Pope: Bishops Must Handle Communion Debate as Shepherds, Not with Censures

By Junno Arocho Esteves, Catholic News Service
ABOARD THE PAPAL FLIGHT FROM SLOVAKIA (CNS) — The debate about denying Communion to politicians who support abortion must be handled in a pastoral way, not by public condemnations that seek to “exclude” Catholics who are not in line with church teaching, Pope Francis said.

During his return flight from Bratislava, Slovakia, Sept. 15, the pope said that while there is no question that “abortion is homicide,” bishops must look take a pastoral approach rather than wade into the political sphere.

“If we look at the history of the church, we can see that every time the bishops did not act like shepherds when dealing with a problem, they aligned themselves with political life, on political problems,” he said.

The pope told journalists that when defending a principle, some bishops act in a way “that is not pastoral” and “enter the political sphere.”

“And what should a shepherd do? Be a shepherd. Not going around condemning,” the pope added. “They must be a shepherd, a shepherd.”

Prayerful Memorials Mark 20th Anniversary of 9/11

NEW YORK (CNS) — New York Cardinal Timothy M. Dolan said he couldn’t think of “a better place to be” than St. Patrick’s Cathedral “on this somber anniversary” of the 9/11 terrorist attacks.

He shared his sentiments in opening remarks at a morning Mass he offered Sept. 11 at the cathedral to members of the New York City Fire Department and to families of firefighters who perished on 9/11.

“My welcome to all of you this morning is especially heartfelt and fervent,” the cardinal said in his homily.

“While the entirety of this one nation under God observes this two-decade anniversary of the 9/11 tragedy, you all have a special claim to it,” he added.

“You, FDNY, were there. You, FDNY, lost cherished ones. Pray for them.”

in God’s style, which is closeness, compassion and tenderness.”

“A shepherd that doesn’t know how to act in God’s style slips and enters into many things that are not of a shepherd.” The pope said he preferred not to comment directly on the issue of denying Communion in the United States “because I do not know the details; I am speaking of the principle” of the matter.

During their virtual spring general assembly in June, 75% of U.S. bishops approved the drafting of a document, addressed to all Catholic faithful, on eucharistic coherence. During long discussions on the document before the vote, sev eral bishops specifically pointed to President Joe Biden and House Speaker Nancy Pelosi, D-Calif., who are Catholic, for not actively seeking to end legal abortion, and they said such politicians should be denied Communion.

When asked if he had ever pub licly denied Communion to some one, Pope Francis emphatically said, “No, I have never denied the Eucharist to anyone; to anyone! I don’t know if someone came to me under those conditions, but I have never refused them the Eucharist, since the time I was a priest.”

But, he added, “I was never aware of anyone in front of me under those conditions that you mentioned.”

Recalling his apostolic exhortation, “Evangelii Gaudium,” the pope said that “Communion is not a prize for the perfect,” but rather “a gift, the presence of Jesus in his church and in the community. That is the theology.”

However, Pope Francis also said he understood why the church takes a hard stance because accepting abortion “is a bit as if daily murder was accepted.”

“Whoever commits an abortion, murders,” he said. “Take any book on embryology, those books on medicine. At the third week of conception, many times before a mother even realizes it, all the organs are there. All of them, even their DNA.”

“It is a human life. Period,” the pope added. “And this human life must be respected. This principle is very clear.”

Pope Francis said that those “who don’t understand” this principle must ask themselves whether it is “right to kill a human life to solve a problem.”

He also recalled the reaction to his apostolic exhortation on Amoris Laetitia, and the debates sur rounding giving Communion to divorced or remarried Catholics. Some called it, “heresy, but thank God for Cardinal (Christoph) Schönborn, a great theologian, who cleared a bit the chaos,” he said.

Nevertheless, “there was always this condemnation,” the pope said. “These are poor people who are temporarily outside, but they are children of God and need our pastoral action.”

The pope was also asked about his recent public service announcement in August encouraging people to receive the COVID-19 vaccine and whether his statement that “vaccinations are an act of love” would alienate Catholics who are skeptical about taking the vaccine.

Pope Francis said he found “a little strange” because “humanity has a history of friendship with vaccines.” He also said that doubts about the vaccines may be a consequence of “the uncertainty of the pandemic, of the vaccine itself,” or the notoriety of some vaccines in the past that were practically “distilled water.”

