Hope Scholarship Declared Constitutional by West Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals

CHARLESTON—The Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia has ruled in a three-to-two vote that the Hope Scholarship is constitutional, according to West Virginia Attorney General Patrick Morrisey, WOWK News 13 reported Oct. 6.

West Virginia State Treasurer Riley Moore said, “This is a win for West Virginia families.”

This is a developing story that broke at press time. More about the ruling and the Hope Scholarship will be in next week’s edition of The Catholic Spirit.

Special Collection for Hurricane Ian Relief to be Held Oct. 29-30

Pope Tells Putin: Stop the War

By Cindy Wooden, Catholic News Service

VATICAN CITY (CNS) — With “rivers of blood and tears” still flowing in Ukraine and with the increasing threat of the use of nuclear weapons, Pope Francis begged Russian President Vladimir Putin: “Stop this spiral of violence and death.”

With the situation being “so serious, devastating and threatening,” the pope did not offer his customary commentary on the day’s gospel reading before reciting the Angelus prayer Oct. 2. Instead, he focused on the war and the “terrible and inconceivable wound” it is inflicting on humanity. While constantly calling for peace and offering prayers for the victims since the war began in late February, the pope drew attention in his talk to “the serious situation that has arisen in recent days with his talk to ‘the serious situation that is inflicting a terrible loss.’”

The decision, the pope told people in St. Peter’s Square, “increases the risk of nuclear escalation to the point of fears of uncontrollable and catastrophic consequences worldwide.”

“My appeal is addressed first of all to the president of the Russian Federation, begging him to stop this spiral of violence and death, also for the sake of his people,” the pope said. But “saddened by the immense suffering of the Ukrainian people as a result of the aggression suffered,” Pope Francis also appealed to Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy “to open to any ‘serious peace proposals.’”

The pope also asked world leaders “to do everything in their power to put an end to the ongoing war, without allowing themselves to be drawn into dangerous escalations, and to promote and support initiatives for dialogue.” While remembering Ukraine’s “thousands of victims,” including children, the destruction and the displacement of millions of people, Pope Francis also spoke of specifics.

“Some actions can never be justified, never!” the pope said.

“It is distressing that the world is learning the geography of Ukraine through names like Bucha, Irpin, Maripol, Izium, Zaporizhzhia and other towns that have become places of suffering and indescribable fear,” the pope said, referring to cities previously occupied by Russian troops where mass graves were found once the areas were liberated. “And what about the fact that humanity is once again faced with the atomic threat?” the pope asked. “It is absurd.”

“How much blood still must flow before we understand that war is never a solution, only destruction?” the pope asked thousands of people gathered in the square for the midday prayer. “In the name of God and in the name of the sense of humanity that dwells in every heart,” he said, “I renew my call for an immediate ceasefire.”

A just solution, he said, must be “based on respect for the sacred value of human life, as well as the sovereignty and territorial integrity of each country, and the rights of minorities and legitimate concerns.”

Letter on Respect for the Lives of Mothers and Children

September 30, 2022

My brothers and sisters, our Church is both pro-child and pro-woman. As the prolife movement long ago realized, seeking only to limit or eliminate abortions is not enough. We must also provide support to mothers before and after they give birth and to their families. Pregnancy centers around the nation have been doing that for decades, often helped by volunteers and money from Catholic parishes. The American bishops’ program, “Walking with Moms in Need,” will strengthen the connection between Catholic parishes and local pregnancy centers. Stay alert for more information about this initiative.

We must work as well to ensure that hospitals in our State provide quality prenatal and postpartum care, especially to those women who lack health insurance and other financial resources. Having checked with the administrators of Catholic hospitals in West Virginia, I can assure you that, as a matter of faith and respect for the dignity of the person, they will not turn away women who lack health insurance but need quality prenatal and postpartum care.

An inspiring example of what we can do together comes from St. Joseph’s Parish in Martinsburg. Assisted by other Catholic parishes and other churches in the Eastern Panhandle, St. Joseph’s is renovating a former convent to provide a place for pregnant women to live who have nowhere else to go. “Mary’s Refuge” will be able to accommodate nine pregnant women, who can live there for up to a year while they work and receive counseling on healthy lifestyle choices and how to raise a child. Could not such a project go forward in other parts of our State?

In our time, the State, too, has a role to play. Our legislature and Governor have created a law that will shield many preborn children from an untimely and atrocious death, but the State can and should do more. Especially now, with large budget surpluses, but even in difficult times, the State should prioritize funding programs directed toward helping young families pay for quality childcare when both parents or a child’s only parent must work outside the home. Paid maternity leave would help mothers in postpartum recovery and give them time to bond with and their newborn children. Giving more support to adoption services, promoting adoption and reducing financial obstacles in the adoption process would benefit adopted children and their new family. More must be done to support women subjected to domestic violence, which often harms their children as well. Government cannot do everything, but these are some of the things it could do.

