INNOVATIVE HOSPITAL TRANSITION PROGRAM LAUNCHED IN WHEELING

WHEELING—An innovative community health model for care transition has been launched in Wheeling, West Virginia.

Catholic Charities West Virginia (CCWV) has piloted a Hospital Transition Program in partnership with WVU Medicine Wheeling Hospital. The program provides a supportive transition for high-risk patients as they are discharged from the hospital.

"For people who have been in the hospital for a few days or more, returning home can be daunting—especially if they don’t have a lot of family or social support,” said Mark Phillips, CCWV Northern Regional Director. “Our Hospital Transition Program, in partnership with WVU Medicine Wheeling Hospital, helps to provide people with a sense of confidence and comfort as they transition from hospital to home.”

The Hospital Transition Program aims to serve people with higher risk factors for negative health outcomes. Persons admitted to WVU Medicine Wheeling Hospital are screened for certain social determinants of health—external environmental circumstances or factors that could contribute to decreased health and wellness. Examples include unstable housing, lack of steady income, lack of transportation or community technology, etc.

“We feel strongly that we at CCWV are experts in providing compassionate care to those affected by these complex social determinants of health,” said Sara Lindsay, CCWV Chief Program Officer. “Supporting people with their social and environmental needs, on top of their basic medical needs, involves a level of experience and skill to meet people where they are and accept their situations, unconditionally, as a starting point on their health journey.”

St. Michael Parish, NAMI Greater Wheeling to Host Interfaith Prayer Service on Mental Illness

WHEELING—St. Michael Parish will again join NAMI (National Alliance on Mental Illness) Greater Wheeling in hosting an interfaith service to pray for individuals and families living with mental illness at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 5. The event, which will take place at St. Michael Church in Wheeling, has been held every year for more than a decade as part of National Mental Illness Awareness Week.

Father Carlos Melocoton, pastor of St. Michael Parish, will be leading the prayer service. Chad Carter, St. Michael’s liturgical music director and organist, will again provide the music.

The annual prayer service is part of the parish’s stewardship activities.

This year’s speaker will be Wheeling resident Terra Crews, director of Development at Youth Services System. A Buckhannon native, Crews and her husband Micah moved to Wheeling with their four children nine years ago.

Crews said her struggle with mental health began when she was a young teenager. For more than two decades, she has worked hard to break the cycle of ignoring mental health issues in her family. She also tries to help others to do the same. Everyone who attends the vigil at St. Michael’s will have the opportunity to light a prayer candle in honor of a friend or loved one who lives with mental illness.

Along with the requirement to wear masks, social distancing will be maintained and there will be no social event following the prayer service.

For information, call Wendy Hinerman, St. Michael Parish manager, at (304) 242-1560.

Returning Home with Confidence
After sustaining injury from a severe fall at her home, Wheeling resident Laurie Quinn was admitted to WVU Medicine Wheeling Hospital. Upon discharge, Quinn was connected with Sister Jen Berridge, CCHV Wa Hospital Transition Program Case Manager.

Berridge worked with Quinn to develop a plan to holistically support her in her transition home, ensuring Quinn understood discharge instructions and was connected to community resources.

“Sister Jen has been a very big help,” said Quinn. “She has helped me out with food orders, with blankets and pillows, and a chair for me to get on and out of more easily, because when I got hurt it was hard to sit down.”

The Hospital Transition Program focuses on basic chronic disease management, home safety, support networks and food security from a nutritional angle.

“Through this Hospital Transition Program, we are able to do great things for the people who need it the most,” said Deacon Paul Lim, WVU Medicine Wheeling Hospital Vice President of Mission Integration. “WVU Medicine Wheeling Hospital is so proud to have this truly unprecedented partnership where patients now have access to the array of services at Catholic Charities West Virginia. This is going to change the lives of so many and pave the way for even stronger collaboration moving forward.”

Catholic Leaders urge Humane Treatment for Haitian Migrants as Numbers Grow

By Julie Asher, Catholic News Service

WASHINGTON (CNS) — The chairman of the U.S. bishops’ migration committee and the head of Catholic Charities USA issued a joint statement Sept. 22 urging humane treatment of Haitians and other migrants as their numbers grow in southern Texas at the U.S.-Mexico border.

Thousands of Haitians have made their way across the Rio Grande from Mexico and illegally entered the United States at the Del Rio Sector of the border, roughly 143 miles west of San Antonio.

The Haitians and other migrants have crossed the Rio International Bridge awaiting processing, while coping with temperatures exceeding 100 degrees and limited access to food, water and shelter.