“Even in the College of Cardinals there are some deniers. One of these, the poor guy, recently recovered from the virus,” the pope said, alluding to American Cardinal Raymond L. Burke.

In Slovakia, recent legislation requiring vaccinations sparked protests in the country, causing di visions and tensions, including within the Catholic Church. Al though the government initially mandated all participants of papal events to be vaccinated, authorities relaxed the initial regulations and allowed participants who pre sented a negative COVID-19 test or proof of recovery from coronavi rus.

To Report Suspected Cases of Sexual Abuse of Children

The Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston encourages reporting to civil authorities first and foremost if a crime has been committed. We also encourage utilizing www.reportbishopabuse.org to make a report about any bishop in the U.S. if you have reason to believe that a bishop has engaged in sexual misconduct or has interfered with an investigation into sexual misconduct, please contact civil authorities in the applicable jurisdiction and visit www.reportbishopabuse.org.

To Report to Civil Authorities: Contact your local law enforcement: numbers will vary based on your location. If you believe someone is in im medi ate danger, call 911. To confidentially report any incidence of suspected child abuse or neglect, including sexual abuse, contact the West Virginia Bureau for Children and Families’ Child Protective Services by calling the Child Abuse Hotline at 800.352.6513. You may report anonymously to this hotline if you prefer.

To Report to Diocesan Authorities: The diocese encourages re porting to appropriate civil authorities if a crime has been committed. The diocese also encourages reporting to the appropriate church authorities. To report suspected cases of sexual abuse of children by personnel of the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston to the Diocese, contact one of the following designates at 1.888.434.6237 or 304.233.0880: Mr. Bryan Minor, ext. 263; Mr. Tim Bishop, ext. 353; or Very Rev. The form may be returned via U.S. mail to: Office of Safe Environment, Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston, PO Box 230, Wheeling WV 26003.

To Report to the Diocese’s Victim Assistance Coordinator: please call Dr. Patricia Bailey at 304.242.6988.

In addition to the methods listed above for reporting sexual abuse, the Diocese also has partnered with Navex Global to offer the EthicsPoint platform to report other, additional concerns, such as suspected financial, professional, and personal misconduct of a priest, deacon, religious, or lay employee of the Diocese or any Catholic parish or school in West Virginia. In addition to the EthicsPoint platform can be accessed via www.dwc.org, under “Accountability”, then “Report Misconduct” or by calling 844.723.8381. EthicsPoint is a third-party reporting system that reports to civil authorities where applicable and Diocesan authorities, and the identity of the person reporting is protected.

Sexual Abuse Awareness Training

The U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops (USCCB) requires that all Dioceses/Eparchies have in place a Safe Environment Program for the protection of children and young people. In accordance with these requirements, the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston’s Safe Environment Program consists of the following components for persons seeking employment or to volunteer—directly or indirectly—with children: background check; receipt of the Diocese’s Policy Relating to Sexual Abuse of Children; and sexual abuse awareness training for adults. Sexual abuse awareness training may be completed online or via live workshop. For more information on the Office of Safe Environment, please go to www.dwc.org, click “Diocese”, then “Offices,” then “Office of Safe Environment.”

9/11 Anniversary Renews Call of Sainthood for Franciscan Priest

By Catholic News Service

WASHINGTON (CNS) — The 20th anniversary remembrances of the 9/11 terror attacks in the United States is renewing a canonization push for the first identified casualty: Franciscan Father Mychal Judge.

Father Judge, a New York Fire Department chaplain, was at the World Trade Center site praying with and ministering to attack victims when debris falling from the ruins of the twin towers struck and killed him. Even then, some Catholics were saying Father Judge should be considered for canonization.

Twenty years later, there has been only a bit of movement toward advancing the priest’s sainthood cause. A representative of the Vatican Congregation for Saints’ Causes said Father Judge would be a good fit for sainthood as an “offerer” — based on Pope Francis’ 2017 motu proprio, “The Offerer of Life” — as “someone who offers his life for others,” according to Francis DeBernardo, executive director of New Ways Ministry. DeBernardo, in a Sept. 10 phone interview with Catholic News Service, said the group collected interviews with people who knew Father Judge, who died at age 68 after 40 years as a priest. But sainthood is a lengthy and time-consuming process.

colleagues — 343,” the cardinal said. “You, FDNY, ask the questions ... in your duty to save, rescue and protect.”