Pope St. John Paul II often spoke of “building a culture of life.” That is the larger goal to which we Catholics must be committed. Building that culture includes all of the positive steps that the Church, other private groups and our governments can take to uphold the right to life and promote the welfare of families. But building a culture that respects all human life also means resisting evil, the “culture of death” that has gained a strong foothold in our country.

We see the culture of death at work now in attempts to discredit and damage pregnancy centers. We see it in attacks on Catholic churches that have occurred across the nation and in the vilification of Catholic Supreme Court justices for supposedly imposing their religious views on the country. We see it in programs advanced by major corporations that will provide funds for their pregnant employees to travel to states that make abortion readily available. We must defend and support pregnancy centers, speak out against attacks on churches, Catholic hospitals and individuals and others who support both child and mother, and challenge big companies who facilitate abortions but are less generous in supporting their pregnant employees who want to give birth to their children. In the latter case, look up on the Internet the names of those corporations. Do they deserve our patronage? We have to resist evil as well as do good.

These are tumultuous times. We cannot be certain of what may come from our efforts to build a culture of life. We can only entrust ourselves and our cause to the Lord and do our best. St. Teresa of Kolkata said that God has called us not to be successful but to be faithful. Yet we must trust that, in seeking to be faithful to the God who has given us life, we will be able to stem some of the evil that threatens human beings and accomplish some substantial good for them. St. Paul said, “Bear one another’s burdens and so you will fulfill the law of Christ” [Galatians 6:2]. Let us bear the burden of standing up for life and promoting the good of our brothers and sisters, the little ones and the bigger ones. As a contemporary song says, “Go make a difference.” You can make a difference. Go make a difference in the world. Let us not shrink from the struggle but engage in it with confidence in the God who has made the ultimate difference in the world by sending His Son as our Savior. United to him, we can make a difference in today’s world for women, children and families. May God bless and guide us.

Sincerely in Christ,

Mark E. Brennan

One Bread, One Body

The Eucharist and Community

By Father John H. Finnell and friends

Bicycle wheels have always fascinated me as rather miraculous architecture. Such very thin spokes, all connected to a single hub and rim, share the weight of the bike and rider evenly and enable smooth performance of duty. No spoke on its own could carry that weight, nor even 75% if them, but all together they can fulfill their mission! Those spokes barely touch one another as they converge on the hub. It is the hub that enables those thin pieces of metal to work together and produce the desired result of a strong, but lightweight, free-spinning wheel.

Bicycle wheels also speak to me about the true nature of a Christian community. The spokes are like members of the Church, the outer rim is the practical application of the mission of the Church, but that is possible only because the hub is Jesus Christ himself. While friendship and cooperation (whether casual or “deep”) do have value unto themselves, in a Christian community they become the result of our relationship with Christ.

During my 44 years of presbyteral ministry, I have observed, in many parishes, that our liturgy and sacraments are what draw us together, give us a common vision and motivate us to engage in our common mission. The Eucharist, in particular, challenges and inspires us to reach out to one another – often in connections that would probably not have happened outside of Church. As we allow the Holy Spirit to spires us to reach out to one another – particularly to those who “hoofed it” wherever he went. She would never have offered a ride to a strange man, but he wasn’t a total stranger – he was her brother in Christ!

My love and reverence for the True Presence of Christ in the Eucharist has led me to ministries in Massachusetts, Michigan, Maryland and West Virginia. I entered each new parish alone, not knowing ahead of time that each position would bind me to new and wonderful connections with fellow Christians, teach me new insights and skills and enable me to participate in many fruitful ministries and projects.

Again and again, I am reminded that Eucharist is not a special kind of thing, but rather a dynamic, living, relationship with Jesus Christ. When riding with friends in a car on a long trip, I notice how sometimes there is animated conversation and other times peaceful silence. We are the same people, in the same relationship, but we express different modes of relationship at different times and places. Thus it is with the disciples of Jesus who gather together at his table of Word and Sacrament and then go forth with a rich variety of graces, relationships and ministries.

When I was growing up in the 1950s, I was introduced to the Eucharist as a moment of privileged relationship with Jesus that called me to return to my pew quickly after receiving Communion, kneel and cover my face with my hands and, as much as possible, shut out the rest of the world from my conscious ness. Many other folks have shared their similar training. With the fresh air of the Second Vatican Council, we were invited to view the rest of the world with the eyes and heart of Jesus. Several people have shared how moving it is to carefully observe all others who are receiving Communion precisely because we realize that through Christ we are spiritually connected to them all – including those who may be total strangers, and even including those whom we may not like very much!

