “Violence of any kind has no place in human relations and certainly not among Christ’s followers.”

The bishop then shared a passage from “When I Cry for Help, a Pastoral Response to Violence against Women,” by the U.S. bishops in which they state: “As pastors of the Catholic Church in the United States, we state as clearly and strongly as we can that violence against women, inside or outside the home, is never justified. Violence in any form — physical, sexual, psychological, or verbal — is sinful; often, it is a crime as well. We have called for a moral revolution to replace a culture of violence.

The workshop that followed the Mass began with a video presentation from Catholics For Family Peace Education and Research on Domestic Abuse by the organization’s co-founders Sharon O’Brien, Ph.D., who also serves as director, and Lauri Przybysz, who is also the education director. Their focus was on what Catholics believe about “intimate partner” abuse and how to respond to the issue.

“In our experience,” O’Brien said, “women of faith, Catholic or otherwise, often times believe that they must stay, they must tolerate the abuse and stay in an abusive marriage, that separation and divorce are unacceptable.”

Emphasizing that this is not the case, Przybysz pointed to more words by the U.S. bishops in “When I Cry for Help, a Pastoral Response to Violence against Women” which she said makes Catholic teaching on the issue clear. In the statement, the bishops say: “Acting to end the abuse does not violate the marriage promises.”

Finally, we emphasize that no person is expected to stay in an abusive marriage.”

Przybysz also pointed to the Code of Canon Law 1153: “If either of the spouses causes grave mental or physical danger to the other spouse or to the offspring or otherwise renders common life too difficult, that spouse gives the other a legitimate cause for leaving, either by decree of the local ordinary or even on his or her own authority if there is danger in delay.”

Safety, Przybysz said, is the primary concern.

Pope Francis has addressed the issue of domestic violence in his encyclicals and has talked about how the issue is not only affecting families but society as well, Przybysz said. She went on to say that faith leaders are called to be first responders in this issue as many victims of abuse turn to clergy.

“They feel that they are safe, trustworthy” Przybysz said, seeing them as people they can talk to. In addition to clergy, she said that all people of faith are called to be leaders on this front as well.

When a victim of abuse reaches out to a person, Przybysz said to listen and believe them, respect their choice of what they want to do, realize they may not see themselves as a victim, and refer them to a professional who can help them. It is also important to let the victim know this is not God’s will for him or her, and that he or she does not deserve to be abused.

The Catholic response to domestic violence is through raising awareness and providing education, which O’Brien noted was being accomplished that day in Wheeling through the workshop. Responding to the issue, she said, also includes providing services and help in recovery for victims.

“Faith is a resource not a roadblock in addressing domestic abuse,” O’Brien said.

Also speaking at the workshop was YMCA Wheeling Executive Director Lori Jones who shared that “20 women a minute are abused in the United States and 137 across the United States are killed a day.”

Those who attended the workshop also heard presentations by Andrew Han of West Virginia Legal Aid; Ohio County Assistant Prosecutor Gail Kahle; Shelly Earnest, victim/witness coordinator for the Ohio County Prosecutor’s Office; B.L. Edmundson, a licensed outpatient mental health therapist; and Rev. Erica L. Harley, pastor of Vance Memorial Presbyterian Church in Wheeling. All of the presenters engaged in a question and answer session near the end of the workshop.

Bishop Brennan noted that later this month, presentations on domestic violence will be offered at gatherings in Charleston and Morgantown for clergy. The presentations will offer awareness and education, including signs of abuse. This will also be shared with Catholic school and parish personnel.

Classic signs of abuse include injuries that are explained with bad explanations, Kahle said. He also said the need for a victim to constantly check in with the abuser is a sign.

“Because it’s all about power and control,” Kahle said.

“The victim’s life becomes narrower, smaller,” said Edmundson, because the abuser begins to isolate the victim from family and friends.

“One of the best tools abusers use is isolation,” Han said. “Isolate the person from their familiar relationships, friendships, their jobs, financial isolation, so all of that person’s dependance is toward the abuser.”

Han said these types of changes in a victim’s life can be detected in places like faith communities where the victim is well known.

Ohio County Assistant Prosecutor Gail Kahle speaks during the Domestic Violence Awareness Workshop at Central Catholic High School’s Great Hall in Wheeling Oct. 10. With him is Shelly Earnest, victim/witness coordinator for the Ohio County Prosecutor’s Office.

Mountaineer Catholic Brings Christ to WVU’s Campus and Downtown Morgantown

By Colleen Rowan

Mountaineer Catholic at St. John University Parish in Morgantown brought Christ to West Virginia University’s campus and through the streets of city’s downtown. Participating in the Oct. 5 Eucharistic procession were parishioners, WVU students, and 35 seminarians (including diocesan seminarians) from Mount St. Mary’s Seminary in Emmitsburg, Md.