“And you, beloved families — how much we love you — realized that day, that the day you had long feared, the phone call you often feared, the supreme loss you knew was part of the package, had arrived all at once.

“So you are all very much at home here at St. Patrick’s, folks,” he said.

“This happens to be where we come to sob, to remember with reverence and gratitude, to recall with love those we gave away that day.”

The cathedral, he continued, is where we come to hear the inspired word of God, especially the teaching of Christ.

“This is where we come to bow heads, to whisper a prayer, to dry a tear, to fight off a lump in the throat, to light a candle and realize we’re not alone, that we are surrounded by our family, friends, community, Mother Church, is with us.”

At a 9/11 remembrance Mass Sept. 8 at the Cathedral Basilica of the Sacred Heart in Newark, New Jersey, Cardinal Joseph W. Tobin reminded the congregation that what happened 20 years ago was more than a national tragedy. For many in the local area, it was personal, he said.

The terrorist attacks directly impacted New Jersey families and residents who “had no idea that morning they were saying a final goodbye to someone whose loss would rip out their hearts,” the cardinal said in his homily.

Some of those who lost loved ones in the World Trade Center attack were at the Mass.

During a Sept. 11 Mass for firefighters at the Co-Cathedral of St. Joseph in Brooklyn, Bishop Nicholas DiMarzio of Brooklyn said: “Remembrance is important, but even more important is our communion with those who have gone before us in death. Life has many, many difficult moments. We live our life for God and for other people.”

He also told the firefighters that as they continue their journey they should ask God to be with them and “as we remember those who have gone before us, that we will be as brave as them as we follow our life’s mission.”

Washington Cardinal Wilton D. Gregory, the principal celebrant and homilist of the Sept. 11 Mass at St. Patrick’s in Washington, said the anniversary of the terrorist attacks is a time to “pause to remember the thousands of people whose lives were lost and their families who still grieve,” and also an opportunity to “recall the extraordinary dedication of first responders and even ordinary citizens.”

He said the anniversary is not “simply a moment for deep national mourning, but it is also simultaneously a time for deep hope and pride in the courage and the strength of our nation.”

At the beginning of the Mass, Father Andrew Wakefield, pastor of St. Patrick’s, said: “It is hard to believe we are 20 years removed from that day when the world changed.”

“As we saw the very worst of humanity that day, we also saw the very best of humanity” in how first responders and others raced to assist those harmed in the attacks, he said.

On the morning of Sept. 11, the Knights of Columbus Honor Guard from Assembly 1185 and Boy Scout Troop 5 hold a 9/11 Commemoration Ceremony in front of St. Michael Parish School in Wheeling. After an opening prayer led by Father Joseph Wiley, Council 504 chaplain, and with the honor guard standing by, the troops raised the flag and then lowered it back down to half staff in memory of those who lost their lives in the 9/11 terrorist attacks 20 years ago. The National Anthem was performed on bagpipes by Knights of Columbus State Treasurer Brian Gordon’s son, Zac.
In Celebration of the Year of St. Joseph

Join a Diocesan Pilgrimage

By Colleen Rowan

There are still two Sundays left for the Catholic faithful of West Virginia to join in the Diocesan Pilgrimage for the Year of St. Joseph.

The pilgrimage began on Sept. 12 after an invitation from Bishop Mark E. Brennan to make a pilgrimage on the second Sunday of the month from September to November to churches in the diocese named in honor of the foster father of Our Lord Jesus. The designated churches for the pilgrimage are: the Cathedral of St. Joseph in Wheeling, St. Joseph Parish in Martinsburg, and St. Joseph the Worker Parish in Weirton. The remaining Sunday pilgrimage dates are Oct. 10 and Nov. 14.

“These three churches were chosen because they are major parishes within the diocese and are spread out across West Virginia,” said Bernadette McMasters Kime, director of the Office of Worship and Sacraments. “The cathedral was chosen because it is the mother church of the diocese. If anyone has not been to the cathedral, it is a trip worth considering. Not only is it an architectural wonder, it is also a symbol of our unity as a diocese.”

In celebrating the cathedral’s 95th anniversary in April, Bishop Brennan said that Archbishop John J. Swint wanted the cathedral to be “symbolic of all the Catholic Church stands for” in West Virginia. “We thank See Pilgrimage” on Page 6
“In the midst of the turmoil that we have experienced in our lives with our nation, state, and diocese, the words ‘Go to Joseph’ resound loud and clear.”