This experience of being bound together in one’s local community through the Eucharist also makes many Catholics who shared their thoughts with me to be aware of their similar relationship with everyone in the world who is receiving Communicaton in their own local parishes! Awareness of the universal Church is a reason for all of us to participate in regional and diocesan-wide liturgies when possible. Such experiences fill us out of our own little corner, encourage us by the reality of a wider community of faith, and open doors to our generous service of those in need. All of this spurs us on to invite the whole world to join us in this great mystery (evangelization).

Back at home, in our own parishes, a simple, common greeting and response, rolls off our lips easily and frequently during Mass: “The Lord be with you!”...”And with your spirit!” We are not being wished good fortune, perfect health, happy families, excellent academic grades, success in sports, lovely homes or desirable jobs – but rather something better and more lasting than all of those things: the indwelling of the creator of the universe, the attainment of our souls to the ultimate truth of existence! The God who does abide with us and within us is our profound spiritual connection to all of God’s creatures, just like the hub and spokes of a bicycle wheel.

In these years of Eucharistic Renewal, we can all reflect on these questions:

- Whom have we met through our Eucharistic sharing?
- What good works have we shared with our Eucharistic companions (Latin: cum=with, pan=bread)?
- What signs of Jesus with us and within us have we witnessed and experienced?

Father John H. Finnell says, “Bicycle wheels speak to me about the true nature of a Christian community. The spokes are like members of the Church, the outer rim is the practical application of the mission of the Church, but that is possible only because the hub is Jesus Christ himself.”
USCCB Pro-Life Chairman Calls for ‘Radical Solidarity’ with Pregnant Women

By Catholic News Service
WASHINGTON (CNS) — The chairman of the U.S. bishops’ pro-life committee called for a “radical solidarity” with pregnant women to protect and support them and their unborn child.

“In the post-Roe world, we must act in radical solidarity with the pregnant woman and her child, as we work and pray for the day when abortion is unthinkable,” said Archbishop William E. Lori of Baltimore, chairman of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops’ Committee on Pro-Life Activities.

The archbishop made the remarks in a statement released late Oct. 4 to mark the 100 days since the U.S. Supreme Court overturned Roe v. Wade in its Dobbs ruling.

Mothers should “be protected and supported,” he said, “and we all have a responsibility to stand with mothers in need and provide the material and emotional support necessary to allow mothers, children and families to live in dignity.”

Archbishop Lori also issued the statement to reiterate Catholic teaching on life as a response to recent public comments from people in public life “who distort the Catholic Church’s teaching,” said a USCCB news release.

“The Catholic Church recognizes that all people, born and unborn, have been created in the image and likeness of God, and therefore have inherent dignity, and the right to life,” Archbishop Lori said. “When a woman is carrying a child, both mother and child are valued and should be protected, and the life of one should not be set against the life of another.”

He added, “The goal is always to save life, never to intentionally destroy life. The church seeks the protection of all unborn children, this includes the innocent child conceived in rape or incest.”

Neither Archbishop Lori nor the news release named any specific public officials’ comments on abortion and the Catholic Church, but in remarks Sept. 22, President Joe Biden claimed that a bill sponsored by Sen. Lindsey Graham, R-S.C., to ban abortion after 15 weeks nationwide is more strict than what the church says about abortion.

Speaking at a Democratic National Committee fundraiser in New York, Biden said Graham and others are “talking about how they’re gonna, you know, make sure that Roe is forever gone and Dobbs becomes a national law.”

He said the senator’s bill has “no exceptions.” “If happen to be a practicing Catholic, my church doesn’t even make that thought,” Biden said.

However, the “Protecting Pain-Capable Unborn Children from Late-Term Abortion Acts,” as the bill is called, does include exceptions for rape, incest or to save the life of the mother. The measure also has been introduced in the House.

“Whereas the church always seeks the protection of all unborn children, it is licit to support legislation that facilitates this goal, if it advances protections and limits harm,” said Archbishop Lori in his statement.

He quoted Section 73 of St. John Paul II’s 1995 encyclical on the value and inviolability of human life, “Evangelium Vitae,”: “This does not in fact represent an illicit cooperation with an unjust law, but rather a legitimate and proper attempt to limit its evil aspects.”

“The USCCB supports legislation that seeks to limit the harm of abortion, including some legislation that includes exceptions,” Archbishop Lori said. “We will continue to pray and work for the day when all human life is welcomed in love and protected by law.”