Joining them were Father Brian Crenwelge, pastor, and Father Phillip Szabo, parochial vicar. “The students walked around with the seminarians and talked to people on campus, inviting them to learn more about the Catholic faith,” said Father Crenwelge, who is also director of Campus Ministry at WVU. “We set up a tent in the center of campus and had Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament happening throughout each day. Then, we had a big Eucharistic procession all throughout campus and down ‘frat row’ to demonstrate our Catholic faith in the Real Presence of Christ in the Eucharist.”

The procession, he said, lasted for about an hour. “It was beautiful to see the students reacting as we walked by,” Father Crenwelge said. “I could tell those who were Catholic because they would either genuflect or make the Sign of the Cross as we passed them. Many people took out their phones and recorded us as we were walking by. We ended up on several WVU social media accounts.”

The Seminarian Evangelization Trip to WVU was held Oct. 3-5. The seminarians have a tradition of spending the first part of their spring and fall breaks at a different university in the U.S, Father Szabo said. “Their goal is to help the Newman Center there with student outreach and general evangelization,” he said. “They always choose universities that have an active Newman Center and FOCUS missionaries so that the students they meet will have the support that they need to grow in their faith.”

During their visit, the seminarians went out two by two to encounter students on campus and to personally invite them to the sacraments and to Mountaineer Catholic student activities, said Colleen Criste, director of Programs and Development for Campus Ministry at WVU. “It was incredible to witness their courageous faith and genuine love for each person,” she said.

“It was an incredible event that impacted the lives of many students here at WVU that we may never have had the chance to speak with otherwise,” Father Szabo said. “I am certain that we will be reaping the fruits of this trip for many months to come!”

Mass was celebrated later that day at St. John Church and was followed by a gathering.

All are invited to Adoration of the Most Blessed Sacrament at St. John University Parish’s new St. Philomena Adoration Chapel in Morgantown from 8 p.m. Oct. 22 - 8 a.m. Oct. 23 with the visiting seminarians at the parish center.

“Students and seminarians shared their testimomies and offered talks on God, Jesus, and the Catholic Church,” Father Szabo said.

The evangelization trip by the seminarians as well as the Eucharistic procession was part of the parish’s plan to increase Eucharistic devotion in a time when, according to research, most Catholics no longer believe in the Real Presence, Father Crenwelge said.

“Devotions increase faith,” he said, “so we try to have as many devotions as we can here, particularly Eucharistic devotions.”

The parish will be hosting Adoration of the Most Blessed Sacrament from 8 p.m. Oct. 22 to 8 a.m. Oct. 23 as a way to continue to foster Eucharistic piety in the parish’s new St. Philomena Adoration Chapel. The chapel is located in the Newman Center next to the church.

“I firmly believe that if we have more adoration in our parishes, there will be an increase in the faith of our people as well as more vocations to the priesthood,” said Father Crenwelge, who also is director of Vocations for the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston.

“My own vocation was nurtured in adoration here at St. John’s when I was a college freshman,” he said.

Work on the new adoration chapel has been ongoing for the past year. To help fund or support the project, contact Father Crenwelge by e-mail to: bcrenwelge@dwc.org.

“We still have a long way to go in finishing our adoration chapel,” Father Crenwelge said, “and need all the help we can get!”

“I firmly believe that if we have more adoration in our parishes, there will be an increase in the faith of our people as well as more vocations to the priesthood.”

Recognizing Miracle, Pope Clears Way for Beatification of John Paul I

By Carol Glatz, Catholic News Service

VATICAN CITY (CNS) — Pope Francis has signed a decree recognizing a miracle attributed to the intercession of Pope John Paul I, clearing the way for his beatification.

The Italian pope served only 33 days as pontiff; he died in the papal apartments Sept. 28, 1978, at the age of 65, shocking the world and a church that had just mourned the death of St. Paul VI.

The Vatican announced Pope Francis’ decision along with a number of other sainthood decrees Oct. 13.

In the sainthood cause of Pope John Paul I, the approved miracle involved a young girl in Buenos Aires, Argentina, who developed a severe case of encephalitis and uncontrollable life-threatening brain seizures, and eventually entered septic shock.

After doctors told family members her death was “imminent,” the local priest encouraged the family, nurses and others to pray to the late pope for his intercession.

At the papal apartment, family members recited the prayer I am coming as you want me to come and used the traditional papal ring — given to him by St. Pius XII — that had once belonged to Pope Pius XII.

His surprise election, after St. Paul VI’s death, did not sway him from continuing his humble manner of living, such as rejecting the use of the traditional papal tiara and calling his first Mass as pope the “inauguration” of his papal ministry, rather than a coronation.