— Father Tom Gallagher, pastor of St. Joseph Parish in Martinsburg

Archbishop Swint and all who collaborated with him for giving us such a splendid cathedral church—the mother church of the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston.... Its lofty height and colorful art inspire us to reach higher and to frequent the sacraments and imitate the saints whose images adorn these walls.5

The book “Faith in the Mountains: A History of the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston,” offers the following account of the cathedral’s history: When the Diocese of Wheeling was created in 1850, St. James Church in Wheeling became the cathedral parish. The name of the parish was officially changed to St. Joseph in 1872. The new cathedral, built entirely of Indiana limestone in the Lombard Romanesque style, was completed and consecrated by Archbishop Swint on April 21, 1926.

The cathedral is renowned for its beauty, stained glass, art, and imagery especially its illuminating rose window, majestic dome, and awe-inspiring Triumphant Christ mural.

In Martinsburg, Father Tom Gallagher said it is an honor for his parish of St. Joseph’s to be named an official site for the diocesan pilgrimage. He invites all of the faithful to join the people of the parish in prayer, asking for the intercession of the patron of the Catholic Church and the diocese. An intercession needed now more than ever, Father Gallagher said.

“In the midst of the turmoil that we have experienced in our lives with our nation, state, and diocese; the words ‘Go to Joseph’ resound loud and clear,” Father Gallagher said. “While St. Joseph is a man of few words—none in the Bible, to be exact—his patronage and assistance speaks volumes. As St. Joseph was entrusted with the care and safety of the Holy Family, I believe his care and watchful protection for us is nonetheless. Now more than ever is it needed to renew our trust in the power of St. Joseph to lead us safely to his son, Jesus, and the Blessed Mother. On behalf of St. Joseph Parish in Martinsburg I would like to invite you to visit our church, join us for the celebration of the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, seeking the intercession and assistance of our great patron!”

According to “Faith in The Mountains,” the construction of St. Joseph Church was completed in 1860 and dedicated to St. Joseph. Not long after, the church was used as the headquarters for Union forces during the Civil War, with the main floor serving as a hospital and the basement as a stable for the soldiers’ horses, according to the book.

Parishioners are ready to welcome pilgrims to their historic church.

See “Pilgrimage” on Page 7
Pilgrimage ...

In announcing the pilgrimage last month, the diocese noted that those who visit a pilgrimage site will gain a plenary indulgence (under the usual conditions: sacramental confession, reception of holy Communion, prayer for the intentions of the pope, and total detachment from all sin, including venial sin).

The third diocesan pilgrimage church is St. Joseph the Worker in Weirton.

“We are excited ... to welcome all pilgrims,” said Very Rev. Dennis R. Schuelkens, Jr., pastor of the parish. “Please come and join us for the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass and enjoy the plenary indulgence that Bishop Brennan has designated for all pilgrims during the Year of St. Joseph.

May God bless you all and give you safe travels.”

Father Schuelkens said the parish’s principle Mass is at 11 a.m. on Sundays, but there is also a 4 p.m. Mass on Saturday, and additional Masses on Sunday at 7:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

St. Joseph the Worker Church was founded in 1957 to serve the growing number of Catholics in Weirton, according to “Faith in the Mountains.”

The church stands at the center of a welcoming campus of Catholic faith with Madonna High School and St. Joseph the Worker Grade School. The church also has the Communion of Saints Adoration Chapel, which sees roughly 250 adorers from the tri-state area every week.

In addition to the three churches designated for the diocesan pilgrimage, there are a number of other churches in the diocese named for St. Joseph which the faithful could add to their pilgrimage.

The oldest church in the diocese is St. Joseph Mission in Proctor, built in 1856. The church is part of the parish cluster with St. Vincent de Paul Parish in New Martinsville, Mater Dolorosa Parish in Paden City, and Holy Rosary Mission in Sistersville. The cluster is planning a pilgrimage to St. Joseph Mission on Sunday, Oct. 17, with the pastor, Msgr. Kevin M. Quirk.

The program for the day involves swapping the cluster Mass schedule so that the St. Joseph Mass that Sunday is 12:30 p.m. followed by the Litany of St. Joseph, tours of the historic church, and a luncheon in the parish hall. RSVPs are necessary in order to have a count of attendees. Call (304) 455-3555 to RSVP.