The Supreme Court’s June 24 decision overturning Roe v. Wade came in a challenge to a Mississippi law banning abortion after 15 weeks. The case was Dobbs v. Jackson Women’s Health Organization.

The court affirmed the law 6-3 and also voted 5-4 to overturn the 1973 Roe ruling, which legalized abortion nationwide, and 1992’s Casey v. Planned Parenthood ruling, which affirmed Roe. The ruling returned the issue of abortion to the states.

In a Sept. 21 statement he issued for October as Respect Life Month, Archbishop Lori said the court’s reversal of Roe “is, without question, an answer to prayer,” but in a post-Roe world, “Catholics must now work together for another, even deeper paradigm shift.”

“We must move beyond a paradigm shift in the law in order to help the people of our nation better see who we can be as a nation by truly understanding what we owe to one another as members of the same human family,” he said.

“By building a world in which all are welcome,” he said, Catholics “must heed” the words of St. Teresa of Kolkata “and remember ‘that we belong to one another.’”

Cardinals Cupich and Dolan urge HHS to ‘Reconsider Misguided Mandate’ on Transgender Procedures

By Catholic News Service
NEW YORK (CNS) — Catholic hospitals and their workers “must not be forced by the government to violate their consciences” by being forced to perform “gender transition procedures” against their religious beliefs, said two U.S. cardinals writing in America magazine.

In a Sept. 26 article in the national weekly Jesuit publication based in New York, Cardinal Blase J. Cupich of Chicago and Cardinal Timothy M. Dolan of New York addressed a proposed revision of the Affordable Health Care Law called by the civil rights office of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

The HHS proposal, or “proposed rule” as it is called, would apply to implementation of an ACA provision, Section 1557, which prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, disability or sex — including pregnancy, sexual orientation and gender identity — in covered health programs or activities.

This provision “rightly prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex in health care. We wholeheartedly support all efforts to ensure that everyone, without exception, receives the best health care that is their due,” Cardinals Cupich and Dolan wrote.

“Catholic hospitals do not discriminate against anyone and to do so would be offensive to the embracing and expansive healing ministry of Jesus Christ,” they said, noting that one of every seven Americans in need of hospital care will receive it in a Catholic facility.

“All people who come to us are treated with dignity, ‘no matter their age, sex, racial or ethnic background or religion. It is also true for people who identify as transgender. They will receive the same treatment as any other patient,’” the prelates said.

“However, if health care facilities are to be places where the twin pillars of faith and science stand together, then these facilities and their workers must not be coerced by the government to violate their consciences,” they said.

Besides forcing health care workers to perform gender transition procedures, the revisions would require health insurance plans to cover the costs of such procedures.

The HHS proposal will likely apply to all health care providers, clinics, nursing homes, hospitals, group health insurers and third-party administrators of self-funded plans.

The full proposal, published under the heading “Nondiscrimination in Health Programs and Activities,” can be found on the Federal Register’s website at https://bit.ly/3d0wjkj. The site includes a link to submit comments and provides other ways to submit comments.

It was published Aug. 4 by the Federal Register, opening a 60-day period for public comment. The last day for submissions was Oct. 3.

“Under this proposed rule, it would be considered discrimination for a health care facility or worker to object to performing gender transition procedures, regardless of whether that objection is a matter of sincerely held religious belief or clinical judgment,” Cardinals Cupich and Dolan said. “This is government coercion that intrudes on the religious freedom of faith-based health care facilities.”

They urged HHS “to reconsider its ‘Reconsider ‘Cardinals’ on Page 7
Bishop Brennan Leads Discussion on the Eucharist in Bridgeport

By Colleen Rowan
BRIDGEPORT—Bishop Mark Brennan led a discussion on the National Eucharistic Revival at All Saints Parish in Bridgeport Oct. 4 which featured a video commentary by Cardinal Blase J. Cupich of Chicago. The discussion was the culmination of a series of talks on the Eucharist presented by the parish. The event was live-streamed for those who could not attend.

In introducing the video of Cardinal Cupich’s talk at the 25th Eucharistic Congress in the Archdiocese of Atlanta on the feast of Corpus Christi June 16, Bishop Brennan said, “He gave a wonderful talk. I thought, this is a good way to conclude the series of talks and conversations you’ve been having in this Eucharistic Revival...”

Following the video presentation, the bishop continued with his discussion.

“My hope is that people will be reinvigorated in their faith in Christ, that he really does fulfill his promise to be with us through the Eucharist. It is him we receive. And on the basis of receiving him, we can be transformed. We are supposed to be transformed to do good things in the world. That is my hope.” Bishop Brennan said in answering a question from a member of the congregation on his expectations of the revival and plans the diocese has for the year.