“We call on the U.S. government to reassess its treatment of migrants in Del Rio and elsewhere along the U.S.-Mexico border, especially Haitians, who face life-threatening conditions if returned to Haiti and possible discrimination if expelled to third countries,” said Auxiliary Bishop Mario E. Dorsonville of Washington and Dominican Sister Mary J. Novak, accused the U.S. Customs and Border Protection agents and a court busy with horseback horses as they tried to control the crowd. CBP’s Office of Professional Responsibility was investigating the incident, but agents said they were using long reins to control their horses as they tried to control the crowd.

She also criticized “the continued misuse of Title 42,” saying it “relies on the false idea that we have to choose between welcoming people fleeing violence and protecting communities from the pandemic. We can do both.”

“The Biden administration must end Title 42 immediately and welcome immigrants and asylum-seekers with dignity,” she said.

In May, those Haitians who currently reside in the United States under Temporary Protected Status were told they could apply for an 18-month extension of that status so long as they meet eligibility requirements. TPS grants a work permit and residence temporarily in the United States.

40 Days for Life Campaign to End Abortion Begins in Over 1,000 Cities

By Catholic News Service

BRYAN, Texas (CNS) — The national 40 Days for Life organization launched its fall campaign Sept. 22, with volunteers in over 1,000 cities across the country planning to pray, fast and hold 24-hour vigils outside abortion clinics. They also will participate in outreach to the community to promote awareness about abortion and outreach directly to women considering abortion.

“With the changing abortion landscape, as well as things happening legislatively in the states and nationally in the Supreme Court, there has never been a greater time for this coordinated pro-life movement in our nation,” said Shawn Carney, president and CEO of the Texas-based organization. “Great strides are being made to end abortion, and we know these peaceful vigils make a difference,” Carney said in a statement. Regarding this “changing” landscape, he pointed to the “national angst and protests related to abortion, specifically concerning the Texas ‘heartbeat bill,’” which bans abortions in the state after six weeks of pregnancy and allows an exception only in the case of a medical emergency.

On Dec. 1, the Supreme Court will hear oral arguments in an appeal from Mississippi to keep its ban on abortions after 15 weeks of pregnancy, and supporters of the law are urging the court to reexamine its previous abortion rulings, including 1973’s Roe v. Wade ruling legalizing abortion nationwide.

Carney said the goal of the 40 Days for Life event, which will end Oct. 31, “is threefold.”

The Catholic Spirit 5
Church Suffers Temptation to go Backward, Pope Tells Jesuits in Slovakia

By Junno Arocho Esteves, Catholic News Service

VATICAN CITY (CNS) — The Catholic Church suffers from a temptation to return to attitudes and practices of the past, an attitude that blocks pastoral outreach to many of those who are marginalized, Pope Francis told Jesuits in Slovakia.

“We are suffering this today in the church: the ideology of going backward. It is an ideology that colonizes minds. It is a form of ideological colonization,” the pope told his Jesuit confreres Sept. 12 during a meeting at the apostolic nunciature in Bratislava.

He also said the purpose of the 2015 Synod of Bishops on the family was “to make it understood that couples in second unions are not already condemned to hell.”

Today, he said, many in the church are afraid of accompanying people “with sexual diversity.”

“That is why today we look back to the past: to seek security. It frightens us to celebrate before the people of God who look us in the face and tell us the truth. It frightens us to go forward in pastoral experiences,” the pope said.

“This is the evil of this moment: namely, to seek the path in rigidity and clericalism, which are two perversions,” he said.

As is customary when the pope meets Jesuits during a foreign trip, a transcript of his remarks was released weeks later by the Jesuit journal La Civiltà Cattolica.

According to the text published Sept. 21, Pope Francis greeted the 53 Slovak Jesuits and expressed surprise at the “phenomenon” of those who are marginalized, Pope Francis told Jesuits in Slovakia. The ’plague’ is spreading everywhere,” the pope said jokingly.

When asked how he was feeling a month after undergoing intestinal surgery, the pope said he was “still alive even though some people wanted me to die.”

“I didn’t know there were so many Jesuits here in Slovakia. The ‘plague’ is spreading everywhere,” the pope said jokingly.

“When I talk about ideology,” he said, “I’m talking about the idea, the abstraction in which everything is possible, not about the concrete life of people and their real situation.”

Pope Francis was also asked about how he deals with criticism against him by “people who look at you with suspicion.”

Without naming it, the pope said there was “a large Catholic television channel that has no hesitation in constantly speaking ill of the pope” and that while he feels he personally deserves “attacks and insults because I am a sinner,” the Catholic Church does not.

“They are the work of the devil. I have also said this to some of them,” he said.

Pope Francis also commented on his recent apostolic letter “Traditionis Custodes” (“Guardians of the Tradition”), which restored the obligation that priests have their bishop’s permission to celebrate Mass using the “extraordinary form” of the Mass.