In the spring, St. Joseph Parish in Huntington will host an event for the Year of St. Joseph as well. The diocese also has St. Joseph chapels in Mason (Mason County), Pennsboro (Ritchie County), and Whitesville (Boone County).

The Catholic Church has a rich history of making pilgrimages to holy sites and during the Year of St. Joseph, Pope Francis and Bishop Brennan encourage the faithful to visit places dedicated under the patronage of St. Joseph, Kime said. The Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston, she said, is a great place to do that.

“Throughout the state of West Virginia we are blessed with parishes, missions, chapels ... all named for St. Joseph,” Kime said. “They each have their own unique histories, characteristics and architectural styles. That is why everyone should try to make a trip to one that they have never visited before. This is also a way to unite us as a diocesan church. Along the way, you will have the opportunity to meet other brothers and sisters in Christ and perhaps form lasting friendships.”

In opening the Year of St. Joseph for the diocese in March, Bishop Brennan encouraged all to pray for the intercession of the diocese’s patron and said that everyone can find in him a model of loving service to others. The bishop said, “We must pray to St. Joseph, that indispensable man in God’s plan, to intercede for us that we may have the wisdom and the courage to continue our pilgrimage of faith and become more effective agents of God’s integrity, justice, and peace.”

St. Joseph the Worker Church in Weirton is shown at sunset on Sept. 12.

St. John University Parish in Morgantown is inviting the faithful to partake in its Rosary Congress on Oct. 6 praying for the intercession of the Blessed Mother.

“In an era when so many Catholics no longer profess their faith or are lukewarm in living it out, we need Our Lady’s intercession more than ever,” said Father Brian Crenwelge, pastor of the parish. “We are asking for Our Lady to intercede at our parish but also throughout our whole diocese. We need her heavenly intercession so that we may have a spiritual revival in our state.”

St. John’s gathering is part of the national Diocesan Rosary Congresses which are being held across the country. The congresses are held to pray for life; reparation for sins; and for peace in cities, the nation, and world.

St. John’s Rosary Congress will begin with Mass at 7 a.m., followed by Adoration of the Most Blessed Sacrament all day. A volunteer will lead the praying of the rosary aloud at the start of each hour throughout the day until Mass is celebrated at 5:15 p.m.

“We encourage all who can to attend one of the Masses,” said Father Phillip Szabo, associate pastor of St. John’s, “and then to join us as well for an hour of adoration and one of the rosaries that will begin on the hour, every hour, until the evening Mass.”

St. John’s has a strong devotion to the Blessed Mother, Father Szabo said. He shared that the rosary is prayed before Mass on the weekends, and the traditional Marian antiphons are chanted after Mass during the week.

“Our Lady’s votive candle rack is always glowing brightly with the prayers that have been entrusted to her powerful intercession,” Father Szabo said. “Therefore, our participation in the Rosary Congress for life, reparation, and peace will not be anything out of the ordinary, but will rather be another opportunity for us to unite as a parish around our Blessed Mother.”

The parish’s Rosary Congress will be held during its usual period of Eucharistic Adoration, which is on Wednesdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Each Wednesday begins with Mass at 7 a.m. An evening Mass is also celebrated on Wednesdays at 5:15 p.m.

Special Collection Set for Oct. 2-3 for Hurricane Ida Recovery

By Joyce Bibey

WHEELING—Bishop Mark E. Brennan joins Archbishop José H. Gomez of Los Angeles, president of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops (USCCB), and bishops across the country asking the faithful to support a special collection to help with the recovery of Hurricane Ida. The collection in parishes and missions in the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston will be held at Masses the weekend of October 2-3.

Donations will go to the Bishops Emergency Disaster Fund to assist with the humanitarian, long-term recovery, and significant needs stemming from Hurricane Ida which devastated several states, specifically the pastoral and reconstruction needs of the Church, as well as the efforts of Catholic Charities USA and/or Catholic Relief Services.

Checks are to be made payable to your respective parish/mission and on the memo line indicate Hurricane Ida Relief. The parish/mission will then send one check for all contributions for this collection.

5K Virtual Walk & Run for Metro Valley Gabriel Project Open to All

CHARLESTON—The Second Annual Diaper Dash 5K Virtual Walk & Run is now underway to benefit the Metro Valley Gabriel Project. The event will be open to all to participate no matter where they live through Oct. 17.