The bishop explained that this is the first year of the three-year initiative of the U.S. Bishops with the focus at the diocesan level. The diocese’s plans for the year, the bishop said, include gatherings, especially in the spring... “to gather people from different parishes together to experience some enlightenment about the Eucharist and to celebrate the Eucharist.”

In addition to The Catholic Spirit, FaultlineWV and the diocese’s website and social media are showcasing information on gatherings, prayerful opportunities, educational materials, and more throughout the year. The bishop said that next year’s focus is on the parish level and the following year on the national level.

“We want our people to receive the benefit of the Eucharist,” the bishop said, “and draw more people in to be in touch with the Lord in that way so that they could be changed as the bread and wine are changed and do good things in the world. We’re not a Catholic club. We are a movement proclaiming Jesus as Lord and savior and trying to do good things in his name.”

Book Studies Available to Help the Faithful on the Eucharistic Revival Journey

By Joyce Bibey
During this diocesan year of the Eucharistic Revival in our country the faithful are called to enter into a closer relationship with God and evangelize as we renew our focus on Christ’s true presence in the Eucharist.

The word “evangelize” alone can be intimidating, especially when we admit we have a lot to learn ourselves. With that in mind the Office of Evangelization and Catechesis Director Daniel Maul and his staff have developed a series of easy-to-follow book studies on publications that will empower and bring us closer to Jesus in the Eucharist.

“This is an exciting time for the church,” Maul said. “It is a time to feed our souls and grow individually, as well as a Catholic community.

The book studies can be led by anyone in the parish that is eager to learn. The guides are set up to walk you and your group through summaries, quotes, questions, and discussion prompts, Maul said. The first three in the series are available now through Maul’s office. The books include: “The Mystery of the Eucharist in the Life of the Church” by the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops (USCCB); “God is Near Us, The Eucharist the Heart of Life” by Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger (Pope Emeritus Benedict XVI); and “Eucharist” by Bishop Robert Barron.

This collection of books, beginning with the USCCB’s book that gives us a strong foundation for the journey, will help us discover our own devotion and dependency on God and the Eucharist as the heart of life.

“We are all busy and wear many hats, but our faith and spiritual growth is something we shouldn’t just keep in a box and pull out whenever it’s convenient for us,” he said. “Our office is here to help bring our faith into our lives so fully that it is second nature for us to share our love of God and the gift of the Holy Eucharist with our loved ones and community through our actions and our words.”

Entering into a focus on the Eucharist as a small group and church family also invites the Holy Spirit into your hearts as Jesus taught us and is repeated in Matthew 18:20—“For where two or more of you are gathered in my name, there am I in the midst of them.”

“These book studies can be life giving exercises for our parishes small and large,” Maul said. “We all get overwhelmed with our daily routines and never-ending list of to-dos. Our time is precious, but taking on spiritual formation with others – no matter their age, background, demographic – makes catechesis easier, inviting, and more engaging.”

If you have a book you would like to have Maul’s office review for a book study, contact him at dmaul@dwc.org or (304)233-0880 ext. 376.

Jason Evert Speaks to Catholic Youth and Families in Three West Virginia Cities

By Colleen Rowan
WEST VIRGINIA—Renowned national Catholic speaker and author Jason Evert tackled many issues young people and families are facing these days in his late September speaking tour in West Virginia. He began the three-city tour in Wheeling Sept. 26 at St. Michael Parish presenting the Purified Event for young people 13 and older and their families. The first evening of the two-night retreat included Evert’s presentation on chastity for teens and parents where he discussed the world’s view of sexuality and what the church teaches.

The next morning, Evert presented a talk on “Love or Lust” to students in grades seven through 12 at Madonna High School in Weirton, a school he knows well as he did an internship there years ago while he attended Franciscan University of Steubenville. At Franciscan, Evert earned a master’s degree in theology, and undergraduate degrees in counseling and theology. He and his wife Crystalina then started the Chastity Project for teens and young adults. To date, they have reached more than two million people on six continents. He is the best-selling author of 10 books and is a frequent guest on radio programs. His television appearances include Fox News, the BBC, MSNBC, and EWTN.

After his visit to Madonna, Evert was back in Wheeling presenting a talk to students at Central Catholic High School that afternoon.

To the faithful who filled St. Michael Church for his discussion on the second night of the retreat later that evening, Evert shared his presentation “Theology of Your Body.” In this talk, he discussed the meaning of sex, gender, and the human body.