“The pope said the “phenomenon” of young priests who “after a month of ordination go to the bishop” to ask to celebrate in Latin was an indication “that we are going backward.”

He also recalled the response of one cardinal who was asked for permission by two newly ordained priests to learn Latin to celebrate the “extraordinary” form of the Mass.

“With a sense of humor, he replied: ‘But there are many Hispanics in the diocese! Study Spanish to be able to preach. Then, when you have studied Spanish, come back to me and I’ll tell you how many Vietnamese there are in the diocese, and I’ll ask you to study Vietnamese. Then, when you have learned Vietnamese, I will give you permission to study Latin,’” the pope recounted.

“So, he made them ‘land,’ he made them return to earth,” the pope said.
Inwood Knights of Columbus Sponsor Effort to Encourage Adoration

INWOOD—In an effort to encourage more active participation of parishioners in monthly First Friday Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament at St. Leo Church in Inwood, the local Knights of Columbus council is sponsoring a renewed effort and expand the time of adoration.

The goal of the initiative is also to ensure that a sufficient number of people committed to adoration are present throughout the duration of the First Friday Adoration. Father Alfred Obiudu, pastor of St. Leo’s, has requested that a minimum of two people be present during each hour of adoration.

The initiative begins on the first Friday of each month, beginning in October. Following the noon Mass every First Friday, the Blessed Sacrament will be exposed on the altar and adoration will continue until 9 p.m., when the Blessed Sacrament is reposed to the tabernacle.

“Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament is an ancient tradition of the church,” parish officials said. “Many saints, including Pope St. John Paul II, stated that adoration is vital to the life of the church as a whole, and confers great graces to those who participate in it. Adoration gives each of us the opportunity to spend time with the Lord in much the same way we would visit a dear friend. It also avails us the opportunity (as members of the Body of Christ) to spend time in prayerful thanks and praise to God for the gift of His Son, Jesus Christ, who has made Himself readily present among us, under the auspices of Consecrated Bread and Wine and Food for Humanity.” All members of the parish and anyone who wishes to participate reverently is welcome and encouraged to attend.

For the continued success of the eight hours of adoration, the parish is in dire need of at least two people per hour, who are willing to commit to being present for each of the eight hours of adoration.

“A total number of 16 people are required to guarantee the continued success of this effort,” parish officials said. “God Bless our effort.”

Those willing to participate in this capacity, are asked to contact Steve Smith at (703) 932-4797 or sdsmith21@hotmail.com for more information.

‘God is Good!’ Martinsburg Catholic Daughters Say at Gathering

“God Is Good! All The Time!” This was the theme of the September social of the Catholic Daughters of the Americas Court #392 of Martinsburg. After more than 18 months of the pandemic, CDA members and guests were able to gather and were treated to a wonderful evening of great food, spiritual discussion, and socialization, said Lisa Cerevalo, West Virginia Catholic Daughters state regent.

The evening began with those in attendance hearing from Father Aloysius N. Boh, administrator of St. Bernadette Parish in Hedgesville. Father Boh is from the Diocese of Kumba, Cameroon, and explained why he truly believes “God is Good!” Yes, God does place us where we need to be, and helps to direct us in our lives, he shared.

Other guests in attendance were Father William Kuchinsky, supervisor of Prison Ministry for the Diocese of Wheeling-Charleston, and diocesan seminarians attending Mount St. Mary’s Seminary in Emmitsburg, Md. They were John Sopinski, Tyler Boyd, Dominic Re, and Bryan Tedeschii.

Time was spent during the evening learning a little about each other, said Cerevalo, who is also a member of Court Martinsburg. An invitation from the seminarians was extended to all to visit them in Emmitsburg. Court Martinsburg will work on the trip for the spring of 2022, Cerevalo said.

Court Martinsburg consists of members from the parishes of Berkeley and Jefferson counties in the Eastern Panhandle: St. Joseph’s, St. Leo’s, St. James the Greater in Charles Town, and St. Agnes in Shepherdstown.

Knights Bringing Coats for Kids in Need across West Virginia

WEIRTON—When families struggle to clothe their children with warm coats in the winter, Knights of Columbus councils help meet this basic need with the Coats for Kids program. The program allows councils across North America to purchase new winter coats for children and to distribute them to children in need in their local communities. Since the program’s launching in 2009, nearly 500,000 coats have been distributed in 49 states and all 10 Canadian provinces.

The Knights of Columbus Council #3734 of Weirton recently donated 24 coats to St. Paul School and St. Joseph Grade School in Weirton as part of the program.

This is just one of the many programs and organizations the council supports.

CIUDAD DEL VATICANO (CNS)—La Iglesia Católica sufrió la tentación de intentar volver a las actitudes y prácticas del pasado, una actitud que bloquea el alcance pastoral de muchos de los mártir, dijo el papa Francisco a los jesuitas en Eslovaquia.