“It's easy and fun to participate!” organizers said. “And open to everyone regardless of where you live.”

Registration is $30 plus processing fee. Then walk or run 5K (3.1 miles) any time, any place during the race period.

“Walk or run as an individual, or form a team and compete among yourselves for the best time,” organizers said. “Submit your time if you wish to let others know your achievement.”

All registrants will receive a race T-shirt featuring the new Diaper Dash logo.

“Join us and encourage your family, friends, business colleagues, and fellow parishioners to also participate,” organizers said. “Let’s all stay healthy during this difficult time and support the Gabriel Project!”

Wheeling University Again Named a Top Tier Regional Institution by U.S. News

WHEELING—U.S. News & World Report 2022 Best Colleges Guide, one of the go-to sources for national college rankings, has named Wheeling University a top-tier Best Regional University – South, maintaining the university’s 25-year tradition of being selected one of the best institutions in the region.

Wheeling University was ranked 80th in the Best Regional Universities, South Region by U.S. News. University President Ginny R. Favede said the university remains resolute in providing students an affordable, quality, Catholic education.

“Once again, U.S. News & World Report has distinguished Wheeling University for its academic excellence. This recognition as a top-tier university shows Wheeling continues to educate young men and women to be well-rounded individuals who excel in their chosen careers, while living our mission to serve others,” Favede said.

Every year the publication conducts extensive research of schools across the nation, first by arranging them into various subcategories, then ranking them within those categories according to a wide array of metrics. It is important to note that the rankings are driven primarily by quantitative data; that is, by measurable quantities, such as retention rate and student-faculty ratio, rather than opinion surveys or third-party oversight.

U.S. News defines regional universities as offering a broad scope of undergraduate degrees and master’s and doctorate level programs. The ratings are based on 17 indicators: undergraduate academic reputation, graduation and retention rates, faculty resources, student selectivity, financial resources per student, and alumni giving.

This year, Wheeling University and its academic programs have received outstanding accolades by a number of ranking services. Intelligent.com, Niche, Stackers.com, and Academic Influence have recognized the university as one of the best institutions in West Virginia. Additionally, Niche and Stacker chose the university as a Best Value College in West Virginia.

“Remaining true to our core values and mission – to educate men and women for life, leadership, and service – is why Wheeling University continues to be recognized for its exemplary educational experience,” said Favede. “Wheeling University is consistently ranked among the best of the best, because of our outstanding faculty, staff and students.”

While its name may have changed, Wheeling University remains true to its roots of providing its students with educational opportunities grounded in the Ignatian principles. Wheeling remains the only campus-based Catholic institution of higher education in West Virginia.

According to the Association of Catholic Colleges and Universities (ACCU), Wheeling University is one of only 10 diocesan-sponsored universities in the U.S. In addition to Wheeling, those other institutions include: Carroll College, Gannon University, Loras College, Seton Hill University, St. Ambrose University, St. Thomas University, Thomas More University, University of Dallas, and the University of St. Thomas (M.N.).

Sister Jane Harrington Announced as Board of Directors Chairman for Catholic Charities West Virginia

Sister Jane Harrington has been elected as the Chairman of the Board of Directors for Catholic Charities West Virginia (CCWVa).

“Sister Jane’s love for all West Virginians, as well as her understanding of board governance and the issues around poverty, make her a tremendous asset,” said Beth Zarate, CCWVa President and Chief Executive Officer. “Her sense of humor and warm personality make her a joy to work with. We are beyond excited to welcome her as our next Chairman of our Board of Directors.”

Harrington has served on the CCWVa Board of Directors since September 2013. Her passion to improve health and her dedication to reducing poverty have helped the agency work toward its mission of providing caring and compassionate services to those in need.

Harrington has served as Vice President of the CCWVa Board of Directors since 2017; she has also served on various committees, including the executive committee, finance committee, nominating committee and audit committee.

“I am continually inspired by the staff and board of Catholic Charities West Virginia – their generosity, hard work and genuine compassion manifested in their service to our neighbors,” said Sister Harrington. “As I begin a term as Board Chairman, I am grateful for the opportunity to support them and our mission.”

Sister Harrington is a member of the Congregation of St. Joseph and has significant experience in non-profit leadership and administration. Her expertise comes at an important time as the challenge for nonprofits continues to grow, with the pandemic and devastating weather events elevating needs.