“We, as men and women, have been given a task to rediscover the meaning of our bodies,” he said in his talk. “And to me, this is the most important form of evangelization right now—simply to be as God has created us to be as men and as women.”

Evert also discussed gender dysphoria and walking with those who are experiencing this. He discussed the harmful effects of puberty blockers and cross-sex hormones on teens, and a “relentless assault” on masculinity and femininity in the last 50 years.

At the end of his second night at St. Michael’s, Evert headed to Morgantown where he presented “Dating 101” to a packed hall at St. John University Parish for young parishioners and Mountaineer Catholic students (the parish’s campus ministry for Catholic students attending West Virginia University). The talks Evert shared in West Virginia along with additional issues of discussion by Evert and his wife are available on chastity.com through CDs and DVDs. The site also offers a place for Catholics to find answers on issues such as dating, marriage and family, and pornography, among other topics. The site provides young people, parents, and families guidance on different issues through many different resources. A listing of the Everts’ books, audiobooks, and more are also available for purchase on the site.

“Such a mandate threatens the conscience rights of all health care providers and workers who have discerned that participating in, or facilitating, gender transition procedures is contrary to their own beliefs,” they added.

The cardinals said that “people of many faiths, or of no faith yet with deep personal convictions, may find these procedures profoundly troubling, and their constitutional rights deserve to be respected.”

“In a society that protects the free exercise of religion, religious health care providers cannot be expected to violate the teachings of their religion as a condition of continuing their care, and religious health care workers cannot be expected to violate their consciences as a condition of employment,” they said.

Cardinals Cupich and Dolan asked the question: “Does objecting to performing gender transition procedures—but welcoming patients who identify as transgender—constitute discrimination?”

“Of course not,” they said. “The focus of such an objection is completely on the procedure, not the patient.”

“Prohibiting the removal of a healthy, functioning organ is not discrimination, provided that the same determination would be made for anyone of any sex or gender, which is true at Catholic hospitals,” they continued.

The cardinals confirmed what other critics of the HHS proposal said when they first became aware of it back in July, that it would not include federal conscience protection for those in health care who object to performing these procedures.

“The proposed regulation does not codify the rights of faith-based providers to decline procedures based on conscience, as other federal laws do,” the prelates said. “Rather, it holds that HHS reserves the right to decide whether, despite those existing conscience protections, it can force faith-based providers to violate their beliefs.”

“Considering that the government is currently fighting court rulings that held that it violated religious freedom laws the last time it tried to impose a mandate like this, it is reasonable to lack confidence in the department’s commitment to construing these laws to provide appropriately robust conscience protections,” they said.

One such court ruling was handed down Aug. 26 by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

In a unanimous decision, the court blocked an HHS transgender mandate in a case that dates back to the Obama administration.

The ruling came in the case Franciscan Alliance v. Becerra. The lawsuit was first filed in 2016 by Franciscan Alliance, a Catholic health care network, and a group of nearly 19,000 health care professionals.

That year the Obama administration began implementing a mandate requiring doctors to perform gender transition procedures on any patient, including children, and required private insurance companies — except plans run by Medicare and Medicaid — and many employers to cover gender reassignment therapy or face severe penalties and legal action.
Martinsburg’s St. Joseph School Enthroned to Sacred Heart of Jesus and Immaculate Heart of Mary

By Colleen Rowan

MARTINSBURG—On Sept. 21, Father Thomas Gallagher enthroned St. Joseph School in Martinsburg to the Sacred Heart of Jesus and the Immaculate Heart of Mary, “making Jesus the king of our school family and dedicating it to the Immaculate Heart of the Virgin Mary,” school officials said.

Father Gallagher, who is pastor of the school and of St. Joseph Parish, joined Bishop Mark Brennan the day before for Mass celebrated for the students. During the Mass, the bishop blessed two images of Jesus and Mary donated by the Legion of Mary Praesidium (Our Lady of Good Help) for the dedication.

School officials said the gold-framed artworks will be displayed in the school.

Enthroning the school to Jesus and Mary implores their protection from danger on many levels, Father Gallagher said.

“Not only are we constantly looking to keep our school environment safe from physical danger, whether it be a fire or intruder, we also take seriously the fact that we face spiritual dangers, sin and temptation,” Father Gallagher said. “St. Peter says in his first letter, ‘Be sober and vigilant. Your opponent the devil is prowling around like a roaring lion looking for [someone] to devour. Resist him, steadfast in faith’. (1 Peter 5: 8-9).

Enthroning our school, our families, and our hearts to Jesus and Mary, helps protect us from spiritual dangers from whom the powers of the enemy fly.”