“Let us try to improve the church by becoming better ourselves,” he said Sept. 13, 1978. “Each of us and the whole church could recite the prayer I am accustomed to reciting: ‘Lord, take me as I am, with my defects, with my shortcomings, but make me become as you want me to be.’”

Among the other decrees signed Oct. 13, the pope recognized the martyrdom of Argentine Father Pedro Oriz de Zárate and Italian Jesuit Father Giovanni Antonio Solinas, who were killed Oct. 27, 1683, in Abra de Zenta, Argentina.

They were evangelizing the mountainous area of northern Argentina with 10 laypeople, including local Indigenous people. The two priests were tortured and killed by members of two local Indigenous communities. The recognition of their martyrdom clears the way for their beatification, while the approval of a miracle would be needed for their canonization.

The other decrees approved by Pope Francis recognized:

— A miracle attributed to the intercession of Sister Ana Julia Duque Hencker, the Colombian founder of the Daughters of the Charismatics of St. John Bosco, who died in 1993. A date for her beatification was not announced.

— The heroic virtues of Spanish Father Diego HERNÁNDEZ GONZÁLEZ, who survived forced labor during the persecution of the Spanish Civil War. He dedicated his life to the sick and to establish a school to teach young women to read and write. He was born in 1915 and died in 1976.

— The heroic virtues of Italian Franciscan Father Giuseppe Spolelì, who was particularly dedicated to showing God’s mercy when administering the sacrament of reconciliation. He helped hide people being sought by German Nazis and Italian fascists during the Second World War in Italy. He was born in 1870 and died in 1951.

— The heroic virtues of French Sister Magdeleine Hutin, who was inspired by the life and writings of Blessed Charles de Foucauld and founded the Little Sisters of Jesus in Algeria. She was born in 1898 and died in 1989.

— The heroic virtues of Italian Sister Elisabetta Martinez, founder of the congregation of the Daughters of St. Mary of Leuca. She was born in 1905 and died in 1991.

Vatican Offers Free E-Book for Family Rosary

By Catholic News Service

VATICAN CITY (CNS) — The Vatican Dicastery for Laity, the Family and Life and the Pope’s Worldwide Prayer Network have a gift for families for the month of October, which is traditionally dedicated to the rosary.

“Rosary for the Family,” a free e-book that can be used with the free Click to Prayer eRosary, features watercolor illustrations of the mysteries of the rosary, quotes from Pope Francis’ 2016 document, “Amoris Laetitia” (“The Joy of Love”), and questions meant to prompt sharing about faith in the family.

“I invite you all to use this rosary so that we do not miss the opportunity to reinforce our love for Jesus and Mary, our heavenly mother,” wrote Cardinal Kevin J. Farrell, prefect of the dicastery.

“The meditations are brief, taken from ‘Amoris Laetitia’ and are accompanied by short questions and images that can help you reflect in faith, even with children.”

The 21-page e-book is available on Amazon Kindle and Google Play Books as well as online from www.laityfamilylife.va in English, Spanish, Italian, French and Portuguese.

Many of the questions take an event in the life of the Holy Family and encourage parents to share something of their experience.

For example, after praying the third joyful mystery — the birth of Jesus — parents are asked, “How did you feel when you discovered that you were to become parents? What was it like to welcome children to the world?”

Or, after the third sorrowful mystery — Jesus is crowned with thorns — family members are asked, “How do I treat my family members when they don’t do as I had hoped? Do I accept them? Do I get angry? Do I mock? Am I patient?”

Coat Drive underway in Huntington

HUNTINGTON—Catholic Charities West Virginia in Huntington is having a Coat Drive for those in need.

“We are accepting gently used coats, jackets, hoodies and pullovers for all ages,” organizers said.

“Our goal is to provide 200 coats this winter for our clients in need!”

Coats can be dropped off at Catholic Charities 2015 Adams Ave. in Huntington. Donors are asked to come to the back of the building and ring the doorbell Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. – 4:30 p.m.

“We are accepting these items from now until the end of the year,” organizers said. “Receipts will be given for your generous donation. We thank you so much for your help! Thanks for keeping our community in your heart!”

Loaves and Fishes Outreach Center Provides Food, Clothing and More

By Katie Hinerman Klug, Marketing Communications Specialist

HINTON—Building on the foundation of feeding the hungry and clothing the naked, food pantries and thrift stores are a natural part of Catholic Charities West Virginia’s (CCWVa) work to fulfill its mission.

The CCWVa Loaves and Fishes Outreach Center, located in Hinton, provides a thrift store, food pantry and additional services to area residents in need.

“Our thrift store runs 100% on donated items,” said Matt Atwood, CCWVa Southern Regional director. “All proceeds from sales support the center.”

The Loaves and Fishes Outreach Center provides a food pantry every Friday. In addition to canned and dry goods, CCWVa is able to provide fresh meat and produce items through strong local partnerships.