"Estamos sufriendo esto hoy en la iglesia: la ideología del retroceso. Es una ideología que coloniza las mentes. Es una forma de colonización ideológica", dijo el papa a sus hermanos jesuitas el 12 de septiembre durante un encuentro en la nunciatura apostólica en Bratislava.

También dijo que el propósito del Sínodo de los Obispos de 2015 sobre la familia era "hacer entender que las parejas en segundas uniones no están ya condensadas al interior de la iglesia."

Hoy, dijo, muchos en la iglesia tienen miedo de acompañar a personas "con diversidad sexual".

"Por eso hoy miramos hacia el pasado: para buscar seguridad. Nos da miedo celebrar ante el pueblo de Dios que nos mira a la cara y nos dice la verdad. Nos da miedo seguir adelante en las experiencias de Dios que nos mira a la cara y nos dice la verdad."

El papa explicó que con las parejas "con diversidad sexual" hay que tener cuidado. "Su identidad, su diversidad sexual, son un atractivo diabólico", que debe ser expuesto, y también el "fenómeno" de los sacerdotes jóvenes que "después de un mes de ordenación acuden al obispo para pedirle que celebre en latín era un indio de 'que estamos retrocediendo'."

El papa recordó que en el sínodo de 2021 se discutieron temas como el ordenación a sacerdote de hombres "con diversidad sexual". "El sínodo es un trabajo pastoral con ellos", ayudó a informar. "Sin embargo, esto no tiene nada que ver con la teoría de género, como si una persona pudiera decidir abstractamente a voluntad si y cuándo ser hombre o mujer.

"La abstracción es siempre un problema para mí", expresó el papa. "Con sentido del humor me respondió: '¡Pero hay muchos hispanos en la diócesis! Estudia español para poder predicar. Luego, cuando hayas estudiado español, vuelve a verme y te diré cuántos vietnamitas hay en esta diócesis y te pediré que estudies vietnamita. Luego, cuando hayas aprendido vietnamita, te daré permiso para estudiar latín'," dijo el papa.

WVU Medicine Encourages Patients to Utilize Their Local Urgent Care Centers

MORGANTOWN—As COVID-19 cases across the state and country continue to rise, WVU Medicine Emergency Medicine encourages those seeking treatment to utilize their local urgent care centers when possible.

“When it comes to medical emergencies, we do not want people to delay getting the care that they need. In some cases, like heart attack or stroke, delaying care can lead to catastrophic consequences,” Christopher Goode, M.D., chair of WVU Medicine Emergency Medicine, said. “What we’re encouraging people to do is to go to an urgent care center when their emergency is best suited for that level of care.”

Life-threatening emergencies and those that pose a risk of disability, such as symptoms of a heart attack or stroke, injuries sustained in a vehicle crash, and lacerations that cause substantial bleeding, should be treated in an emergency department.

Minor, unexpected injuries and illnesses that do not fall into those categories, including ear infections, strep throat, simple abdominal pain, urinary tract infections, minor lacerations, sprains, and simple fractures, can be treated at an urgent care center. The wait times are often shorter, and the cost is lower than going to the emergency department.

There are WVU Medicine Urgent Care locations in Charles Town, Fairmont, Inwood, Morgantown, Parkersburg, and Spring Mills in West Virginia; Grantsville and McHenry in Maryland; and Marietta, Ohio.

Those who suspect they may have COVID-19, including those who develop a fever, cough, or other symptoms and have been in close contact with someone known to have COVID-19 as well as those who have recently traveled to an area with ongoing spread, should first call their healthcare provider before seeking treatment.

Anyone experiencing emergency warning signs, including but not limited to trouble breathing; persistent pain or pressure in the chest; new confusion; inability to wake or stay awake; or pale, gray, or blue-colored skin, lips, or nail beds, depending on skin tone, should get help immediately. Either call 911 or call the closest emergency department, and let the operator know that care is being sought for someone who has or may have COVID-19.

Those who are unsure whether or not they should be seen should call their local health departments for guidance. Assistance can also be found on the website of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

“Regardless of where you seek care – whether it’s at one of our urgent care centers or at our emergency departments – it’s important to remember that it is safe to receive care during the pandemic,” Dr. Goode said. “We are taking the appropriate steps to ensure the safety of our patients and our staff.”

The best way to stop the spread of COVID-19 is to receive the vaccine. The Pfizer/BioNTech vaccine is now FDA-approved for people ages 16 and older. The vaccine is still designated for use under FDA emergency use authorization for children ages 12 to 15. Many people have questions about safety, possible side effects, and effectiveness. WVU Medicine officials answer frequently asked questions about the COVID-19 vaccine.