Father Gallagher expressed his gratitude to Principal Maria Byrd, whose idea it was to have the school enthroned. She is president of the Legion of Mary, Our Lady of Good Help, St. James the Greater Parish in Charles Town.

“It is a very important part of our works that we enthrone the families/homes to the Sacred Heart of Jesus and the Immaculate Heart of Mary,” Byrd said. “In this manner, we make Jesus, the King of our hearts and families. I thought it would be a wonderful devotion for teachers and students to do the same, as we are one family, the St. Joseph School family.”

Father Gallagher added, “To build on our theme of #sjsfamilystrong, we thought there was no better way to foster our family life than to entrust our family to Jesus and Mary.”

Our patron, would be pleased about the enthronement. His silence always leads us to Jesus through Mary.

“Additionally, we are grateful to Bishop Brennan for blessing the images of the Sacred Heart and the Immaculate Heart when he visited our school on the Memorial of Our Lady of Sorrows,” Father Gallagher said. He also thanked Music Director Brian Kaltenbaugh for helping to facilitate the enthronement.

At Novena, Deacon Lim Encourages All to Reach out to Those Who do not Believe

By Colleen Rowan

In his homily for the fifth evening of the Novena to the Infant Jesus of Prague at the Cathedral of St. Joseph in Wheeling Oct. 3, Deacon Paul Lim encouraged all to reach out to those who do not believe.

"As faithful members of the church, especially in the midst of a National Eucharistic Revival, this is where much of our attention should go as well, to the nonbelievers," said Deacon Lim, who serves as vice president of Mission Integration, Administration at WVU Medicine Wheeling Hospital. "It's tempting to keep this novena and this Eucharistic Revival about us, those who already know Jesus in the Eucharist. Of course, as devoted Catholics, we should always go deeper in our Eucharistic devotion. We need to allow ourselves to grow and be conformed to him who we receive at Mass."

He reminded all that the Eucharist is not just for the faithful or the devout but it is also for those who should be. "The Eucharist is the source in the summit of Christian life."

He encouraged all to bring the faith to those who do not believe.

The theme of this year's novena is “The Holy Eucharist” and is a great prayerful opportunity during the Eucharistic Revival. All are invited to attend the novena every Monday at 7 p.m. with Exposition and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, a homily by guest clergy, music, and prayers to the Infant of Prague. The sixth evening of the novena is Oct. 10 with Father Jude Perera of the Diocese of Steubenville, Ohio.

The remaining Mondays of the novena are: Oct. 17 with Father Sateesh Narisetty, HGN, J.C.L.; Oct. 24 with Father Jude Perera, TOR; and Oct. 31 with Bishop Mark Brennan.
Volunteers: Integral to Our Work

“The volunteers are the heart and soul of our services,” said Jodi Fogel, CCWVa Volunteer manager. “Without our dedicated volunteers, our staff would not be able to offer the breadth of services we provide.”

The luncheon allowed the Catholic Charities West Virginia staff to serve and honor individuals who consistently give of themselves in service of others.

The Neighborhood Center serves roughly 4,400 home-delivered meals six days per week and around 12,000 in-house hot meals six days per week. Meals are cooked, packed, and delivered mostly by volunteers.

The Neighborhood Center also has volunteers who assist with keeping the center clean, rotating inventory in the food pantry, and keeping the shelves stocked and clean.

“If it has been weighing on your heart to better serve your community, give us a call. We have many opportunities,” said Fogel. Jodi Fogle can be reached at (304) 232-7157, ext. 2003.

“For even the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve, and to give his life as a ransom for many.” – Mark 10:45

Month of the Rosary

By Joyce Bibey

Take time for yourself to pray the rosary. Consider it a time well earned – a moment to concentrate on your prayers, joy, sorrow, pain, and thanksgiving. As you recite the Our Fathers, Hail Marys, Glory Be, and the Fatima Prayer – know that Mary is praying with you and for you. When you steal away time to reverently reflect on the lives of Jesus, Mary, and Joseph, call upon the Blessed Mother to intercede for you to her son Our Lord, Jesus Christ. Picture yourself holding Mary’s hand as you hold each bead. That image is exactly what St. Teresa of Calcutta (Kolkata) lovingly and habitually did as she invited Mary Queen of Peace into her reverent prayer.

Let the rosary become your comforting devotion, a calming meditation. Don’t think of it as a spiritual chore. Welcome it as well-deserved time to set aside for yourself or with your loved ones. This gift of prayer is directly from our Blessed Mother.

Satan will try to influence your thoughts, so you believe you are too busy or that it’s too difficult. Think of it in the opposite way, it is a gift from Mary to you. She gave us the rosary through St. Dominic de Guzman. Just do it. Let the rosary bring you peace, comfort, grace, and hope. Listen to audio or video versions during your travels, your coffee break, a walk, etc.