CCWVa can also help local residents with emergency assistance, paying toward utility bills in crisis situations.

“We have a great team of staff and volunteers who genuinely care about helping others,” said Atwood. “We’re proud of what we do, and we’re always searching for new ways to serve the community.”

The center accepts referrals from other agencies, such as the Department of Health and Human Resources (DHHR), so people in need can receive help with clothing or other household items. This resource can be especially helpful to foster families.

“Sometimes we’ll see families who have new foster kids but do not have the resources to purchase clothing right away,” said Kevin Richmond, CCWVa Loaves and Fishes Outreach coordinator. “We’re able to provide up to five outfits per referral.”

Local people are welcome to donate clothing, furniture, household items or decor to the Loaves and Fishes Outreach Center.

Through October 31, the Loaves and Fishes Outreach Center is hosting a free coat distribution. Anyone in need of a coat is welcome to choose a coat from the store’s selection at 207 Temple Street in Hinton.

CIUDAD DEL VATICANO (CNS)—Un síntodo insta a todos a convertirse en expertos en ‘el arte del encuentro’ de modo que sea edificante y transformador, dijo el papa Francisco, abriendo formalmente el proceso que conduce a la asamblea del Sínodo de los Obispos en 2023.

El papa Francisco prestó constancia de que los obispos en todo el mundo tenían que iniciarse en el proceso de la iínnodo, “evitando que se convierta en un acto de gobierno en lugar de ser una experiencia transformadora”.

“Siempre que entramos en diálogo, nos dejamos retar, avanzamos en un viaje. Y al final, ya no somos los mismos, hemos cambiado”, agregó.

“Cuando escuchamos con el corazón, la gente se siente escuchada, no juzgada. Se siente libre de contar sus propias experiencias y su camino espiritual”, dijo.

En la iglesia, el papa dijo, “el arte del encuentro nunca está presente porque otra gente ha ido a escuchar, entendiéndolo y discursivo, nunca hay que mirar el reloj para indicar que ya ha terminado”.

“Siempre estaba al servicio de las personas que encontraba para escucharlas”, dijo.

“Tres verbos” que caracterizan a un sínodo: encontrar, escuchar y discernir.

“Cuando escuchamos con el corazón, hemos cambiado”, subrayó el papa.

“Siempre que entramos en diálogo, nos dejamos retar, avanzamos en un viaje. Y al final, ya no somos los mismos, hemos cambiado”, agregó.

“El sínodo es ‘un viaje de discernimiento espiritual que se realiza en la adoración, en la oración y en el diálogo con la palabra de Dios’, según el papa Francisco.

“El discernimiento es lo que ilumina el camino, guiando el sínodo, ‘evitando que se convierta en una convención de la Iglesia, en un grupo de estudio o en un congreso político, sino en un acontecimiento lleno de gracia, en un proceso de sanación guiado por el Espíritu Santo’, dijo el papa Francisco.

“Como le pidió al hombre rico en la lectura del Evangelio, Jesús nos pide a todos ‘que nos vacíemos, que nos liberemos de todo lo mundano, incluidos nuestros modelos pastorales cerrados y caducos, y que nos preguntemos qué es lo que Dios quiere decirnos en este momento y en la dirección en la que quiere conducirnos’, dijo.

“El papa Francisco deseó a todos ‘¡buen viaje juntos! ¿Qué seamos peregrinos enamorados del Evangelio y abiertos a las sorpresas del Espíritu’.”

Dear Friends in Christ,

I am honored to serve as your Bishop and am proud of the number of families we served, the ministries we provided, and the progress we made together this past year. We truly united with Christ and shared His gifts with our brothers and sisters in need.

We served the vulnerable through Catholic Charities, encouraged our Seminarians and Deacons in formation preparing for priesthood, provided local families with health programs to care for their children, and helped young people fall deeper in love with Christ in the beautiful hills of West Virginia.

Gifts made to the Catholic Sharing Appeal (CSA) enliven our shared ministries. Through the CSA, we can strengthen families, enrich parish life, and expand our charitable outreach efforts throughout West Virginia. We made much progress last year, but unfortunately, couldn't reach everyone. It's my hope we still can.

Today, I come to you with an open heart and ask you to prayerfully consider supporting the CSA this year. You can visit dwc.org/csa to make a secure gift online. Your generosity will make an immediate impact at your parish, and in our communities now, and in the year to come. If you have already made a gift to the CSA, I thank you for your generosity.

Together, we can serve as a light for all to see and share His gifts with our brothers and sisters in need. May God abundantly bless you and your loved ones.

Sincerely Yours in Christ,

Mark E. Brennan
Bishop of Wheeling-Charleston

P.S. I will be remembering you in my prayers. Please share your prayer intentions with me at dwc.org/csaprayintentions.