“Sister Jane’s leadership will be instrumental as we discern a new three-year strategic plan and continue our goals to offer services that provide the greatest impact and reduce poverty across the state,” said Zarate.

The next three-year strategic plan will see a focus on a new hospital transition program partnership, placing a CCWVa social worker on site at hospitals around the state.

“The collaborative aspect of this project would promote the best utilization of community resources, and also provide an enhanced personal impact on the clients served through a more fluid transition from hospital to home,” said Zarate. The hospital transition program model will improve the health, wellness and home stability of community members being discharged from the hospital; at the same time, the program will decrease the number of patients being readmitted, saving the hospital time and resources and strain on emergency rooms.

CCWVa’s last strategic plan focused on increasing collaboration and agency services around addiction and recovery. The agency increased adult education services in partnership with recovery homes around the state; additionally, a successful partnership with WV Jobs & Hope has provided over $310,000 in direct assistance.

“Sister Jane and the CCWVa Board of Directors are clearly focused on CCWVa’s mission to best serve the most vulnerable West Virginians,” said Zarate. “We will continue to focus on adapting to changing times and reducing poverty across the state.”

El papa dijo que prefería no comentar directamente sobre el tema de la negación de la Comunión en Estados Unidos “porque no conozco los detalles; estoy hablando del principio” del asunto.

Durante una asamblea general de primavera en junio por Zoom, el 75% de obispos estadounidenses aprobaron la redacción de un documento, dirigido a todos los fieles católicos, sobre la coherencia eucarística. Durante largas discusiones sobre el documento antes de la votación, varios obispos señalaron específicamente al presidente Joe Biden y a la presidenta de la Cámara de Representantes, Nancy Pelosi, demócrata de California, que son católicos, por no buscar activamente poner fin al aborto legal, y dijeron que se debería negar Comunión a esos obispos. Cuando se le preguntó si alguna vez le había negado públicamente la Comunión a alguien, el papa Francisco dijo enfáticamente: “No, nunca le he negado la Eucaristía a nadie; ¡a nadie! No sé si alguien vino a mí en estas condiciones y me preguntó que despejó un poco el caos”, dijo.

Algunos lo llamaron “herejía, pero el papa dijo que quienes no entienden este principio deben preguntarse si es correcto matar una vida humana para resolver un problema. También recordó la reacción a su exhortación apostólica “Amoris Laetitia” y los debates en torno a dar la Comunión a los católicos divorciados o que se han casado de nuevo. El papa Francisco dijo que quienes no entienden este principio deben preguntarse si es correcto matar una vida humana para resolver un problema.

El papa dijo que se le llamó “herejía”, pero gracias a Dios por el cardenal (Chris toph) Schönborn, un gran teólogo, que despejó un poco el caos, dijo: “Siempre que uno se sienta condenado”, dijo el papa. “Son gente pobre que está temporalmente fuera, pero son hijos de Dios y necesitan nuestra acción pastoral”.

También se le preguntó al papa sobre su reciente anuncio de servicio público en agosto alentando a las personas a recibir la vacuna COVID-19 y si su declaración de que “las vacunas son un acto de amor” alienaría a los católicos que son escépticos sobre la vacuna. El papa Francisco dijo que lo vieron como “un poco extraño” porque “la humanidad tiene una historia de amistad con las vacunas”.

También dijo que las dudas sobre las vacunas pueden ser consecuencia de “la incertidumbre de la pandemia, de la vacuna en sí”, o de la notoriedad de algunas vacunas en el pasado que prácticamente eran “aguas destinadas”.

“También en el Colegio Cardenalicio hay algunos que no la aceptan directamente”. El papa, el pobre, se recuperó recientemente del virus, dijo el papa, en alusión al cardenal estadounidense Raymond L. Burke.

En Eslovaquia, la reciente legislación que exige la vacunación provocó protestas en el país, lo que provocó divisiones y tensiones, incluso dentro de la Iglesia católica. Aunque el gobierno inicialmente ordenó que todos los participantes de los eventos papales fueran vacunados, las autoridades relajaron sus regulaciones adicionales, como sospecha de mala conducta financiera, los formularios de queja están disponibles en línea en www.dwc.org, y mar a la línea directa de abuso sexual de la Diocesis al 833.230.5656.