Resources online are endless. The Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston has a rosary guide available at: https://faithinwv.org/the-rosary and a healing rosary with video/audio for survivors of abuse at: https://dwc.org/pray-the-rosary.

Oct. 7 is the Feast of Our Lady of the Rosary. Our Lady of Victory

The Church recognizes October the Month of the Holy Rosary, because of the 16th Century Marian devotion to Our Lady of the Rosary. Pope Pius V wholeheartedly gave credit to the Virgin Mary for the Oct. 7, 1571, victory for the Church and Christians of Spain and Venice over Turks, who waged war on all Christianity. The day of the battle at sea was the same day the Rosary Confraternity of Rome gathered to recite the rosary for the Blessed Virgin to intercede and go to Jesus to protect and empower the Christians at battle. Pope Pius V declared the day the Feast of Our Lady of Victory. A year later, his successor, Pope Gregory III, changed the name of the feast to Our Lady of the Rosary to emphasize the power of our Blessed Mother’s intercession.

Por Cindy Wooden, Catholic News Service

CIUDAD DEL VATICANO (CNS) — Con “aristas de sangre y lágrimas” toda- vía fluyendo en Ucrania y con la creciente amenaza del uso de armas nucleares, el papa Francisco le rogó al presidente ruso Vladímir Putin: “Detén esta espiral de violencia y muerte”.

Dado que la situación es “tan grave, devastadora, y amenazante”, el papa no ofreció su comentario hab- bitual sobre la lectura del Evangelio del día antes de recitar la oración del Ánge- lus el 2 de octubre. En cambio, se centró en la guerra y la “herida terrible e in- concebible” que amenaza la humanidad.

Mientras hacía un llamado constante a la paz y rezaba por las víctimas desde que comenzó la guerra a fines de febrero, el Santo Padre llamó la aten- ción en su discurso sobre “la grave situación que se ha presentado en los últimos días con nuevas acciones contrarias a los principios del derecho internacional”, una clara referencia al anuncio de Putin el 30 de abril.

La decisión, dijo el Sumo Pontífice a la gente reunida en la Plaza de San Pedro, “aumenta el riesgo de una escalada nuclear, hasta el punto de que hacen temer consecuencias incontro- lables y catastróficas a nivel mundial”.

“Mi llamado se dirige en primer lugar al presidente de la Federación Rusa, ro- gándole que detenga esta espiral de violencia y muerte, también por el bien de su pueblo”, expresó el papa.

“Por ‘triste por el inmenso sufrimiento del pue- blo ucrtiano como resultado de la agresión sufrida’, el papa Francisco también apeló al presidente ucrtani- ano Volodymyr Zelenskyy ‘a estar abierto’ a cualquier ‘propuesta seria de paz’.

El papa también pidió a los líderes mundiales “que hagan todo lo que esté a su alcance para poner fin a la guerra en curso, sin dejarse arrastrar por peligrosas es- caladas, y que promuevan y apoyen iniciativas para el diálogo”.

Mientras recordaba las “miles de víctimas” de Ucra- nia, incluyendo los niños, la destrucción, y el despla- zamiento de millones de personas, el papa Francisco también habló específica- mente.

“Es angustiante que el mundo esté aprendiendo la geografía de Ucrania a través de nombres como Bucha, Irpin, Mariupol, Izium, Zaporizzhzhia, y otros pueblos que se han convertido en lugares de sufrimiento y miedo inde- scriptible”, manifestó el Santo Padre, refiriéndose a las ciudades previamente ocupadas por tropas rusas y donde se encontraron fosas comunes una vez liberadas las áreas.

“¿Y qué pasa con el hecho de que la humanidad se enfrenta una vez más a la amenaza atómica?” pre- guntó el papa. ‘Es absurdo’.

“¿Cuánta sangre aún debe ser derramada antes de que entendamos que la guerra nunca es una solu- ción, solo destrucción?’ el papa preguntó a las miles de personas reunidas en la plaza para la oración del mediodía.

“En nombre de Dios y en nombre del sentido de hu- manidad que habita en cada corazón”, dijo, ‘re- nuevo mi llamado a un alto al fuego inmediato’.

El papa Francisco oró por una solución negociada del conflicto, que ‘no sea impuesta por la fuerza, sino acordada, justa, y estable’.

Una solución justa, dijo, debe estar ‘basada en el respeto al valor sagrado de la vida humana, así como a la soberanía e integridad territorial de cada país, y los derechos de las minorías y preocupaciones legítimas’.
